Money and Guns.
A Rockefeller Million.
To Boycott Italy.
Pushing a Beer Bill.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

TWO THINGS are powerful in this country, money and sawed-off shotguns and other paraphernalia of the gangster.

Mr. Thaw escaped easily from the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminally Insane some time ago. He had money.

Yesterday from the same hospital escaped six supposed maniacs, some of them convicted murderers. Three gunmen rejoined them, defying the state, overpowering the guards.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, SR., and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., each give $500,000 to help the unemployment problem in New York, where they live.

A generous gift, it is nothing to the hundreds of millions that the Rockefellers give to fight disease and encourage education and science all over the world.

INCLUDING THE Rockefeller $1,000,000, rich New York has raised, in all, a little over $4,000,000.

If there are, as Mr. Green, of the American Federation of Labor, says, 4,000,000 out of work, then $4,000,000 won't go far. This country gave 10,000 millions to foreign nations, fighting.

WAR IS EXCITING. Poverty and misery are not exciting or interesting.

No wonder the Communist perched on his soap box says:

"I can attract more attention by throwing a stone through a Fifth avenue window than you could by starving to death."

IT IS SUGGESTED that Mussolini may be compelled to take the advice of the Big Three concerning Italy's navy, etc., by cutting off her credit. The Big Three, as you know, are France, Great Britain and the United States.

If they arrange as suggested to refuse all loans to Italy, Mussolini might find it difficult to survive.

ON THE OTHER hand, something might happen that would hurt the feelings of the Big Three considerably more than Mussolini's Italy has ever hurt them.

With Mussolini down, chaos, followed by anarchy, and disagreeable consequences, might develop.

The Big Three should know that one Russia in Europe is enough at a time.

WET CONGRESSMEN have a beer bill, and will push it, but, outnumbered nearly three to one by drys, they probably will not push it far. However, "Ain't it a good offer?" as Mr. Fields said to Mr. Weber, when he hadn't a dollar, and bid $5,000 for a dog.

WET MEMBERS might arouse interest by scattering about the House pictures of a veteran British athlete, nearing three score and ten, famous, who has recently traveled from London to Burton-on-Trent, the great beer center, 153 miles, drinking nothing but beer on the way. You could not do that on whisky, although you might do it on ice water, if you did not drink too much.

MR. DEWART, who owns the New York Sun, thinks this country should not be pitchforked into the League of Nations, through the back door of the World Court, and wisely decides to let the people know about it.

He will put his views into a page advertisement, to be printed in 100 newspapers, at his expense.

The next best thing to owning newspapers all over the country is to advertise in newspapers all over the country.

FOOD RIOTS in Germany aggravate the government's difficulties. Even the Allies may ask themselves eventually how long a nation will continue to pay hundreds of millions a year in gold, for a war that ended 12 years ago, when the nation's own people haven't enough to eat.

OTHER COUNTRIES may have serious food troubles such as they have in Germany. We shall have no riots, presumably, because we need not have them.

Three things men must have, food, shelter, heat. There are plenty of buildings for shelter, and one of our national troubles is TOO MUCH coal and oil. No trouble about heat.

ANOTHER OF our problems is how to get rid of surplus food. The government is holding about 90 million bushels of wheat, wondering what to do with it. Men could live on boiled wheat, if they had to. Roman soldiers ate it raw, carrying it in a pouch at their belts on long marches. Hence the magnificently even teeth in old Roman skulls.

There can be no excuse for food riots, or any undeserved hunger in this country.

CONGRESS CONSIDERS forbidding all immigration into the United States for five years. The fear is that somebody might take the job of an American, or become a public charge.

Legislators should ask themselves what produced American prosperity? Was it the native red Indian, or was it the immigrant from Europe? How many of the gentlemen who would shut out everybody in Europe are descended, more or less closely, from immigrants that came here with nothing?

WHEN WE HAD 4,000,000 population, there was just one man in the United States able

FRANK WILLS RICHES TO FAMILY

Estate Valued at Millions; Steel Man Gave Fortune To Charity During Life

An estate valued at many millions was disposed of by Isaac W. Frank, steel man and philanthropist, before his death by setting up a life trust, it was reliably learned today.

During his lifetime Mr. Frank gave a fortune to charitable and philanthropic enterprises.

Mr. Frank's widow, Mrs. Tinnie Klee Frank, three children, Mrs. S. J. Anathan, William K. Frank and Robert Frank, with seven grandchildren, were made the beneficiaries.

Mr. Frank made a will leaving to his children the part of his estate he had not distributed in the trust fund. It will be filed Monday.

MANY GIFTS

Frank recently committed himself to the contribution of about $300,000 to the fund being raised in Pittsburgh to pay off the deficits and the mortgages and furnish building funds for the Rodef Shalom Temple, the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association, the Montefiore Hospital and other institutions affiliated with the Federated Jewish Philanthropies of the City of Pittsburgh, in which sum was also included $30,000 for the University of Pittsburgh and about $15,000 to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

UNNECESSARY IN WILL

It was learned that the will states:

"During my life I have made provision for various philanthropic and charitable institu-

Red-Haired Man, 'Strip' Dweller, Sought as Leader Of Oakland Bandit Trio

Two armed robbers held up the paymaster of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and his assistant in the basement dining room of the club, where 15 girl and men employes were eating their noon meal today, and escaped with about $5,000, half the two-week payroll.

In less than an hour police and detectives were scouring the district for a red-haired denizen of the Strip, whom they believed, from descriptions obtained, to have been one of the bandits.

Two of the bandits, one wearing dark glasses alighted from a sedan in the private entrance to the basement of the association, Fifth avenue and Bigelow boulevard, shortly before noon, leaving a third man at the wheel.

The two inquired of Victor Volka, a waiter, where they were paying off. Volka showed them, he told police.

GUNS DRAWN

With guns drawn the two strode into the dining room, where Paymaster Samuel Cornell and his aide, Samuel Ross, stood in a cashier's cage behind an old bar.

One of the men commanded:

"Let's go, give us the money."

One brushed Cornell aside and grabbed a basket containing money, which Cornell was placing in envelopes. Ross thought at

POISON ALCOHOL FIGHT OPENS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—The first fight over prohibition in this session of Congress was staged in the House today when the anti-dry bloc opened its campaign to outlaw poison alcohol.

Representative Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, a physician, took the floor to attack the policy of the Treasury of requiring the use of poisonous denaturants in industrial alcohol. He said:

"We are going to battle today for a principle—a principle that has aroused the nation. Thousands of citizens are being killed by drinking poison alcohol.

"I say that it is a shame that in this twentieth century civilization we should be the nation that is using poison in alcohol when it is not necessary."

Sirovich talked for 10 minutes and asked for more time, but Representative Sproul (Rep.), of Illinois, who was defeated in the November 4 elections, objected.

HUNT PRESSED FOR MANIACS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—One of the most desperate manhunts in the history of New York City was on today as police moved to close in on six lunatics who escaped from the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane after three gunmen, one a former inmate, invaded the institution and overpowered three guards.

One positive clue that a member of the demented gang was in New York has been revealed to the authorities. Frank Vanderkuylen, murderer and acid thrower, is known to have attempted to visit his wife.

William F. Nelson, who led two gunmen to the hospital and engineered the break, escaped alone last November 19.

Fog-Bound Plane Landed By Radio at Bettis

How directions by radio landed a westbound plane of the Transcontinental and Western Air Line at Bettis Field here during heavy fog yesterday without injury to plane or passengers, was related today by airport officials.

The tri-motored plane, piloted by Capt. Ted Weaver, was unable to land because of "zero" visibility. After he radioed J. Bache, ground radio operator, he intended going to Butler airport, the radio man gave instructions which enabled the ship to descend slowly and make a blind landing. Flares and gasoline ignited around the landing concourse could not be seen. The feat took about 40 minutes. Five passengers were in the plane. After taking on mail the craft continued its westward flight.

6 DIE IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Six persons, one a boy, are dead and 14 injured as a result of a series of automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district last night and today.

A 17-year-old boy was held by police, accused of being a hit-run driver who sped away last night, leaving a victim of his car dead in the street.

The dead were Arthur M. Spencer, about 60, a real estate dealer, of 2662 Brighton road, victim of the hit-run driver; Paul Walters, 14, of Treveskyn; Edward Cykoski, 23, of 622 Doyle avenue, West Homestead; Peter Orbarski, 45, of Bethel Township; Clarence Shugs, 23, of Center avenue, Pitcairn, and Jerome G. Hughes, 22, of 6709 Hudson place.

SCHOOL HEAD SENTENCED

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Dec. 5.—Superintendent of the Jefferson County Schools C. A. Anderson was sentenced at noon today on two charges preferred by Miss Anna Kyle, assistant superintendent of schools, to three months in the county jail, to pay the cost of the trial, $5 a week for the support of a child until it reaches the age of 14, and $500 in living expenses.

Before sentence was made Sebastian Pugliese, who assisted in the prosecution of Anderson, told Judge Reed that neither the prosecutrix nor the father of Miss Kyle desired a jail sentence.

Before sentence was passed, Mr. Anderson's attorney, Raymond E. Brown, withdrew his motion for a new trial of the case.

Vote Machine Ruling Exceptions Argued

Arguments were heard before three judges in court today on exceptions to the ruling of Judge F. P. Patterson, who dismissed injunction proceedings to invalidate the $1,000,000 voting machine contract let by the county to the Foole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore.

Half Mill Tax Cut Next Year Possible

Possibility of a one-half mill tax reduction next year was seen today with Mayor Charles H. World to See Love Notes Of Ellen Terry, Shaw

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Endearing letters of George Bernard Shaw and the late Ellen Terry, who met but once in 30 years of correspondence, are to be published.

Elbridge L. Adams, of the Fountain Press, has permitted a representative of the New York Times to view the correspondence, comprising 100 epistles from Shaw and many more from Miss Terry, but declined to permit quotations from those of the dramatist.

Shaw "frankly adored" Miss Terry, says the Times, and the letters "contain Shaw's philosophy of love, sometimes tender and sometimes ardent, as he eloquently expressed it again and again to the woman he loved."

Shaw has written a preface to the correspondence in which he warns that the letters must not be interpreted as one might interpret letters, similarly intimate in phrase, between a man and woman of suburban viewpoint. The endearments, he says, are an expression of the more outspoken and perhaps more fundamentally decent atmosphere of the theater.

Their acquaintance began in 1890 when Miss Terry wrote Shaw, then musical critic on the World in London, and continued to her death in 1928. Their interchanges became lengthy and almost daily.

Miss Terry did not come face to face with her admirer until 1905, when they met casually as author and actress and parted never to see each other again, though the letters continued. Miss Terry married James Carew, an American actor, in her company, a short time later.

The actress, in letters, often reproached herself for taking too much time from her "Dear Bernie."

FOSTER CHARGES CONGRESS COMMITTEE SEEKS RUSS WAR

COMMUNIST DEFIANT AT QUIZ

Denounces Investigators; Claims Cabinet Members Back Anti-Soviet Plot

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—William Z. Foster, twice Communist candidate for President, today faced the Fish Communist investigating committee and denounced it as an agency to outlaw Communism and prepare war against the Soviet Union.

He charged that a plot to war on Russia had reached into the United States government. After citing the alleged European plot, which had been denied by the powers, Foster said:

"The recent speeches of Admiral Pratt and of Hoover cabinet members, Wilbur and Hyde, show that this plot reaches into the very center of the United States government.

"WAR ON SOVIET"

"The purpose of the Fish committee is not only the suppression of the working class at home, but to prepare war against the Soviet Union."

An air of extreme politeness pervaded the room during the appearance of Foster, perhaps the country's most widely-known Communist.

He declined to be sworn, but affirmed to tell the truth. Chairman Fish (Rep.), of New York, asked:

"You don't believe in a supreme being?"

"No."

10,000 COMMUNISTS

Foster disclosed that Communists paying dues in the United States number 10,000 to 12,000.

Employment insurance, he said, is now the principal avenue of approach to the workers. Millions favor it, he said.

Representative Bachmann (Rep.), West Virginia, asked for verification of charges that Negroes were suppressed and disfranchised in West Virginia. Foster replied:

"West Virginia is the most tyrannically rule state in the United States."

He testified that white and colored workmen alike were "shot down mercilessly" in West Virginia mining districts.

Bachmann said he was "sorry you are not informed" of conditions in that state.

P. A. A. HELD UP BY GUNMEN

first the holdup was a joke until one of the robbers held a gun at his head and said:

"Reach for the ceiling." He did.

The bandits then backed out, keeping the paymaster covered. The holdup occurred so quickly that the employes in the room scarcely realized what had happened.

SOUNDS WARNING

John Wensell, a truck driver, saw one of the bandits grab the basket and run. He notified the club office by telephone.

The holdup men fled in the car, which had been held ready, with the motor running.

Cornell said he had paid off about half the 200 employes when the holdup took place. Police were informed the total payroll amounted to between $9,000 and $10,000.

Volka told detectives he thought he knew one of the robbers. One was described as being about 24 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weight 170 pounds, wearing a dark suit and dark overcoat. The other was about 25, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, wearing a gray topcoat. No description of the man at the wheel was obtained.

SENATE TO GET COURT FACTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The message of transmittal which will accompany the League Court protocol when President Hoover sends it to the Senate has been completed. The White House had expected to send the proposals to the Capitol today or tomorrow, but the recess of the Senate until Monday makes such procedure impossible.

President Hoover has been in touch with Secretary Stimson in the preparation of the proposals all week. The message of transmittal will be very brief.

G. A. Cochran, Noted N. Y. Turfman, Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Gifford A. Cochran, multi-millionaire, owner of one of the greatest racing stables in America, was found dead early today, slumped in the lobby of an apartment at 717 Madison avenue. A milkman, making early morning deliveries found the body and notified police. Dr. Greenblatt, from City Hospital, pronounced death and gave heart failure as the probable cause.

A. W. THOMPSON WILL FILED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—The will of Arthur W. Thompson, filed for probate here, disposes of his estate, valued at "more than $200,000."

In it he leaves $1,000 to Allegheny College, Meadville; $5,000 each to two sisters, Mrs. J. E. Shields, of Arnold, Pa., and Mrs. Gwynn Nelson. A similar amount is left in trust for a nephew, James A. Shields, and $15,000 is left in trust for three nieces, Marjorie Ann, Mary Ellen and Vivian Fueller.

The remainder is left to his wife, Marion Gordon Thompson, and at her death or remarriage to his children, Gordon A. Jr., and Roland D. Thompson.

The Girard Trust Company is named executor.

Thompson was formerly president of the Philadelphia Company, holding corporation of Pittsburgh Public Utilities.

N. Y. Jobless Fund Goal Now 8 Million

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Because of the number of workers still without jobs, New York's $6,000,000 unemployed fund today had been advanced to $8,000,000. The new goal will give temporary work to those needing immediate assistance, it was announced by the emergency employment committee. The drive for the fund will end December 17.

FREE PROWLER SUSPECT

Captured last night after police fired a dozen shots, Elwood Coyle, 21, of 6608 Beacon street, was discharged when arraigned before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court today.

Police testified they had been summoned to the home of Morris Roth, 1874 Shaw avenue, by a report that a man was prowling in the rear yard. As they arrived they saw a figure dash across the street into a woods. They fired and commanded him to halt.

Coyle surrendered and explained that he was only passing through the yard. Police said they believed the young man's story.

TAILORS SOUGHT FOR 'NUMBERS'

Three tailors who, police say, gave chances on the clearing house pool with memberships in a suit club were being sought by city detectives today after they forfeited $200 bond each by failing to appear at a hearing in Central Police Court.

Arrested two weeks ago on charges of operating a business without a city license or permit, they were docketed as Jacob P. Gregory, 54, Webster Hall; his brother, Ollie, 45, of McKeesport, and Clarence Snyder, 42, of Webster Hall.

Detectives say they operated their suit club from a shop in the Benedum-Trees Building, Third avenue.

E. M. HERR SEES BETTER TIMES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—E. M. Herr, vice chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, told the Mid-Day Club here today there were "many reasons for feeling certain that good progress will be made in business of all kinds before many months have passed."

He said:

"With a splendid record of industrial progress just behind us, with our banks and other financial institutions in a very strong position, with the largest gold supply in the world, with our inventories at a low figure and with our credit and transportation facilities in spendid condition for efficient service, no one can doubt that the present depression in business will be over soon and that still greater progress is before us."

Periods of unemployment, he added, usually are due to "violent changes in industrial and commercial conditions which cannot be quickly adjusted, and until they are adjusted production in nearly every line must slow up."

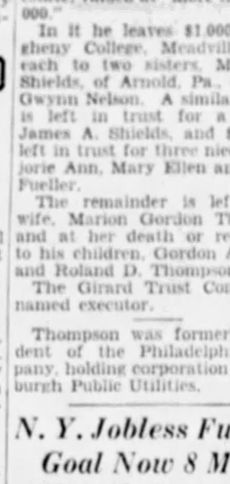
Coolidge Hails Budget As Peace Document

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 5.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Everyone knows that the United States Treasury is able to meet its obligations. Nevertheless satisfaction comes from having this knowledge confirmed by the budget message.

Rightly interpreted, the annual budget is our most impressive practical peace document. Outside of the postoffice, the total budget is about thirty-nine hundred million dollars, of which over twenty eight hundred are for debt service, veteran's bureau and Army and Navy, which include some civil activities. Past wars and national defense cost a very large sum. It pays to be at peace.



Calvin Coolidge

Another interesting and suggestive item is the postoffice expenditures of about eight hundred and fifty million, of which one hundred and fourteen millions has to be paid from general revenue. The postoffice lacks that much of being self supporting. While its expenditures on the whole are economical, it demonstrates the great disabilities of the government in business. The Congress votes wages and expenditures with little regard to income, sometimes passing such bills over a veto, but is very reluctant to vote rates which will pay for services rendered. That will always be the case in any government business. The tax payers must pay. The budget is eloquent against war and against government in business.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

SEEK TO PASS JOB BILL BY CHRISTMAS

Congress Speeds Up in Drive To Allot $175,000,000 For Work and Farm Aid

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Congress sped its legislative machinery today in the hope of passing measures authorizing expenditure of not less than $175,000,000 for unemployment and drought relief before Christmas.

These funds may be only the beginning of a congressional program. A rising tide of sentiment among both Republicans and Democrats for extraordinary governmental relief measures was evidenced in the introduction of new bills and in debate.

Director of the Budget J. Clawson Roop went before the House Appropriations Committee to urge enactment of the administration's bill authorizing emergency expenditures of $150,000,000 in a six months' period.

Efforts were made by administration leaders to meet the objections raised to Mr. Hoover's lumpsum plan of appropriating $150,000,000 for relief. Opponents regarded the detailed budget estimates submitted by Mr. Hoover as a concession. Representative Wood (Rep.), of Indiana, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, promised to give Congress ample information as to how the fund would be spent.

Flannery Backers Confer With Wood

Col. Arthur O. Woods, chairman of the President's unemployment commission, today was expected to recommend J. Rogers Flannery, Pittsburgh industrialist, for appointment as chairman of a sub-committee on the jobless in the Western Pennsylvania district.

Attorney Harry I. Miller, representing a group of local financiers, industrialists, manufacturers and and civic leaders, was in Washington today to confer with Woods relative to the appointment. Senator James J. Davis was to attend the party.

The committees Flannery would head, should he be appointed, would include various industrial and civic leaders. Express purpose would be speedy action on completion of governmental and local building projects, relief for the needy and a plan to see that every man has a job during the present business depression.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—A man who was killed last night when a subway train struck him as he leaned over a platform, was identified today from papers in his pockets as Luciano Cocodrille, 43, of Jessop, Pa. Witnesses said the man leaned over, apparently unaware of his danger, as the train drew into the station.

DROUGHT RELIEF BILL COMING UP MONDAY

$60,000,000 Measure to Be Reported to Senate, Says McNary, Committee Head

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The bill authorizing appropriation of $60,000,000 for drought relief in affected states will be reported to the Senate Monday by the Senate Agriculture Committee, with the hope that it will be passed and sent to the House for action.

Senator McNary (Rep.), Oregon, chairman of the committee, made this statement when the committee continued its hearing on a group of drought relief bills this afternoon. He told committee members he hoped they could decide on a composite bill at today's hearing.

WILL VOTE $60,000,000

McNary told newspapermen he will vote for an appropriation of $60,000,000, despite the recommendation of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and the Budget Bureau that the amount be cut to $25,000,000. He said he believed the entire committee shares his views.

Drought relief legislation, if contingent on established bank credit, might just as well not be enacted, Senator Robinson (Dem.) of Arkansas, told the committee.

FOR ONLY DROUGHT AREAS

McNary asked if such relief would apply only to the drought-stricken areas. Robinson said it would, and McNary asked if he did not feel that "limiting food and clothing relief to the drought-stricken areas would be legislation of a local nature."

Robinson said:

"I have attempted to cover only the drought area in this measure, but if the committee wants to take in the entire country then you would better make it $100,000,000 at least, unless you want to come back here."

Robinson said hundreds of thousands of farmers are without their usual out-of-season means of livelihood because of crop failures. The $60,000,000 his bill would authorize, he said, had been declared necessary by the President's drought committee, made up of representatives of the affected states.

Robinson remarked:

"Now somebody comes along and says $25,000,000 is enough."

He was asked:

"Who says so?"

Robinson replied:

"Somebody connected with the budget, and Senator McNary (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of the committee, has accepted this figure and offered an amendment to his joint resolution which originally provided $60,000,000 as mine does. I suppose the budget people decided the budget could stand only the less amount."

SEEK SUSPECT IN ATTACK

Squirrel Hill police today were searching for a young man who, they said, attempted to attack Irene Csizmodi, 18, a waitress, of 1707 McClure avenue, Homestead, after she accepted his invitation to drive her home last night.

Miss Csizmodi, employed in a Murray avenue restaurant, told police the man molested her after turning his truck into a blind alley in the rear of Hobart street. The girl broke away and returned to the restaurant. Twenty minutes later the man appeared there and, after handing the girl her purse, which was lost during the alleged scuffle, fled.

MAP STATE BLUE LAW WAR

Cities' Co-Operation Asked; Pinchot Will Be Invited To Give Views at Parley

PHILADELPHIA, Dec 5.—Within two weeks at Harrisburg the most intensive drive ever made against the blue laws, which Pennsylvanians thought 136 years ago would be a good thing for all time to come, will be made as a result of the meeting between the Pittsburgh councilmanic committee with Mayor Harry A. Macgey and William W. Roper, head of a similar committee from the Quaker City council, here yesterday.

AGREE ON PROGRAM

The two committees, the Pittsburgh delegation composed of Harry A. Little, chairman; Michael J. Muldowney and Clifford B. Connelley, with Representative Michael A. Musmanno, have agreed on a program whereby the state will be divided between them. Each will take a section and either by letter or by personal calls in the various cities urge chief officials to attend the meeting at Harrisburg.

Mayor Mackey declared that he will attend the meeting and exert all his influence to bring action toward repeal of the blue laws. Mayor Charles H. Kline had left here before the conference of the councilmanic committees, but he is understood to favor modification of the antiquated laws.

SEEK PINCHOT VIEW

Gov.-elect Pinchot's attitude on the proposed revision of the laws will also be sounded and he will be invited to attend the meeting.

Councilman Little, after the conference with Mayor Mackey and Roper's committee, said:

"We intend to cover the entire state and get representatives, either the mayors or councilmanic committees, to meet and draft a bill that will equalize Sunday regulations. It seems silly and out of date that one community permits healthful recreation and amusement on Sundays while another, even an adjoining municipal division, has stringent regulations that make the inhabitants suffer through on the only day of rest or else travel out of their home community to see a movie, a show or a ball game.

"We expect opposition, but there is no question in our minds that the law should be changed so that uniform conditions prevail over the entire state."

A resolution will be introduced in Philadelphia Council as soon as Roper can prepare it, he said, indorsing the high pressure campaign against the blue laws, and Little's committee will present a similar resolution in Council upon his return to Pittsburgh.

THE END OF HER FLIGHT

MISS RUTH NICHOLS . . . . . SHE JUST BROKE A RECORD

Miss Nichols, society flier, just after she removed her flying coat upon arrival at Los Angeles from New York in record-breaking time of 16 hours 59½ minutes. She broke Mrs. Kith-Miller's record.

DOUBTS GRIEVE AVIATRIX

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5.—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flier, who reported she was blown far out of her course to barren Andros Island on a projected Havana-Miami flight last Friday, was brought to Miami today in a chartered seaplane. With her were Capt. W. N. Lancaster, her flying associate, and John Liggett III, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Miller was unable to fly her own plane, The Bullet, from Andros Island. She was dejected on her arrival here, asserting:

"I want to get all newspapermen together today and explain the entire situation. I am broken because of what my country thinks. If you could have seen the situation there would never be doubt. My heels are blistered and my feet cut up from walking through Andros hummocks."

Reds Use Hatpins, Jab Police Horses

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Police officers charged today that Communists who staged an attack on a cafeteria last night were armed with long hatpins, which they used to stick in horses of the police. Six mounted patrolmen finally drove away 500 demonstrators. The horses stepped on five reds, injuring them slightly. The demonstration was the eighth made in front of the cafe, which obtained an injunction in court prohibiting picketing.

tions in which I was particularly interested. I accordingly find it unnecessary to make any bequests thereto in this my will. I want it known to those who read this will, however, and do not know of these gifts that I devoted no inconsiderable part of my estate to the creation of trusts for or in direct gifts to institutions engaged in philanthropic, charitable, religious and educational activities, and they are now enjoying the benefit thereof."

HELD STEEL STOCK

Mr. Frank was a large holder of the securities of the National Steel Company, through his former holdings in the Weirton Steel Company. Weirton Steel at one time had a market value of $600 a share.

Mr. Frank also was a substantial owner of the stock of the United Engineering and Foundry Company and held the securities of a large number of industrial, banking and other interests.

Officer Loses Seat In Plane, Killed

ST. PAUL, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Pitched from his seat in a training plane as its pilot banked and turned, Lieut. Lloyd Ruth, Minneapolis, member of the Air Reserve Corps, U. S. Army, fell 500 feet to his death.

Capt. Jack Palmer was piloting the plane.

Nye's Star Sleuth Admits Soliciting Election Fund

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—The star investigator of the Senate Committee on Campaign Expenditures today stood accused as the solicitor of a contribution designed to "put over" a candidate.

This revelation was made by Henry H. Curran, director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, while testifying here before the Senate probers.

Curran told the committee that Howard M. Rice, while employed by the committee last September, tried to get $5,000 from Curran's association for the campaign of a candidate in the First Congressional District of the State of Washington.

Curran's statement was promptly admitted by Rice, who claimed he was "only a messenger boy trying to do a friend a favor."

Nye defended Rice as "the best investigator the committee ever had."

VOWS LOYALTY TO MAN ACCUSED OF MARRIAGE FRAUD

FIRST WIFE DEFENDS MATE

McKeesport Widow Asserts $20,000 Vanished After 'Wedding' to Defendant

Vowing deathless devotion to John W. Wesley, 30, placed on trial today on a charge of using the mails to defraud, and alleged to have obtained more than $20,000 from Mrs. Jean C. Carroll, of McKeesport, after going through a marraige ceremony, a woman calling herself "Irene," declared she is the legal wife of Wesley and would stick by him.

Irene was pointed out in the courtroom by Policeman William C. Shaffer, of Springfield, Ill., who said she went to the Springfield jail after he had arrested Wesley and produced a marriage certificate to show that she was his wife.

Interviewed in the courthouse, Irene said:

"I am Wesley's wife—his real wife. I don't car how many wives he has or how many years he rots in jail, I'll still be with him.

"Wesley met Mrs. Carroll through a matrimonial agency. She married him for his money, was fooled and is putting up a squawk. I'll tell plenty before this trial is over."

Irene said she married Wesley under another name, but that he would marry her again under the name of Wesley when he is out of his present trouble.

She is a tall blonde, plainly dressed, and said she was working as a phone operator in Springfield. She said she had paid her own way here to help the man she loves.

Wesley, taking the stand in his own defense, corroborated the statements made by Irene.

Mrs. Carroll said Wesley had taken her silverware when he left her and that she had not seen bonds, valued at $15,000, since Wesley had disappeared.

WITHOUT FUNDS

Earlier this week the court appointed Attorney Thomas E. Whitten to defend Wesley, when the latter entered a plea of not guilty and informed the court he had no money with which to hire counsel. In the prosecution of the suit the government is represented by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh.

Soon after the alleged marriage ceremony Wesley was alleged to have disappeared with money Mrs. Carroll realized from sale of bonds and other property.

CITES GRILLING BY POLICE

DENVER, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A story of "relentless persecution" at the hands of police after her arrest, was told today by Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin in her trial for the alleged murder of her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona. The defendant had recovered fully from her collapse in court last night.

Threats and intimidations were exercised, Mrs. O'Loughlin testified, "in order to get me to confess."

Throughout all the police grilling, she said, she maintained her innocence, made no oral or written confession, and implicated no one. She said:

"I was grilled for hours at a time by several officers, all trying to talk at once. The room would be full of men shouting questions."

HOOVERS FETE DIPLOMATS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Uniforms which a few years ago would have caused strong men to faint, paraded through the White House last night without causing a ripple, unless it was one of admiration.

The occasion was the reception given by President and Mrs. Hoover to the diplomatic corps, to which came the most brilliantly uniformed men and most beautifully dressed women in Washington. Among them were those wearing the uniforms of the German, Austrian and Turkish armies, the appearance of which 13 years ago would have started a riot.

The only great nation not represented was Russia. The United States has never recognized the Soviet republic.

Einstein Wants Bigger Meals On Liner

S. S. BELGENLAND, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The waiter laid the regulation portion of codfish cakes before Prof. Albert Einstein today and the genius of relativity looked at it quizzically. He said to the puzzled waiter:

"Auf widersehen."

Frau Einstein laughed, and explained:

"He means that the portion is too small. He wants you to come again with another one. We Germans are used to bigger meals."

CHILD GUARDED AFTER THREAT

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Henry Haldeman-Julius, 11, son of E. Haldeman-Julius, wealthy Girard (Kan.) author and publisher, today was placed in the care of an armed guard for fear extortionists who have threatened his father might kidnap him. The lad was escorted to and from school in Cedarville, Ill., by a guard furnished by Miss Mary Pry, a friend of the Haldeman-Julius family, who is caring for him until Christmas.

Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House fame, sister of the boy's mother, said she had received a letter from Haldeman-Julius that he had received a letter threatening the kidnapping of one of the two young Haldeman-Julius children, if $50,000 was not forthcoming.

ACTRESS' CLUB RAIDED AGAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—For the third time in recent months, Belle Livingstone is involved with the law. Nine boulevardiers in flawless evening clothes entered her newest "salon" near Park avenue last night and made merry around a soda bar. About midnight they announced themselves as federal prohibition agents.

Miss Livingstone and eight employes were arrested. Some 400 top-hatted and silk-gowned guests were invited to continue their revelry elsewhere. Assorted liquors to the value of $1,200 found a new home.

Miss Livingstone is a former actress and was the toast of two continents in the convivial nineties. Her ex-husbands include a count and several millionaires.

Weather will be mostly overcast, with decreasing ceilings tonight over practically the entire district, except possibly near the coast; rain will fall over the Ohio Valley and over most of Pennsylvania, including the mountains; visibilities will be low; temperatures will rise slightly.

MAY ABANDON CAPETOWN HOP

ROME, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Return to London and abandonment of the flight to Capetown was considered today by Winifred E. Spooner and Flying Officer E. C. T. Edwards, whose airplane was damaged when it plunged into the Tyrrhenian Sea during a storm yesterday off the coast of Calabria.

Shaken but less severely injured than her companion, Miss Spooner swam a mile to get aid for Flight Officer Edwards.

Fishermen rescued Edwards and towed in the plane. The entire town of Belmonte, where Miss Spooner came ashore, turned out to celebrate the rescue from the sea of the aviatrix and her companion.

HOME STRICKEN BY DEATH AIDED

Charity's friendly light today was dispelling gloom in the destitute home of Steve Spoorer, 21 Solar street, where yesterday his third child, to die in less than six months, Leonard Franklin, 17½ months, succumbed to pneumonia.

William Dunn, undertaker, of 1928 Fifth avenue, embalmed the body free of charge and will see that it is given a decent burial. Spoorer said burial would take place tomorrow, probably in the North Side Catholic Cemetery or in the Most Holy Name Cemetery, Reserve Township.

The Police Relief Fund sent two baskets of food to the Spoorer's today, along with two tons of coal. The Spoorer family lost twin children, previously, one being buried in the yard of their home in Warrendale because there was no money for a funeral.

CO-ED MARRIES PITT GRADUATE

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 5.—A two-day romance, with a Thiel College student here and a former Pitt student as the principals, has culminated in their marriage, according to announcement today of the wedding by parents of the bride.

She is the former Helen Behrman, of Westfield, Pa., a senior at Thiel, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Behrman, of Westfield. The bridegroom is Harry B. Rendall, Jr., of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rendall, of Armenia, N. Y.

Following his graduation from Pitt, Rendall was assigned to do art work on the Thiel College Year Book here November 23, last. Then he met Miss Behrman. Two days later they were married at Mercer, Pa. Both are living in Greenville but contemplate removal to New York soon.

Tunney to Become Governor's Major

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, will acquire the rank of major January 7, 1931, when Dean Wilbur L. Cross, of Yale, becomes governor of Connecticut. Tunney is appointed aide-de-camp on the Governor's staff from civil life with the rank of major.

Wealthy Banker Dies in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Charles Burton Scoville, 72, wealthy banker and son of one of the founders of Oak Park, a suburb, died yesterday from pneumonia, in his hotel room here. He had made his residence in Pasadena for many years.

POINCARE MAY FORM CABINET

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—All France looked today to Raymond Poincare, "savior of the franc," to emerge from retirement and assume government leadership, left vacant with resignation of Premier Andre Tardieu and his cabinet.

The Tardieu government was defeated in the Senate and censured for the conduct of the government during the current financial scandals, by a vote of 147 to 139.

President Doumergue received Poincare this afternoon, and half an hour later Edouard Herriot called at the Elysee Palace in response to a presidential invitation. Both have served as premier of France.

Standard Insulators Sought at Meet

Simplification of high voltage insulators by reducing the number of standards now in use was being worked out by a special committee of the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association meeting at the William Penn Hotel.

Fast Mail Saves London Gas Victim

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—One London tenant is thankful for John Bull's speedy mail. He wrote his landlord complaining of leaking gas. The landlord got the card within an hour, called, and found the tenant unconscious. The tenant recovered.

MISSING FLIER FOUND KILLED

BUFFALO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The body of William M. Griffin, aviator, today was on the way to Hamilton, Ont., his former home, for burial. Griffin, who in recent years had lived in Berea, O., was killed November 24, after he had taken off from Buffalo for Cleveland. His body was found yesterday in the wreckage of his plane in the Chautauqua County hills. The flier had been blown from his course along Lake Erie by a severe wind and snowstorm. Fox hunters came upon the wreckage buried under two feet of snow. The body of the pilot had been frozen stiff.

Mrs. Griffin, the airman's widow, arrived last night from her Ohio home after an exciting trip to the scene of the accident. The plane in which she started was forced down and, accompanied by friends, she completed her journey by automobile.

Michigan Senator's Comeback Is Snappy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Senator Vanderberg, of Michigan, would seem to be quite a diplomat. He spent an hour with President Hoover. One is not supposed to discuss such things. He was asked:

"What brought you?"

The answer was:

"A second hand car."

New Jersey Senator Expelled for Graft

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The State Senate today expelled Ralph W. Chandless (Rep.), of Bergen County, by a vote of 20 to 0, after he had been found guilty of conduct unbecoming a legislator.

The charge against him was that he used his office for private gain by influencing the placing of $200,000 of state funds in a bank.

W. Va. Woman Pens Own Obituary, Dies

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Viola McDonald Richards, 64, who died here yesterday following a long illness, wrote her own death notice and obituary and addressed each of the messages to newspapers in which she desired them placed.

Hebrew Who's Who Honors 4 Pittsburgh Jews

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Four Pittsburghers, one a woman, are honored by selection in the American Hebrews' annual Who's Who, published today.

They are Leon Falk, Jr., and Marjorie Levy, who gave $325,000 to the University of Pittsburgh; Maurice Falk, who established a philanthropic foundation with $10,000,000, and Edgar J. Kaufman, who, with his mother, gave $150,000 to Pittsburgh Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Association.

Three Christians selected for honors included Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, O.; Bishop William Scarlett, St. Louis, and Chancellor Elmer Brown, of New York University.

More than a score of Jews were listed on the volume's honor roll for their benefactions.

Baker is to be awarded the American Hebrew medal for the promotion of better understanding between Christians and Jews in America. Bishop Scarlett organized the first civic better understanding seminar in America, held in St. Louis.

Jewish benefactions during the year exceeded $22,800,000, it was stated.

Museum Receives Body of Buck, Snow White

An albino buck—snow white and pink-eyed—killed by a hunter when it was seen limping from wounds in the woods near Ligonier, was brought here today to be mounted at Carnegie Museum.

The buck, aged about 1 year, had been illegally shot through the left side by an unidentified hunter. Ralph Liphart, of Homestead, district game protector, found the animal while tramping through the woods, and shot it to end its suffering.

Reinhold Fricke and Dr. Arthur Henn, of Carnegie Museum, brought the carcass here today. The meat will be given to a hospital, and the hide will be mounted.

Mrs. E. F. Kincheloe, Club Woman, Dead

Apollo and Venus In U. S., Zoo-Bound

BOSTON, Dec. 5. — (INS.) — Apollo and Venus, musk oxen from Greenland, bound for the zoological gardens at Toledo, were here today aboard the Norwegian steamship Tampa, from Oslo. They go to Littleton for a month's quarantine.

Trades Wife for 7 Hogs, 12 Chickens and Dog

MUSCATINE, Ia., Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Alex Grosheim, 70, explained his recent divorce today in the simple statement that he had "traded in" his wife Rosie to his best friend, receiving seven hogs, one dozen chickens and a "fine dog" in return.

After 10 years of married life, Grosheim decided he and his wife, Rosie Houp, were not well mated, he said. He decided he wasn't used to matrimony anyway. He said:

"Of course, I didn't want to divorce her without fixing things up so she would have another husband, so I thought and thought and suddenly remembered my old friend, Oscar Vogel."

Grosheim said he told Oscar about Rosie and Rosie about Oscar, and it developed that both wanted to return to Austria. A bargain was struck and Rosie procured her divorce. With Grosheim as best man, Rosie and Oscar were wed. Grosheim added:

"They're on the high seas now. I promised I wouldn't tell until they started."

6 DEAD, 14 HURT TOLL OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

Youth, 17, Held as Hit-Run Death Driver; Trolleys Crash Into 2 Machines

nesses told police that the driver stopped 200 feet beyond, walked back and looked at the dead man and then entered his car and sped away.

Milton Gastor, of Bellevue road, Bellevue, who saw the accident, pursued the car almost two miles before the driver eluded him. He obtained the license number and turned it in to police.

Homicide Detectives Frank Dodson and Thomas Mulvihill learned the car belonged to W. R. Muse, of 3206 Piedmont avenue, Dormont. They went to the home and learned it was being used by a son, William J. Muse, 17.

He told the detectives, they said, that he had as passengers two girls and another man. After the crash, he said, he went back and looked at the victim, became panic-stricken and ran away. Detectives were to question the girls today.

TROLLEY HITS AUTO

The Walters boy was hurt fatally; his mother, Mrs. Mary Walters, 45, injured seriously; a sister, Agnes Walters, 18, and Anna Burns, of Muse, were hurt slightly, and a brother, Joseph Walters, 23, escaped injury when a Heidelburg car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company crashed into the rear of their automobile at the Second and Railroad avenue crossing, Carnegie, early today, police were told.

Mrs. Walters was in a serious condition at Mercy Hospital today. It was said she was suffering from a crushed chest and probable internal injuries.

Joseph Walters told police he was driving the automobile, which, he said, was owned by Miss Burns.

HURLED THROUGH SHIELD

Hughes was hurled through a windshield when the car in which he was riding was crowded off the road and crashed into an iron pole at Dead Man's Curve in the Freeport road, near the Guyasuta bridge, early today. He died before he reached St. Francis Hospital. Jack R. Nicholas, 20, who, police said, was driver of the car, was admitted to the hospital for treatment of head injuries. Hughes' death marks the fifth motor fatality at the curve in two and one-half years, police said.

FATALLY HURT IN UPSET

Shugs died in McKeesport several hours after the car he was driving skidded and turned over on the road between Turtle Creek and Wilmerding, early last night. The car belonged to George Shearer, of 254 McGinnis avenue, Pitcairn, police said.

Cykoski was fatally injured when his automobile crashed into a pole at Shady avenue and Darlington road yesterday. He died in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Orbarski was struck by an automobile in the Library road, Bethel Township, and was taken to Mercy Hospital, where he died from a fractured skull last night. Mrs. S. M. Langer, alleged driver, of 807 Heslet street, Donora, was ordered to appear at the coroner's office.

COLLISION INJURES FIVE

Five persons were hurt in a crash between two cars in the Library road at Grove Station early today. Mrs. Martha Bowles, 60, of 2525 Kingwood avenue, Overbrook, was in a serious condition at Mercy Hospital, reported suffering from injuries of the chest and right arm. Her husband, John W. Bowles, 58; their son, Leroy, 19; Ann Bowles, 54, a sister of the husband, all of the same address, and Lawrence Davis, 21, of 15 Latonia street, Carrick, received treatment at the hospital, and were sent to their homes.

The accident occurred, police said, when cars driven by Leroy Bowles and Davis collided.

HITS PARKED TRUCK

John Gearhart, 32, of 5 Brushton avenue, was in Columbia Hospital today with burns and a probable skull fracture suffered when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a parked truck and burst into flames, police reported. The driver, Charles Craig, 22, of 345 Forest Hills avenue, Forest Hills, less seriously injured, was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital. The truck, owned by the Sweet Damp Wash Laundry, was parked in front of the laundry in North Braddock avenue, near Finance street.

Suffering a probable skull fracture when struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Twenty-seventh street last night, Harry Smith, 6, of 2643 Penn avenue, was in West Penn Hospital today. Police said the machine was driven by Joseph Mervis, 46, of 2200 Shady avenue, who took the boy to the hospital.

TROLLEYS JAM AUTO

Two persons were injured when an automobile became wedged between two street cars at Carson and Smithfield streets last night. Mrs. Edith Cronin, of 2850 Broadway, Dormont, passenger in one of the street cars, suffered contusions of the chest. She is in the South Side Hospital.

Joseph Dominici, 63, of 441 Baldwin street, Hays, riding in the automobile, driven by Charles Kohlmier, 36, of 586 Carter street, Hays, suffered cuts on the face. Kohlmier escaped injury.

Fire Destroys Inn Near Coatesville

COATESVILLE, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Loss estimated by the owner at $50,000 was incurred by fire which destroyed the Chester Valley Inn, eight miles east of here.

Mrs. Rosemary Brownfield, formerly of Uniontown, the owner, was asleep with her 12-year-old son in a first floor bedroom when they were awakened by the odor of smoke. She said she believed a spark from an open fireplace had started the fire.

Can't Stand Republican Economy; Too Expensive

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Expenses are the amendments of prosperity.

Here's to our American flag. No power can pull it down.

Here's to the national deficit. No power can budget.

President Hoover asks Congress to economize.

Best we can hope for is three sessions for the price of two.

Don't know what's wrong. Maybe we are still keeping cool with Cal.

Let's go back to the good old days of lavishness when we used to start a forest fire just to fry an egg.

That's the trouble now. They've got us selling apples when we are really watermelon and grapefruit men.

You can get more gravy with a big spoon. Let's spend it. Ella Wheeler Wilcox said there were no cash registers in a tomb.

Economy program of Congress is going to bust itself against a tree when it tries to deprive Arizona of its harbor appropriation.

How about free seeds and laundry franking? Why not make the Congressmen wash their own laundry and put the buttons in circulation?

Nope. We can't stand Republican economy.

It costs too much.

Six-Day Bicycle Race

The six-day bicycle gindict is New York's most luxurious bid for the heavyweight delirium honors.

They have been whirling from east to nowhere all week in Madison Square Gardens.

In every other form of athletic competition you go somewhere. Even when you have a quarrel in a telephone booth you have to walk out sooner or later.

In football you tear up goalposts. In backgammon you dine at home. But in Madison Square Garden the bikesickalists have been rotating from left to izzard since last Sunday midnight.

If they have gotten anywhere it fails to show on the map.

Fifteen years ago we said that the six-day bike scamper would be much better sport if it was a straight-away.

Line the Turko-Insomnia team, the Sleepless-American team, the Swedish-Massage and the Brazilian-Nutto teams up. Do like they do in Cicero.

Shoot off a gun. And then count your men.

The racers start and scramb over a delapidated hill. Wave goodby to them. And go back to your crime statistics.

Forget about 'em. At the end of the week you pick up your sports page and read where the six-day race has reached the Pacific Ocean, all the athletes have traded their bikes for water and are wading toward the setting but evasive sun.

On the way west they could make themselves useful by carrying the mail.

A man in Illinois wants somebody to carry eggs three miles as the crow flitters. Along comes the six-day bike race and he picks out his errand boy.

You can make everything useful if you give it enough thought. Sometimes the results are astonishing. Just like seeing raisins walk out of the rice pudding.

The six-day bike race isn't much more than an extra session of a moron's Congress. Those pigeons whirl around the home nest too much.

They do these things better in Europe. They hold their races from Berlin to Rome or Paris to Constantinople.

When the winner of a six-day race has to ride back a thousand miles it teaches him a lesson.

TROLLEY AND 4 AUTOS IN CRASH

Two trucks, two passenger cars and a street car were involved today in an accident at Penn and Negley avenues when Ralph Driso, 18, of 621 Lenora street, a driver for the Iron City Bottling Company, attempted to pass another truck, according to a police report. None was injured.

Driving abreast of a Franks-town avenue street car, eastbound in Penn avenue, Driso, police say, crashed into the trailer of the trolley as he swerved to the left to pass another truck driven by Kenneth Cable, of Wilson avenue, Kittanning.

The impact caused Cable's truck to collide with a parked car owned by Ralph Levinson, of 506 Euclid avenue, and in turn resulted in Levinson's car striking another parked car owned by Florence Kenkel, of 5626 N. Upland street, police say. Miss Kenkel and Levinson reported $300 damage to their cars. Several windows in the trailer were smashed, and a half dozen passengers were thrown from their seats.

Driso was lodged in East End Police Station on a reckless driving charge.

Trolley Fares Cut For Yule Shoppers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A nickle is all each street car patron will have to pay in Aurora and Elgin, provided he or she rides between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. from December 10 to 24. Outside those hours the regular fare of seven cents will be charged. The idea, approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission, is to reduce Christmas shopping rushes.

Former Bow Aide's Trial January 12

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The trial of Daisy I DeBoe, discharged secretary of Clara Bow, was set for January 12 when she appeared in Superior Court and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging theft of approximately $16,500 from the screen actress.

Arnold Man, 70, Dies Moving Coal

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—William Brown, 70, of 1726 Ridge avenue, Arnold, died late yesterday after he was found stricken on a coal pile in his yard. Death was said due to overexertion in moving coal into a cellar.

LLOYD GEORGE HITS WALL ST.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Britain has been "lassoed" by Wall street and dragged bodily over the rocky course of finance, David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, told a gathering of his party here today.

Characterizing former Premier Stanley Baldwin's debt settlement with the United States as "terrible," the fiery Welshman struck out viciously at Wall street.

Belying constant reports of a forthcoming Labor-Liberal coalition to keep the government of J. Ramsay MacDonald in power indefinitely, Lloyd George characterized the Labor regime as "an acknowledged failure." He advised, however, against turning the government out of office at the present time.

Harvard Scrubwomen Share Holiday Fund

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Nineteen Harvard scrubwomen, discharged a year ago by the university after it had been ordered to increase their pay under the minimum wage laws, will divide this Christmas $3,880, donated by Harvard alumni.

Corliss Lamont, '24, who had charge of raising the money, said many Harvard men "were glad to make right" what they deemed an injustice and a blot on Harvard's reputation.

CITY'S STORES SHOW GAIN IN SALES

Substantial Increase Over September Trade Made by 182 Dealers in October

tail stores reporting to the Bureau of Business Research, fell only 4.6 per cent below those in October last year, a small decrease when the present unfavorable business conditions are taken into consideration. Moreover, retail drug and grocery sales recorded small gains over sales in October, 1929.

DECLINE SLIGHT

Total sales of all reporting retail stores for the first 10 months of the year declined only 5 per cent from those of the same period of 1929, while the volume of business done by the 11 department stores for the year-to-date decreased 5.2 per cent.

Although parts of this decline is due to loss of sales, the greater portion of the decrease is accounted for by the decline in prices. When total sales for the year to date are corrected for price changes, the loss, compared to the first 10 months of 1929, is reduced to 1.9 per cent for all retail stores reporting and to 2.1 per cent for the 11 department stores. It is apparent, therefore, that the physical volume of retail goods handled is almost as large as it was last year.

Wholesale trade in Pittsburgh shows a similar trend. Sales of the 55 reporting firms in October were 23.7 per cent under those for October last year and for the first 10 months of 1930 were 12.9 per cent under the volume for the same period of 1929.

SALES $125,000,000

Wholesale prices have fallen more than retail prices over the past year. Consequently, when allowance is made for wholesale price declines, wholesale trade in Pittsburgh for the first 10 months of 1930 is but 4.4 per cent below that in the corresponding months of 1929. Total sales of the 183 wholesale and retail stores reporting to the Bureau of Business Research for the first 10 months of 1930 were approximately $125,000,000.

Changes in the volume of business done by Pittsburgh wholesale and retail firms in October and for the year-to-date are shown in the tables in the adjoining columns.

SEA RUM FLEET HELD MENACE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Highly organized and well-financed smuggling interests are making determined efforts to run liquor into the United States from the high seas, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, reported today to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He said:

"The Coast Guard is most earnestly and actively patrolling the seas and the shores at all seasons and in all weathers to prevent liquor smuggling.

"Considering the manifold difficulties of the problem, results accomplished are very satisfactory. But for the zealous work of the Coast Guard the amount of liquor smuggling on our coasts would be enormous without question.

"Smuggling operations on the Great Lakes have been very active. It is yet too early to determine with any degree of certainty the permanent effects of the recent Canadian law forbidding clearance of liquor cargoes for the United States from Canadian ports."

Billard's report showed that during the year 6,004 persons were rescued by the Coast Guard. Agents of the service boarded and examined the papers of 87,033 ships, and seized or reported for violations of the law 2,441 boats.

Three California Slayers Executed

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—This was "Black Friday" in California state prisons as three hangings brought the state's total for 1930 to 15, a new record.

At Folsom prison, Alfred Boss, 32, and George Davis, 29, were hanged for the murder of Clifford Cary, Sacramento grocery clerk. At San Quentin, George Ryley, convicted of slaying an aged taxicab driver, was the third to die.

Copenhagen Invites Kellogg and Lewis

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The American Club here has invited Frank B. Kellogg and Sinclair Lewis, the Nobel prize winners, to be its guests on their return from the Nobel ceremonies at Stockholm. Royalty and outstanding figures in Danish arts and business are expected to attend.

Newsboys to Get Autos At Theater Party

Next Monday morning five Sun-Telegraph carrier boys and newsboys will own and be driving brand new Austin bantam cars which they won in a contest for increased circulation conducted by the Sun-Telegraph. There was also $500 in gold as added prizes. The contest created a lot of enthusiasm among the boys and resulted in greatly added sales.

The names of the winners will be announced at a presentation party for all the Sun-Telegraph newsboys and carrier boys to be given at the Harris Theater Sunday afternoon by courtesy of Warner Bros. The Austins will be turned over to the winners and the $500 in gold will be given to the cash prize winners.

Charles Bennington and his New York Newsboys Harmonica Band, which is appearing all next week, starting Saturday, at the Harris in conjunction with five acts of vaudeville and a feature picture, will offer a special show for the newsboys at this party. Bennington and his newsboys are popular entertainers from coast to coast. They sing, dance, and offer a liberal amount of clever comedy.

In conjunction with Bennington's Band, the Harris will entertain the party with a feature picture. The regular feature at the Harris, starting tomorrow, is entitled "What Men Want," starring Ben Lyon, Pauline Starke and Barbara Kent. But, believing that the newsboys would prefer a Western picture, the Harris management will offer at their Sunday show "Under Montana Skies," a thriller from the Tiffany Studios.

FATHER OF FOUR HELD IN THEFT

Jack Norman, 34, of 936 Beech avenue, North Side, a father of four children, was held for court by Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Davis, of Avalon, on charges of carrying concealed weapons, entering a building and felony a few hours after he was captured by Patrolman James Parker, who noticing him acting suspiciously arrested him.

After capturing Norman Patrolman Parker testified, he obtained a confession before the robbery victim, Mrs. Karl Maukart, of 129 Harrison avenue, realized her home was robbed. Investigating Norman's story, Parker said he found the Maukart home robbed, the front door open and Mrs. Maukart playing bridge next door unaware the robbery had occurred.

A revolver, a large butcher knife, 20 skeleton keys and an assortment of jewelry, including 13 rings, was found on the man, the arresting officer told the court. The stolen loot also was found on the prisoner, he said.

GERMAN CITIES UNDER GUARD

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

BERLIN Dec. 5.—Redoubled police guards paced Berlin's streets and public squares today, as well as the leading cities of Germany, to prevent further food riots and demonstrations by Communists and unemployed, which already have resulted in three deaths, injuries to more than 30 persons and the arrest of 200 others.

Mass meetings and parades by radical elements and the Fascists during the night gave added tension to the political crisis in Germany, and the speech of Adolf Hitler to the Berlin student body last night apparently was not intended to lessen the ardor of his followers.

Hitler, militant leader of the National Socialist party (Fascists), warned the students that they must be ready to sacrifice their lives in the cause of Germany's regeneration and achievement. He said:

"The sword is the final arbiter, and from the steel of the sword emerges iron for the plow."

Norris Twits Hoover in Jingle

WASHINGTON Dec. 5.—(INS.)—President Hoover's penchant for appointing federal commissions to deal with various public questions has inspired Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, to satirical verse.

Today's Congressional Record presents this poem which the insurgent leader recited to the Senate during the debate on the administration's proposals for emergency unemployment relief:

"Once to every man and nation
Comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of truth with falsehood,
For the good or evil side.

"But the case presents no problem
To the White House engineer;
He appoints a big commission
To report some time next year."

British Conclude R-101 Fire Inquiry

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The long investigation into the burning of the British dirigible R-101 was brought to a close today. Sir John Simon, head of the board of inquiry, could not say when he would be able to make a report.

HOLD STABBING SUSPECT

Accused of slashing his best friend in an argument over a "numbers" winning, Frank Mazzle, 65, of 21 Bond street, was held for court, charged with felonious cutting, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Station today.

Testimony disclosed that Mazzle won $54 in the numbers lottery, October 28, and his friend, John Sapone, of 1716 Colwell street, asked him for $10 of the sum. An argument started and Mazzle is alleged to have cut Sapone on the face and throat. The latter was discharged from the hospital last night.

Sleeper-Laden Cars Derailed in Tunnel

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Two Pullman cars filled with sleeping passengers jumped the track while going through a tunnel here this morning and tied up all traffic on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Baltimore and New York. None was injured, as the train was moving slowly.

OBITUARY

Bulger Funeral.

Funeral services for J. Edward Bulger, Sr., a retired general superintendent of the Superior Steel Works, Carnegie, will be held Sunday night at his home, 448 Beechwood avenue, Carnegie, by Lodge No. 631, B. P. O. Elks, of Carnegie. Services will be held also at 10:30 a. m., Monday, from St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church, of Carnegie. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Mr. Bulger, who had been a resident of Carnegie 30 years, died yesterday. He was born in Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, and became identified with the Superior Steel plant in 1892, but was retired from active duties in 1924. He was a charter member of the Knights of Columbus at Carnegie and a member of St. Luke's Church and the Elks of Carnegie. He leaves his widow, three sons, Edward, Jr., Paul and Harry Bulger; a daughter, Mrs. T. N. Manning, and four grandchildren, all of Carnegie.

O'Brien Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Johanna A. O'Briem, 58, who died at her home in the Aberdeen apartments, Bayard street, yesterday, will be held in St. Mary of Mercy Church, Third avenue and Ferry street, at 9 a. m., tomorrow. The body will be taken to Buffalo for burial. Mrs. O'Brien came to Pittsburgh from Buffalo 10 years ago. She was a member of the Sacred Heart Church, and recently became a member of Cathedral parish. She leaves two sons, Vincent J., of Indianapolis, and William A. O'Brien, of Pittsburgh.

Murphy Funeral.

Funeral services of Miss Anna V. Murphy, a supervisor of music in Pittsburgh public schools, who died yesterday, will be held at the home, 1440 Alabama avenue, Dormont, tomorrow morning, followed by services in St. Bernard's Church, Mt. Lebanon. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. She was born in Pittsburgh and attended the old Forbes and Central High schools, later teaching in the Forbes School. She leaves two brothers, James and Thomas Murphy.

Shafer Funeral.

Funeral services for Miron V. Shafer, 39, who died Tuesday, were to be held at the home, 1409 Browning road, East End, today. Interment was to be in Homewood Cemetery. He was born in Pittsburgh and had lived here all his life. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. Besides his widow, he leaves a daughter, Helen Shafer, at home; his father, A. C. Shafer; a sister and a brother.

Barney White.

Barney White, 44, of 4612 Truro place, for more than 25 years active in Pittsburgh musical circles, died yesterday in Passavant Hospital. He was well known as conductor of White's Orchestra, was a member of the Musical Union and the First Baptist Church. Besides his widow, he leaves a daughter, Miss Martha White; his mother, Mrs. Amelia White; four sisters and three brothers.

Joseph J. Bolton.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 5.—Joseph J. Bolton, 74, a retired florist, died in the Providence Hospital here. He was born in Norristown, Pa., and was superintendent of a plant of the Carnegie Steel Company in Cleveland, O., for eight years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Bolton, Beaver; a daughter, Mrs. Viola McNulley, Pittsburgh, and a son, Francis H. Bolton, New York.

Senate Probers Defied By Real Estate Man

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Harry Wardman, wealthy Washington real estate operator, refused to produce records and documents of the Wardman Corporation, which had been requested by a Senate sub-committee investigating real estate conditions in the capital. Chairman Blaine, of the committee, said another meeting would be held next Wednesday to decide whether Wardman would be cited to the United States district attorney for contempt.

Aid Rushed Burmese Stricken by Quake

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Relief detachments were rushed to the Pyu district of Burma today as slowly infiltering reports reaching Rangoon indicated that yesterday's earthquake caused wide havoc, with 36 known dead and more than 100 injured. All of Burma was shaken, Pyu bearing the brunt of the shock. The city itself suffered extensinvely from fire.

Japan Prince Pays Tribute to Puccini

TORRE DEL LAGO, Italy, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The Japanese Prince Nobuhito and his bride, the Princess Kikuko, today laid a wreath on the tomb of the composer, Puccini, whose "Madame Butterfly" once caused considerable resentment in Japan. They planned to leave for Rome tonight.

Army, Navy, Marine Bands to Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Saturdays and Sundays excepted, either the Army, Navy or Marine bands is to radiocast daily. Some 200 concerts have been arranged by the National Broadcasting Company.

ELECTION COST TOPS $700,000

HARRISBURG, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania citizens spent more than $700,000 to elect their principal officers last month.

This total was revealed yesterday by a tabulation of the reports which the principal campaign committees made to the State Bureau of Elections. The compilation, however, does not account for all the money spent by the various county and other small committees, nor for all the expenditures of the candidates themselves.

Of the total figure, $328,614 was expended for Gifford Pinchot, successful gubernatorial candidate and for other Republican officeseekers. For John M. Hemphill, Liberal and Democratic candidate for governor, and the others on the Democratic ticket, a total of $374,674 was spent.

Pinchot's election cost the Pinchot family pocketbook $208,500. His expense account, filed today, a year, revealed a total expenditure of $54,000 in the general election. He paid out $90,000 to run his primary campaign.

In addition, Mrs. Pinchot contributed $40,000 to the election and $10,000 in the primary.

The governor's salary is $18,000 a year.

Show Girl, Fined, Can't Get $1,000 Bill Changed

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—In these days of tight money, shed a tear for Sydelle Parker, show girl, who found herself in the sad predicament of being unable to get change for a $1,000 bill.

Miss Parker was in Traffic Court to pay a $5 fine. She tossed out a $1,000 bill. The court, after the first shock, found there was not $995 in the place to give Miss Parker in change.

The prospect of much delay loomed, but the actress rummaged around in her purse and finally found a $100 bill, which the court was able to change.

LABOR LEADER FOR SHORT DAY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Labor's solution to unemployment may be found in higher wages and fewer working hours and days, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said today in opening a conference of the American Academy of Political and Social Science on the general topic of "security in industry."

Paul Blanshard, of the League for Industrial Democracy, New York, said that private industry had failed to give security of income, work or old age to the majority of American workers, and added:

"President Hoover and the administration at Washington are seeking to evade real responsibility for a thoroughgoing prevention of insecurity by eleventh-hour publicity and by appropriations for public works which should have been made years ago."

Misses' Frocks

In Bright Colors

$16.75

TOPS of Castilian red, jade green, aquatone and geranium red, rise gaily from skirts of black. ENTIRE FROCKS in gold, vivid blue, red, green and noble lady, include those with touches of black to "tie" them to black coats with which they may be worn. Also frocks in black with touches of light and bright colors.

This is a fresh, new group, calculated to give the thrill that comes from color, and the feel of soft, supple silk crepe. 14 to 20-year sizes.

'MOTHER' JONES LIES IN STATE

MT. OLIVE, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The last journey of Mary (Mother) Jones, firebrand of unionism, ended at the wicket in this little southern Illinois mining community last night.

The special car bearing the body of "Mother" from Washington, D. C., arrived here shortly before 8 p. m. Hundreds of miners, members of labor organizations in Illinois, were at the station when the train pulled in. Some wept, others bowed their heads in reverence as the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

"The mother of organized labor," as she was often called, will be buried in the Mount Olive Cemetery here next Monday near the graves of three Mt. Olive miners who gave their lives for the cause of union labor in the Virden mine riot 32 years ago.

The pallbearers, miners who participated in the Virden riot, carried the casket to the Child Welfare Temple, where it will lie in state until the funeral. Labor men marched ahead of the casket.

RABBIS OFFER WINE PLAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Rabbis representing virtually all the Orthodox Jewish congregations in New York asked for a revision of the present system of granting permits for sacramental wine.

The Jewish religious leaders appeared before William D. Morse, supervisor of permits of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, and presented their own plan for granting wine to their congregations.

Under present methods each Jewish family is allowed five gallons of sacramental wine each year, but the rabbis declared that in many instances requisitions made by them were cut by the United States officials and sometimes denied.

"We feel that the rabbis under the present system are distrusted and subjected to espionage and persecution, which is a discrimination against the Jewish people," Rabbi B. Birstein, of Ezrath Israel Synagogue, said.

Calumet Head Pays $91,084 Back Taxes

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Suits for back taxes against Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe Wright were settled by an agreed judgment for $91,084.15.

Wright is founder and board chairman of the Calumet Baking Powder Company and owns the Calumet trotting horse farm near here. The state had sued for back taxes on Calumet stock held by him and his wife.

Railway Foreman Killed by Truck

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Struck by a bakery truck, Ralph Zampetti, 46, of Wilkes-Barre, a foreman employed by the Wilkes-Barre Railway Corporation, was killed while directing track repairs on a Plains street. Frank Regan, 29, of Kingston, driver of the truck, was arrested.

Bangor Athlete Killed in Crash

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Thomas T. (Beans) Hughes, 27, prominent Bangor athlete, was killed and four other young men were injured, one of them critically, when their automobile crashed into a telephone pole and then the porch of a house in Bangor.

Naming 10,000 'Tickletoes' Hard Task for Doll Lady

Dear Little Girls:

If you had 10,000 "Tickletoes" dollies what would you do about giving each and every one of them a name? Well, since I have been getting letters from so many little girls in Pittsburgh it isn't half as big a job as you would think it would be.

You see that now all I have to do is to run through my daily coupons and select the names as they come. You can never guess just what the most popular names are. Well, I'll tell you. I went through 50 coupons this morning and in that lot I found seven Joans, eight Janes, five Joans and six by the name of Betty. Yes, there were lots by the name of Mary, a few Roses, some Sallies, then there were Alices, Josephines, Madelines, Maries and Helens—in fact, I don't have to look far for pretty names.

But I don't suppose the names I give my "Tickletoes" last very long. I have an idea that every little girl who gets a "Tickletoes" gives her a new name the minute she gets home.

Anyway, I know that every little girl who has earned one of my wonder "Tickletoes" adores her the minute she gets her arms around her. And if you could see "Tickletoes," you wouldn't wonder a bit about it because she's the most lovable dolly that was ever made.

She's a great big dolly—nearly as tall as this newspaper is long. She has sparkling eyes, a winsome smile, beautiful hair, rosy cheeks, dimpled knees, beautiful clothes, has three separate voices, is unbreakable and you can give her a bath and she'll go to sleep for you.

Of course, you want to know how to get "Tickletoes" and you want to know more about this wonderful doll. She is very easy to get.

Just clip the coupon, fill it in, and send it to me, and I'll send you a letter telling just what you will have to do. I'll also send you a beautiful picture of "Tickletoes" in colors. Goodbye for today.

Ice Jam Forms In Allegheny River

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 5.—An ice gorge six miles long has stacked up in the Allegheny River at Brandons, eight miles south of Franklin. The pack formed when the ice moved from Franklin and Oil City, and failed to go farther because of low water. The sand bar on which the jam formed is the same that caused the great gorge of 1926.

PRISONER HELD IN 3 MURDERS

NEWPORT, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Nearly a dozen crimes, including two killings, have been charged by Anderson, Ind., officers against a man held here and registered as John Moore, 35, Wyandot, Mich., but known to the Indiana officers as Mike Sadus alias Davis, alias Brown.

The Anderson officers, including Alvin E. Biggs, chief of police, said Moore, charged with murder here, killed a policeman in Detroit in 1927 and later killed another person in Toledo. He sawed his way out of the Danville, Ill., jail last November 6, they said, while being held there for three oil station robberies and the holdup of a general store.

Moore was arrested here November 12, charged with the fatal shooting during an attempted holdup of Mildred Humphrey, 20, Negress, in her home. He was held to the grand jury on a murder charge.

Stolen Marriage License Delays Wedding

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—William Stewart, automobile salesman, and Miss Madeline Burrup obtained a second marriage license, though they have never been married.

Somebody, Stewart declared, stole the first license issued to them. It could not have been lost, he asserted, for he carefully put it in a pocket.

With the second clutched firmly, he and Miss Burrup went in search of a minister.

Tuberculosis Foe Dies in Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Miss Agnes Dillon Randolph, 55, founder of the out patient tuberculosis service in Virginia, died at her home here. She was nationally known for her tuberculosis work, having organized an association in Texas in 1919 that was similar to the one in Virginia. She was a great granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson.

OHIO PEN FIRE LAID TO 7 MEN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The Columbus Dispatch said that a report of the state fire marshal's investigation into the Ohio Penitentiary fire of last Easter Monday, in which 320 convicts perished, will be made to Gov. Myers Y. Cooper early next week.

Pointing out the information in the report had not been made public, the Dispatch stated it is understood that it will say:

"That seven convicts were directly responsible for the plotting and the firing of the institution building in which the convicts were burned to death.

"That two of the seven were themselves victims of the fire.

"That another of the group hanged himself at the institution during the investigation.

"That another unsuccessfully attempted to hang himself.

"That the remaining four convicts still are in the penitentiary or are at the state reformatory at Mansfield."

NINE FAMILIES GIVEN RELIEF

Nine families have received aid during the past month, the relief committee reported to the Thirty-second Ward Board of Trade at its regular meeting held this week. The committee was organized recently to relieve want and destitution in that section because of unemployment. A storeroom for the clothing and supplies, donations from residents there, has been opened on the second floor of the Municipal Building.

The committee is composed of members of the Board of Trade, Veterans of Foreign Wars, League of Women Voters and the Council of Republican Women.

A committee to relieve destitution in the Swissvale district has been named by the Swissvale Relief Association. Meetings will be held every Monday night in the borough council chamber. Among those named are Dwight W. Barden, general chairman; Arthur Patty, Dale Mitchell, Wilbur L. White, Mrs. David Price, Mrs. Victor J. Greene, Mrs. C. L. Boggs, Victor Green and Clark Kelly.

Moroccan Tribes Buying Used Rifles

MOGADOR, Morocco.—(AP.)—Gun running is a flourishing industry along the Anti-Atlas range in southwestern Morocco, in spite of every effort of the French patrols to stamp it out.

Anything that will go off with a bang finds a ready sale among the untamed, marauding tribesmen of the region.

Old Mausers, Martinis and Winchesters are much in demand, fetching as high as $30 apiece, and cartridges, when they can be obtained, bring 50 cents each. It is estimated that there are 35,000 magazine rifles in the possession of tribesmen.

Mrs. R. W. Playford, Slain, Wills $25,000

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 5.—Exclusive of any part of the estate of her husband, R. W. Playford, who killed his wife, three children and himself, Mrs. Nancy Stirling Playford, formerly of Baltimore, left an estate valued at about $25,000. This became known here today when the Second National Bank of Uniontown was named administrator of her estate.

Report Surveys First Year's Problems; 'Feeling Way' In Grain-Buying Plan

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Federal Farm Board, with its $150,000,000 appropriation, is still "feeling its way along" in its grain buying operations, it indicated today as it reported its first year of operation to Congress.

The present economic crisis, it was pointed out, while it created certain unusual opportunities also multiplied the difficulties in developing policies and building an organization. The report said:

"The experience of the first year has brought clearly into view the immensity of the problems with which the board must undertake to deal and the complexity of their ramifications, but at the same time it has led to the very definite conclusion that farmer organization, of all the remedies suggested, offers the surest hope for permanent financial betterment of those engaged in agriculture."

'ACTION OR DELAY'

"Throughout the board has had to chose between action and delay. It has sought to avoid rashness, and has resisted great pressure, refusing to use measures which it was convinced were unwise or unwarranted."

The report stressed the fact that improvement in farm income cannot be obtained from effective co-operative marketing alone, but requires in addition that production be brought in line with consumer demand.

SURPLUS "CURES"

There are two ways of dealing with agricultural surpluses—prevent them and control them, the board declared, adding that measures for prevention of surpluses through control of excessive production are absolutely essential to stabilizing farm prices and farm incomes.

SUBWAY NEED HERE CITED

Imperative need for a trolley subway in Pittsburgh was indicated today at a continued hearing of the litigation between the Pennsylvania Railroad and other utilities concerns over the vacation and relocation of streets to make way for the railroad's proposed new terminal.

Harland Bartholomew, city planning engineer of St. Louis, told Public Service Commissioners Samuel Walker and Charles H. Young that neither the 1925 or 1930 contracts signed by the city and the Pennsylvania would be adequate to care for traffic when the vast street changes necessary in the new terminal plans are carried out.

Only by removing street cars from the surface, can there be adequate traffic facilities, Bartholomew said.

Bartholomew devised the Pittsburgh street plans adopted by the Citizens Committee on Street Planning in 1920.

He was testifying as a witness for the Pittsburgh Railways Company and other subsidiaries of the Bylesby Corporation who are contesting the Pennsylvania's plans on the grounds that they would sustain enormous damages under the 1930 plan with no provision for remuneration by the railroad.

The 1925 plan is 25 per cent more adequate to care for traffic at the Liberty-Grant, Penn-Eleventh intersections than the 1930 plan provides, Bartholomew said.

Cuban President Shakes Up Cabinet

HAVANA, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—President Machado today shook up his cabinet, switching the portfolios of three secretaries. Carlos de Cespedes, former secretary of public works, was made secretary of public instruction; Octavio Averhoff, whom he succeeded, becomes secretary of justice, replacing Jesus Maria Barraque, who was made secretary of public works.

Other changes are in prospect.

Woman Disappears On Boat Cruise

BALTIMORE Md., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A woman who registered as Mrs. C. Godfrey, St. Louis, Mo., was reported missing when the steamer City of Atlanta arrived here today from Norfolk, where she took passage yesterday. Officials believed the woman, described as well dressed and of middle age, leaped overboard during the night.

Kidnaper Abducts 2-Year-Old Girl

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A kidnaper entered the home of Frank Gaffney, unemployed steamfitter, through a second-story window today and carried off his 2-year-old daughter. The father could assign no reason for the act.

Broadway Bandits Get Hotel Payroll

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Handcuffing a cashier and two women clerks, holdup men escaped today with a $1,981 payroll from Hotel Breslin on Broadway.

AWARD TRAFFIC ESSAY PRIZES NEXT FRIDAY

Herron to Present Cash To 250 Winners, Also Scholarships to Five

John S. Herron, president of City Council, will award the prizes to winners in the fourth annual traffic essay contest of the Better Traffic Committee next Friday night, in Carnegie Music Hall. The contest closed November 1. Cash prizes are to be awarded 250 winners, in addition to five scholarships made available by local colleges and universities.

The scholarship will be awarded by representatives of the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, Mt. Mercy College and the Pennsylvania College for Women. The winners of the contest, in which 70,724 essays were written by school children, will not be announced until the night of the prize awarding exercises.

Among the features of the program will be a memorial service for children killed in traffic accidents, to be conducted by Boy Scouts. A traffic safety play will be staged by Carnegie Tech students and there will be music by the fife and drum corps of the police and firemen's post of the American Legion.

GLASS MEETING RETURNS HERE

C. W. Conde, of St. Louis, was elected president of the National Glass Distributors Association yesterday at the final session of its convention in the William Penn Hotel. It was decided to hold next year's convention in Pittsburgh.

Other officers elected were: Powers Pace, Atlanta, Ga., first vice president and Morris Tyre, of San Francisco, second vice president; North Stoms, Chicago, secretary and treasurer.

Widow Sues Beary In Husband's Death

HARRISBURG, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Beary was made defendant in a damage suit filed in the local court by Mrs. Ruth E. Powers, in connection with the death of her husband in an automobile accident near this city last month in which Beary's car figured.

Farmer Ends Life With Gun in Barn

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 5.—Despondent and in ill health, Joseph McElhaney, 50, farmer, of Independence Township, ended his life by shooting himself through the heart in the barn near his home, the coroner's office reported. He was found dead by his wife.

WATER USERS RATIONED

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Martinsburg has begun rigid water conservation and a warning was issued that persons violating restrictions against the use of water for any but drinking, cooking and bathing purposes would be prosecuted.

A fine of $50, with possible revocation of water service, was the penalty fixed for violations.

The situation became so acute that pumps were shut down for a time to permit the reservoir to fill. Water in the reservoir was five feet below normal when the pumps were stopped.

Danger in case of fire was feared.

DETROIT LOCKS 175 SALOONS

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—One hundred and seventy-five saloons, in each of which, according to authorities, liquor and beer was served out over the counter, were ordered closed and padlocked by Mayor Frank Murphy as a culmination of a secret probe which was in progress for weeks.

Dry agents, according to Murphy's reports, made as many as six purchases in some of the establishments. The saloons held near-beer licenses and allegedly operated "wide open."

The long list was a veritable directory of the purported "Blind pigs" in Detroit.

Man Killed, One Hurt In Bus-Auto Crash

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 5.—In a crash between their automobile and a Greyhound bus here last night, Samuel Shipley, 35, Rochester, N. Y., railroader, was killed, and his brother, John Shipley, 30, millworker, of Steubenville, was probably fatally injured.

Bus passengers were transferred and taken on to Pittsburgh. Leo Cole, driver, and his passengers were unhurt.

PROTESTS VETS BEING OUSTED

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Ernest A. Ryan, adjutant of the Kansas Department of the American Legion, appealed to Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander to intercede in behalf of the World War veterans who are being discharged from the national military home at Leavenworth.

Adjutant Ryan declared an acute situation had arisen as the result of orders directing discharge of 145 men on the ground they did not have sufficient disability to warrant their staying at the home.

The adjutant said the men were being discharged without transportation to their former homes and necessarily thrown upon charities of Leavenworth community. He suggested that Veterans Administrator Hines either rescinded the order or see that transportation is furnished.

Sunday Movies Voted as Aid To Charity

MATOON, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Sunday movies will return to Matoon as a result of action of the City Council directing that each Sunday show be opened with prayer.

The Rev. S. A. Hughart became mayor two years ago and started a strict enforcement administration. One of his chief animosities was Sunday movies.

Unemployment relief and Christmas charities weakened his opposition. Advised by the Elks that only 65 of the 300 families needing Christmas baskets would be cared for, unless some other means of revenue were discovered, Mayor Hughart agreed to Sunday opening to "further the cause of charity," and the motion was adopted.

The Elks agreed to turn over the proceeds of the Sunday shows to charity.

AIR PROGRESS HELD CERTAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The airplane has so much to offer the commercial and social life of the nation that "neither waves of depression nor mountains of mistakes" can stop its progress, according to F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation.

In a speech before the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York, he said:

"The manufacture of aircraft and the flying of planes for profit is one of our youngest and one of our fastest growing industries. It is now suffering from a severe case of growing pains, but there is not the slightest doubt that it is getting over them."

Mr. Davison predicted that conquest of fog in flying would be accomplished in the near future.

Awarded $500 for Damage to Home

HARRISBURG, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—In an order issued here, the Public Service Commission awarded $500 damages to Joseph Burick for property taken by the city of Duquesne in construction of the Thompson Run Bridge in Allegheny County. Burick claimed $1,500 for a lot which was taken for erection of the bridge, while the county claimed $250 damages were sufficient.

Real Estate

A 10-room brick residence on 30x100 feet at 1610 Irwin avenue has been sold by Catherine M. Rae to Henry M. Kennedy for $8,000, through the W. B. Dawson & Co. The purchaser will remodel the building and occupy it as a residence.

The old J. G. Bennett Company property at 441 Wood street has been sold by Sarah M. Bennett and Elizabeth B. Edson to the Singer Sewing Machine Company for a cash consideration of $160,000. According to James P. Donovan and Frank T. Trubaugh, brokers, the Singer company will raze the present building and construct another four-story structure with an Indiana limestone front. The first floor of the new building will be devoted to displays. On the upper floors a general office will be maintained.

Blanche Davanno has conveyed to M. H. Headley a brick dwelling of six rooms and a three-car garage on 30x100 feet at 517 Dunster street and a frame dwelling of five rooms on a lot 30x100 feet at 365 Mayville street in exchange for a farm of 117 acres in Mercer County. The brokers were Smith & Mott in conjunction with J. H. Thompson. Smith & Mott also sold for Catherine Reese to Willa E. and Minnie M. Paul a lot 30x142 feet in Gallion avenue, Brookline. The purchasers are building a home on the lot.

George Carlton, builder, has deeded to John H. Dierker a new brick house of seven rooms and marble bath on lot 50x120 feet at Woodbourne and Sussex avenues, Brookline. No selling price was named.

J. Dagenhardt, representing Mary H. Arthur, has sold to Carl Rinderle a lot 10x77 feet in Princeton avenue for $1,250. Dagenhardt also sold for Clarence J. Fox to Bertha T. Murphy a lot 50x110 feet in Dartmore avenue for $1,600.

Building permit applications follow:

Second Ward—C. M. Kalser, alterations, 1725 Penn avenue, $250.

Seventh Ward—C. K. Harris, alterations, 610 Filbert street, $700.

Nineteenth Ward—R. Capaone, alterations, 149 Boggs avenue, $1,500. C. E. Hancock, alterations and addition, 1610 Orangewood avenue, $500.

Twenty-sixth Ward — Concrete block garage, 58 Royal street, $1,350.

Twenty-first Ward—A. Wainanskis, concrete block garage, 1324 Liverpool street, $450.

Texas Town Plans To Move Down Highway

TYLER, Tex., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Joinerville, Texas' newest mushroom oil town, plans to move "down the highway."

Now in Rusk County, when Joinerville sets up shop again it will be in Smith County four miles distant.

The move was decided on when it was determined the oil pool ran in a different direction than first believed.

FOUR OFFICIALS GO TO JAIL

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Four former officials of Penn Township, convicted of participation in the theft of $75,000 in township road funds through "padding" payrolls, were sentenced to maximum prison terms.

Mrs. Mayme McCleary, 50, accused of writing fictitious names into payrolls, was sentenced to an indefinite term in a reformatory. Harry Dallison, 55, was sentenced to from four to 20 years in jail on each of two counts of forgery. Bruce Blake, 60, was given four to 40 years, and Harry Thomas, 38, who pleaded guilty on condition that charges against his wife be dropped, was given two to 20 years.

Mrs. Thomas admitted at the trial that she added names to payrolls at her husband's instigation, but received no money.

Mrs. McCleary, Dallison and Bruce appealed.

Vote Redistricting Meeting Called

To hear suggestions regarding the changing of election districts, a sub-committee of the Redistricting Board of Allegheny County will hold a meeting in the Moon Run School tonight for the residents of Robinson and Findley townships.

A sub board, assigned to investigate election districts in Wilkinsburg, Glassport, Port Vue, Versailles Borough, Lincoln and Versailles Township, will submit their report and recommendations to the commission Monday afternoon, December 15.

Carpenter, 107, Batters His Helper, 74

OMAHA, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—William Everett, 107, is Omaha's oldest citizen, but he demonstrated that he still has a good right arm.

The demonstration led to the arrest of Everett and C. W. Henning, a lad of 74.

Both are carpenters. Everett hired Henning to assist him. Henning told police Everett criticised his workmanship. Henning countered with the suggestion that Everett's 75-year-old tools were unfit. Everett then landed a right to the face, Henning said.

Both were booked on charges of disturbing the peace.

TOWBOAT SINKS IN OHIO RIVER

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 5.—Believed to have struck a submerged obstruction, the towboat, Maggie May, owned by W. L. Shaw, of Pittsburgh, sank in eight feet of water in the Ohio River, off Wellsville, four miles west of here.

The crew of six men rushed to the hurricane deck and escaped a cold plunge as the boat settled on the bed of the river. The craft, chartered by the government, had been used as a tender for the United States Dredger Oswego, which has been operating in this district.

ASK MIDDIES BE RESTORED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Lawrence L. Mraik, of Quincy, Mass., and Miley S. Durgin, of Jacksonville, Fla., would be reinstated as midshipmen at Annapolis Naval Academy under a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts.

The two men were expelled from the academy last June because they escorted two Washington girls into their mess hall for a Sunday dinner. The girls wore men's uniforms and were not detected at the time. Later officials learned of the escapade and expelled the two midshipmen.

Walsh announced that he and the Florida senators, Trammell and Fletcher, felt the punishment had been too severe.

APPEAL MADE FOR SEALS

The Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, in issuing its annual appeal to the public for money raised through the sale of Christmas seals, calls cash raised in the sale "the financial ammunition for continuing the war against tuberculosis."

Laboratory work is one of the departments under which the struggle is carried on. Analysis of the blood, culture work and vaccines are part of the free service extended by the League in Pittsburgh and throughout the country.

One thousand and twelve free dispensary laboratory examinations were provided by the 1929 Christmas seal sale. At the league hospital, 4,700 examinations were made, 3,713 being free.

Of the 804 hospital dispensary cases, 402 were accorded free X-ray examination, the League reports; the remaining 402 patients paid what they felt they could afford.

SMITH URGES FIRE SALVAGE

Methods used by the Pittsburgh fire department in salvage work described to Fire Chief Richard L. Smith have been brought out in pamphlet form by the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York. The way in which water damage is reduced here is being copied in many cities.

A special salvage squad operates in the high value downtown district. Waterproof covers are used to protect valuable merchandise and records.

Chief Smith points out that even in big fires, after the first lines are laid, there are usually men available to do salvage work. He also sees greatly increased efficiency in the Pittsburgh department, and the stopping of unnecessary damage to doors, windows and floors. If it is necessary to cut holes in a roof, the salvage squad patches these temporarily after the fire has been extinguished.

PITTSBURGHERS ON HONOR ROLL

Six Pittsburghers have been given places on the 1930 honor roll of the American Hebrew, a weekly publication in which are listed the names of American Jews who have won recognition during the year for their achievements, honors or benefactions.

The names are Maurice Falk, Leon Falk, Jr., his sister, Mrs. Marjorie Falk Levy; Edgar J. Kaufmann, Mrs. Betty W. Kaufmann and Judge Gladfelter.

Maurice Falk is honored for establishing the $10,000,000 Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation; Leon Falk and his sister for their $325,000 gift establishing a model elementary school; Edgar Kaufmann and his mother, Mrs. Betty W. Kaufmann, for their $150,000 gift to the Y. M. and W. H. A. Judge Gladfelder is accorded recognition in the bench and bar section of the honor roll in recognition of his recent appointment to the Common Pleas Court.

The Twentieth Century Club dedicated musically its new auditorium yesterday afternoon with a song recital by Eleanor Reynolds, contralto. This auditorium is not only one of the most delightful of music halls, but possesses excellent acoustics, that are good fortune for the performer and audience alike.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Eleanor Reynolds has had wide experience as an operatic singer on the European stage, and has brought into her concert singing many of the mannerisms of that often unfortunate school. Her voice is enormous, but her explosive manner in phrasing too frequently mars a song which, judging from her declamation, she understands well enough.

In the ancient music of the French and Italian writers, also of Handel, the lovely bel canto was wanting. Her style responded, however to the Brahms and Strauss songs, and most commendable was her brilliant singing of the Brahms Botschaft. Good diction played no small part in her success, and Earl Mitchell stood by with the best imaginable accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

NEGRO SPIRITUALS

I John, Saw de Holy Number
I'm Troubled
O, Let Me Shine
Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child
Dat's All I Want

Roland Hayes, Negro tenor, and most popular singer of his race, sang again in Carnegie Music Hall last night. He need not have apologized for slight indisposition, for although his voice was not at its best, there was enough of real art to compensate for any vocal shortcomings.

It was never this singer's voice alone that attracted his many admirers. Its limitations are obvious, but its fine schooling and Hayes' excellent taste in the management of his songs along with his modest and gracious personality have all won him a loyal following.

His programs too are always praiseworthy, for he chooses not only from the great masters, but yearly brings us unfamiliar songs of old and new schools of music. His group of English songs last night were particularly well chosen, giving us Griffes, a much neglected American, and Holst, whom we have heretofore known only as a choral writer of great ability.

To sing Beethoven's Adelaide is difficult enough, but to attempt it in English and project it as well as Hayes did, is very unusual. His Schubert songs proved his musical talents beyond cavil. In the spirituals his singing became for a few moments entirely racial; O, Let Me Shine was as fine as Porgy.

As encores another Caldara air, Alma del core, and two more spirituals, Plenty Good Room and Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, were much appreciated. Percival Parham played excellent accompaniments.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

"Love is only a woodland wild that none can ever hope to tame" sings the heroine in Bizet's "Carmen." Jessica Dragonette—today's soprano voice—lives the part tonight when she interprets the fire and elegance and beauty in the "Habanera." Here is a singer-actress who paints musical pictures with the skill of Whistler. To get the spirit of the scene imagine yourself in a Spanish cafe where the fascinating Carmen ogles Don Jose soldier and proceeds to woo him with her song.

"When you're Away," from Herbert's "The Only Girl," is Jessica's second solo in this 8 o'clock concert from WCAE.

Romance predominates the balance of the program with Jessica and the Cavaliers singing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Beyond the Blue Horizon" and selections from "Prince o Pat." Handel's "Largo" is another feature.

Roy Cropper sings "Deep in My Heart," from "The Student Prince," in the 10:30 Theater of the Air at WCAE.

* * *

Irvin S. Cobb on KDKA at 9:30. Doree Leslie on WJAS at 10, and Art Kahn, pianist, playing "The Kiss Waltz" on WCAE at 9:30.

QUESTION A DAY

What has become of Susy?"—W. M.

Answer — S. I. Rothafel, "Roxy," has just returned from Europe. He will resume his place in the Roxy program every WCAE this Sunday at 1 o'clock.

7% Investment Return is 16⅔% greater than 6%—and 40% greater than 5%—well worth realizing!

Your dollars can be made to work for you—bringing to your home, four times each year, checks aggregating a full 7% annually. Like every careful investor, however, you want to be assured of the security behind your investment.

With eleven dominant newspaper properties, having an average age of 46 years, and an established, tremendous earning power—

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.
7% Cumulative Participating Class A Stock
Preferred as to Assets and Dividends is an outstanding investment for the saver of funds—whether small or large.

As America's inevitable growth continues, the newspapers comprising this group are in a position to earn even greater profits than those shown in the past. The actual record of earnings for the last four years is the acid test of capability of the management, and the most impressive safeguard of the future. It shows that dividend requirements on the total issue of Class A stock to be presently outstanding were earned well over three times each average year.

Consider well this record:

EARNINGS (after depreciation, interest and Federal Income Tax)		Dividend Requirements of Class A Stock Offered for Sale
		Amount	Times Earned
1926	$10,009,806	$3,500,000	2.86
1927	10,162,284	3,500,000	2.90
1928	11,044,777	3,500,000	3.15
1929	12,854,626	3,500,000	3.67
Average	$11,017,873	$3,500,000	3.14

Besides this fixed rate of return, 7%, shareholders of Class A stock are entitled to share equally with the common stock in additional dividends declared up to an extra 3%

Constable Freed In Slaying of Man

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 5.—Robert D. Amos, 25, constable of Dover Township, was freed when Common Pleas Judge Eli E. Lindsay directed a jury to acquit him of a charge of manslaughter. The judge ruled the state did not produce evidence that Amos pointed a revolver at Gilbert S. Lloyd, Dover filling station proprietor, slain August 11.

Amos' contention that the shooting was accidental was substantiated by state witnesses.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Building a program that will appeal to all classes of listeners is one of the most difficult tasks of those concert stars who now find in broadcasting a brimming pot of gold.

One of the most active of the concert fiddlers on the air is Tascha Seidel. He has made a special study of radio's requirements, and in his programs for Columbia he seeks to present types of music that will cause as little yawning as possible in the overstuffed armchairs.

All Kinds of People Listen to Music

All kinds of people, Seidel will tell you, must be satisfied during a radio concert, and numbers presented must be adapted to their special tastes. A high-lowbrow medium seems to be essential, with the high dominating the low. The first part of the program, he declares, must be important in the musical sense and should consist of a sonata for violin and piano.

This should be followed by a concerto, one which is effective, even though the piano is substituted for orchestral accompaniment. For this number a major composition by one of the great masters can be substituted.

For the second group of selections, Seidel says, more popular pieces—preferably short ones—should be played. These should be romantic in character and display the temperament of the artists. Compositions suited to this group would be any Kreisler transcription or the lighter Tschaikowsky works.

The last group is usually a single imposing number of great technical beauty and brilliance chosen to show the artist's virtuosity.

Seidel regrets that artists are still hesitant about American composers despite their worth.

"Cecil Burleigh deserves the greatest consideration. His pieces are charming—I recommend, especially, the 'Indian Snake Dance' from the 'Arizona Sketches.' Beautiful also are the works of the blind American composer, Grasse. I believe that Heifetz recently played his exquisite technical number 'Waves at Play.' His perpetual motion study is also striking."

This violinist possesses a robustious nature, carefree, infectious. Talking with him, one is impressed with the simplicity and authority of the man, his sense of being at home in the world. He talks readily on literature and music. He dresses in excellent taste. He brings to the studios many celebrities, his personal friends—Polva Frisch, Josef Lhevinne. Sometimes he startles the musicians by rushing in with two great danes.

Farmer Blasting Stumps Killed

HINTON, W. Va., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—While blasting stumps on his farm near Talcott, W. H. Thompson, 58, was blown to pieces by a charge of dynamite. He had drilled a hole preparatory to setting a charge when the dynamite apparently exploded in his hand as he placed the cap on it.

Three Children Die In Burning Home

GORE BAY, Ont., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed the Noon Fogal home, trapping and burning to death three of the Fogal children—Dorothy, 6; Elva, 2, and Gladys, 11 months old.

The parents were away. It is believed the children, playing near have upset the small heating stove.

CANAL SOUGHT TO AID EXPORT TRADE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Ptarr

William Ptarr

We are just hearing of something which happened five years ago. A prominent clubwoman who was broad-minded invited a group of women to her home for afternoon tea.

During the afternoon a guest spilled a highball on the expensive Oriental rug of the hostess' reception room. The guests apologized over and over again.

"That's all right," the hostess soothed. "I'm having that rug distilled anyhow."

A dozen politicians were loitering in the waiting room of Gov. Pinchot's office a few days ago when Mr. Pinchot appeared, eagerly shook the hand of one and greeted him by his first name. This surprised the visitor, who explained, after the Governor had departed, that they had met but once before, and that 10 years ago.

Somebody asserted then that Pinchot knew, by first names, at least, 10,000 persons. Clyde King, who was secretary of the interior under Pinchot eight years ago, volunteered that he himself knew 2,000 whom he could call Al or Joe or Mike. Mr. King said he had made a deliberate effort to remember first names.

That, of course, is good politics. A minor political figure likes to go back home and say to the customers, "I said to Giff, 'Well Giff, it's like this,' and Giff, he said, 'Well, Joe, I think you're right and I'll see what I can do about it. How are all the kiddies?'"

The only negative voice heard in this hag-punching session in Mr. Pinchot's office was that of a fairly shrewd politician who said he had given up trying to remember names because it proved a mental strain. He said he's been getting along all right without the names; in fact, better, because he greets everybody with "Hello, pal."

There is a goose in a downtown speakeasy which is getting fatter every day. We mean the goose, of course. This goose was raffled off before the Thanksgiving holiday and it was won by the ice man who delivered, of all things, ice to the speakeasy.

Well, between the time that he took a chance on the goose and the time that the goose was eventually raffled off the ice man was changed to another beat.

The speakeasy man doesn't know his name. He doesn't know even the name of his employer. And he's searching high and low for him. The speakeasy man is such a conscientious fellow that he won't be contented until the ice man gets his goose. Meanwhile the goose gets fatter and fatter.

We're glad this incident has happened, because it gives us an opportunity to say that what's good for the goose is good for the ice man.

A friend of ours had no sooner told us about the goose than a friend of this friend's told us about a certain gathering in a downtown hotel. A group of college students were holding a noisy fraternity meeting in the hotel. In the next room there were three elderly women who wanted to but couldn't sleep. They asked the students to be quiet. The students retorted with buns. Not only that, they called the room clerk and complained that the three women were making too much noise. And the hotel attaches asked the women if they couldn't please make less noise.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 5.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The President delivered a message to Congress, but none of the papers on the Coast had room for it because at the same time the Notre Dame football team was arriving out here. Talk about business depression. The stadium where they play in Southern California was built just for Iowa picnics and seats about an eighth of a million. Talk about getting in. Why, I paid $10 a ticket just for space to hear over the radio.

TWO STORES HELD UP BY GUNMEN

Drug Clerk, Haberdasher Victims of Thugs; Police Seek Jewel Theft Trio

Search was being made by police today for bandits who held up a Butler street haberdashery and a drug store in Penn avenue last night.

John Scott, a clerk in Heiber's drug store, at 1251 Penn avenue, was confronted by two armed men near closing time and ordered into a rear room. While one held him at bay his accomplice took $6 from the cash register. He returned to the room and took a watch valued at $60 from Scott's pocket.

Two men entered the haberdashery of Jacob Lapidus, at 5154 Butler street, and escaped with $110 from the cash register. Lapidus was alone in the store when the bandits entered with drawn revolvers, he told police.

JEWEL THIEVES SOUGHT

City detectives today continued their search for the three young bandits who early yesterday robbed Mrs. Irwin M. Quinn, of 350 Central Park West, New York, wife of the New York manager of the Goodyear Rubber Company, of jewels valued at $7,400, as she was about to alight from her sedan in front of the home of her sister, Mrs. M. L. Goss, of 844 Heberton avenue, whom she is visiting.

The three men, all well dressed, told Mrs. Quinn to remain in the automobile when the car was brought to a stop. Two of the men dragged her over into the rear seat while the third man drove the machine, she told police.

Threatening her with a revolver, the thugs took the jewels as they drove through the Brushton district. They alighted in that section after directing her back to her sister's home.

Detectives said that Mrs. Quinn told them she had dropped the insurance on the gems several months ago.

INJURED BY CAR DOOR, SUES

Alleging her arm was crushed when street car doors closed on it as she reached for her market basket, Mrs. Marie Kristoff, 1412 Beaver avenue, asked $60,000 damages from the Pittsburgh Railways Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. Her husband, Michael Kristoff, real estate dealer, joined in it.

She alighted from a car at Beaver and Pennsylvania avenues September 14, 1928, and as she turned and reached for her basket alongside the motorman, the doors were violently closed on her arm, the suit alleged.

27th Ward Group To Hear Rice, Shoup

Addresses by John M. Rice, president of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, and C. V. Shoup, president of the West View Board of Trade, and an election of officers will feature a meeting of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade in the American Citizens' Society Hall Tuesday night.

A PAINTER OF PRIZES

HENRY LEE McFEE

Mr. McFee, distinguished modern painter visiting relatives in Pittsburgh. He's a 1930 prize-winner in the International Exhibition. The painting he's studying is from a school in vogue in his boyhood.

M'FEE, ARTIST, VISITS HERE

By PENELOPE REDD.

Henry Lee McFee, whose "Still Life" was awarded first honorable mention and the Garden Club prize at the Carnegie International exhibition, has made one of his rare excursions from his home in Woodstock, N. Y., to visit his kinsfolk in Pittsburgh.

Penelope Redd

Mr. McFee is one of a few American painters whose fervor for painting may only be compared with the early Christian ascetics who joyfully renounced wordly pleasures. He might well have turned his superior intelligence to some other activity where material success would automatically have accompanied distinction.

KNOWN FOR WORK

Instead Henry Lee McFee is known to the small world of art as a painter's painter. His interest in life is tremendous, although he is in nowise concerned with the illustration of ephemeral incidents.

His is a world like that of Thoreau where the marvel of the commonplace is patiently portrayed.

After a year's preliminary work in Pittsburgh, Mr. McFee decided to go to Woodstock where he might study landscape painting.

Unimpeded by the competitive atmosphere of urban life, happily isolated from the new art world where modern business methods were soon to prevail, Mr. McFee found the exact environment necessary for his development.

TRUE TO NATURE

His own landscape, and the people familiar to the Woodstock landscape, together with the flowers and fruits that offer diverting shapes and rich colors, are the subjects chosen by McFee. His paintings express the utmost sympathy for nature through his poetic conception and philosophic execution.

Henry Lee McFee has received the highest professional recognition of his work. His was the first modern painting to be honored officially by Carnegie Institute about eight years ago.

SEWER RUINED, BOROUGH SUES

The borough of Emsworth asked $5,000 damages from the Booth and Flinn Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, alleging the main trunk of the borough sanitary sewer was ruined for hundreds of feet by the construction of the Ohio River boulevard.

Plans for the boulevard under an agreement in the spring of 1929 between Allegheny County and Emsworth and other boroughs provided for a wall along Lowry's Run. The negligent construction of this wall crushed and ruined the sewer, and the defendant corporation refused to repair it, necessitating its rebuilding by the borough, according to the suit.

Kelly Asks Peary Crew Medals After 22 Years

After nearly 22 years, an effort is being made to obtain recognition for the bravery and sacrifice of the men who helped Commander Robert E. Peary plant the American flag at the North Pole on April 6, 1909.

Congressman Clyde Kelly has reintroduced a bill, that died in the last Congress, to grant congressional gold medals to Commander Peary, his officers and assistants, and silver medals to American and Newfoundland sailors and firemen who did the heavy work on the famous first conquest of the pole.

Commander Peary was given congressional recognition in the Taft administration, but others in the expedition were overlooked. They include Dr. J. W. Goodsell, of Sandy Lake, Pa.; Capt. Robert Bartlett, Donald MacMillan and Matthew Henderson, still living, and Ross G. Marvin, George Berup and Chief Engineer George Wardwell, who have died since the return of the expedition.

The bill provides that the medals shall be presented by the President to survivors and to the next of kin of those deceased. Included in the action is the assertion of rights of the United States to the apparent rich mineral deposits in the territory claimed for the nation by the Peary party.

Married 21 Years, Man Asks Divorce

Seeking a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and indignities after 21 years of married life, William J. Howells, Webster Hall, filed a suit against Gracie H. Howells, 832 Rossmore avenue, in Common Pleas Court. They were married June 21, 1909, and parted July 3 last.

Family Out, Fire Damages Home $500

Fire which originated in the basement of the home of Ambrose Reich, at 1072 Arlington avenue, damaged it to the extent of $500 last night. The blaze, which broke out during the absence of the family, was discovered by a pedestrian.

HELPERS RALLY TO AID TOY MISSION

Three Agencies Join in Bringing Joy to Deserving Poor; Facilitate Collection

The Toy Mission Santa Claus today was assured of three more willing helping agencies—city police and firemen and the Sun-Telegraph.

They will facilitate the collection of neighborhood donations for the mission, which for 36 years has brought Christmas joy to thousands of poor children under the direction of its founder, George L. Bond, of Crafton.

Mr. Bond is recuperating from a long spell of illness. He continues supervision of repairing broken toys and packing, and city police and firemen and the Sun-Telegraph are looking after the collection.

Every city police and fire station has been made a receiving station. Sun-Telegraph trucks will gather up the donations and deliver them to Toy Mission headquarters at 414 Penn avenue.

A city-wide appeal went out today for neighborhood donations of toys, which may be delivered to the nearest police or fire engine house. Bring anything that can be repaired.

Especially wanted are such playthings as dolls, scooters, express wagons, hobby horses, children's games, doll houses, toy household utensils, bicycles and velocipedes.

Yesterday a father paused in his quest for employment to deliver the plea of his four needy children. He said:

"Please send toys to my four little girls. The eldest is 10 and the youngest 4. I have had but two months' work since last March and I'm afraid it will be a lean Christmas in our house, but I hate to disappoint the children."

There are thousands of cases like this. The Toy Mission has issued this plea:

"Send us toys—new or old. Or, if you haven't toys to give, then send money."

MODEL FOR CHRIST BABE

JOSEPH CHARLES . . . HIS FAMILY NAME'S WITHHELD

The lad finally selected by Frank Aretz, sculptor and designer, as a model for the Christmas Panel he's executing to be unveiled Christmas eve in Sacred Heart Church. The boy will pose for the Christ Child. His parents wish his family name withheld.

Attractive Society Girl Starts Mystery Trip On Wedding Eve

CHAPTER I.

All day, all evening, people had been in and out the house. The telephone had been ringing with important insistence. Connie's wedding dress, a gorgeous heap of white satin, did not yet satisfy the nimble, tireless fingers of the gown-maker. Already Connie's nerves tingled and jumped: tomorrow she would be married, unless . . . unless . . .

When she talked to people she couldn't help thinking about the letter. It stuck in her mind like a burr. It was brutal . . . monstrous . . . false! Yet, somehow, the vicious missive smacked of truth. A sickening tide of cold fear ran in her blood and would not be stilled.

She was irritated because Jim kept hanging around. Why didn't he go off with his best man and some of the ushers? But, no—it was like Jim Tracy to be everywhere under her feet which ever way she turned on this, her last day of freedom.

After tomorrow they would belong to each other forever, and today she wanted to be alone, wanted quiet privacy that she might think, and think, and think. He even stayed that night for dinner. The meal was served outside on the stone-flagged porch, overlooking the beautiful rolling Connecticut country. As they ate, Connie had the letter in the breast of her dress and was conscious throughout the meal of its feel against her body.

She looked at Jim and found him wholly satisfactory. Her husband would be young, handsome, athletic. His manners were charming in a boyish, informal way; towards the servants he had an indefinable brusqueness, but it was scarcely noticeable.

Likable Chap
Jim Is Adored by Connie's Mother

Mrs. Calvert, Connie's mother, adored him; her father, too, had he been alive, probably would have liked Jim. Everybody, almost, was attracted to him for his clear, gray eyes, the clean skin of his well-featured face, the soft luster of his black hair and his pleasant speech with its slight, hesitant note in everything he said.

His folks were honorably poor, but Jim, as he approached 30, was said to be doing very well financially in the brokerage firm. Connie knew a dozen girls who would have leaped at the chance of marrying Jim Tracy, but he had preferred her of all others, and she loved him; it would have been too cruel to thwart his eager, pervading charm.

Yes, they were going to be happy—happier than any couple Connie knew. His eyes, now, studied her face with some slight discernment of her secret. Naturally, she was a bit upset, but Jim Tracy sensed something else, too.

"What's the manner, Connie, dear?" There was a smile in his voice, but the gray eyes were perturbed. "You're not feeling shaky, or anything?"

She smiled at him with a flash of her own buoyant self.

"Don't be silly, Jim—I feel like a million!"

Connie Nervous
Asks Her Fiance to Go Home

Mrs. Calvert—the three of them were dining alone—smiled a little nervously. She was white-haired and frail, strangely old-fashioned to be the mother of such a modernistic girl as Connie. The pep, the vigor had all come from the other side of the house and Mrs. Calvert still looked upon marriage as a sacrificial rite. To give Connie up in marriage was a little like a funeral.

"You'll be good to her, won't

Mother of 16 Held As Well Poisoner

SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 5.—(AP.) — A 55-year-old woman, mother of 16 children, eight of whom are living, was in jail here today, held for questioning in connection with the poisoning of a grocer's well.

The woman, Mrs. Catherine Krowczyk, was taken in custody after it was established that poison was taken from the well of John Lugiewicz in the village of Carrollton.

SHORT ROUTE TO COAST CITED

Board Engineer Stresses Economy for Shippers Sending Goods Abroad

Pittsburgh's ability to compete for many of its export markets would be greatly increased by the construction of the proposed Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal. The project would give this district a shorter all-water route to the seaboard than any existing at present.

This was shown by Robert Isham Randolph, consulting engineer for the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of the State of Pennsylvania, in his appeal from the report of Col. C. W. Kutz, of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army.

COST FIGURES ASSAILED

The report made by Col. Kutz stated that the canal was feasible from an engineering standpoint, but declared that the benefits to be gained would not warrant the expenditure. Randolph's appeal to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors asserted that the operating costs had been computed on an improper basis, and it also showed that estimates of tonnages and economies were too low.

While the movement of coal from Pittsburgh to Youngstown and the lakes to Pittsburgh will provide the principal traffic over the canal, the shipment of products from Pittsburgh for export would also contribute materially to the canal's business, according to Randolph.

CHEAPER THAN BY RAIL

At present Pittsburgh has only one all-water route to the ocean. This is through the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. While the rail route to the Atlantic seaboard is much shorter, the cost of moving freight by train is higher than by water for heavy bulk products such as steel.

As an example of the aid to Pittsburgh's export business, the appeal shows that the present distance from Pittsburgh to Liverpool by the Mississippi River system and ocean routes is 7,253 miles.

CUT BY NEARLY HALF

Using the proposed canal and the St. Lawrence River route the distance would be cut to 3,782 miles, which is only slightly more than half the distance through the Gulf of Mexico. The total saving in distance would be 3,471 miles.

The all-water route to Liverpool by the new canal would be 240 miles shorter than the distance by rail to New York and by boat from there to Liverpool.

Similar savings in distance can be shown to a large share of the export markets of Pittsburgh industries.

Banquet of Veteran Railroaders Tuesday

Veteran employes of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and their families will attend a banquet and dance Tuesday night in Kaufmann's auditorium. The division extends from Pittsburgh to Mansfield, O., and many out-of-town veterans are expected to attend. P. W. Sullivan, division superintendent, will be toastmaster.

Lake Canal Backers Ready To Invade Capital

More than half a hundred Pittsburgh business men will leave Monday night to seek support of Senators and Congressmen of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia in speeding government authorization of the Ohio River-Lake Erie canal. They will attend a conference in the Hotel Willard, Washington, Tuesday morning.

Thomas C. Foley, acting general manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, announced last night that several men representing the Youngstown, O., interests would attend the conference with the Pittsburgh delegation. The Pittsburgh delegation also will bring up the project at the National Rivers and Harbors Congress which meets in Washington Tuesday and Wednesday.

James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Pittsburgh Chamber, will address the congress, presenting the plan for the canal as desired by the local river interests. Congressman John G. Cooper, of Youngstown, also is scheduled to speak. He will discuss the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Rivers. Patrick Hurley, secretary of war, is also to speak.

COUNTY AIRPORT MAY NOT ACHIEVE FIRST-CLASS RATING

BROWN REVEALS STATUS TO AIR CLUB HERE

Four More Runways Needed Under Proposed Rules by Federal and State Boards

The $2,500,000 county airport may not receive an A-1-A rating for many years and, in fact, never may achieve that state of perfection if the federal and state requirements are changed in the near future as many expect, it was revealed today as an aftermath of an address by Public Works Director Norman B. Brown before the Aero Club of Pittsburgh yesterday.

The director, explaining the delay which postpones the opening of the field until next spring, declared there would be four hard-surfaced runways available. The longest is 3,500 feet and the shortest 1,767 feet.

Regulations of the United States Department of Commerce and the State Bureau of Aeronautics for an A-1-A rating call for eight runways, none of which must be shorter than 2,650 feet.

COST, TIME VAGUE

Brown's assistants, who remained to answer questions after Brown had completed his address, asserted that these regulations would be complied with "eventually."

How much additional money will be needed for the "eventual" development and how soon "eventually" might be expected to come to pass was not explained, though.

The director, in his address, compared the ultimate development of the airport with ports elsewhere in the country. He said there was nowhere any to be compared to Allegheny County's project. He said:

"Our plans have met with complete approval by both the State bureau and the Department of Commerce officials at Washington. They did not even suggest revision of the slightest detail.

"Our plans include everything—in fact, we've got things they never even heard of down at Harrisburg and Washington."

Some of the "things" referred to by the director were a new method of drainage; a sunken ramp in front of the hangars; a utility building and other features, some of which are to come in the ultimate development.

In explaining the present delay in laying the hard-surface on the runways, Brown said that the county commissioners thought it wise to have the county road maintenance department do this work and so provide employment for several hundred otherwise unemployed. The director said:

"This will delay us about a month or two, but I think it worth while under the circumstances."

BUILDINGS BY SPRING

One hangar, an administration building and a utilities building will be erected immediately. The county is ready to advertise for bids on this work, he said. They will be completed some time in May or June, according to his calculation.

The director bitterly responded to rumors of monopolized management. He said there would be no "squatters," despite what might be said over the county commissioners recent action in leasing flying rights to Transcontinental Air Transport for one dollar a year.

POLICE STATION PRISONER HURT

James Reilly, 35, "no home," was taken from a cell in Central Police Station to Allegheny General Hospital early today when a turnkey found him unconscious on the floor. At the hospital it was said he appeared to have a fracture of the skull.

Reilly was arrested at Tenth street and Duquesne way several hours before and booked at the station on a charge of drunkenness.

George Egatta, 50, who occupied the same cell, and John Beattie, in an adjoining cell, both arrested last night on drunkenness charges, were detained for questioning, after Beattie told police that shortly before Reilly was found he heard a scuffle in his cell.

Banquet to Honor Negro Legislator

Walter E. Tucker, first Negro to be elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature from Allegheny County, will be honor guest at a banquet by residents of the Fifth Ward in Pythian Temple tonight. The Rev. A. V. Hightower is general chairman of the dinner; Albert Davis, secretary, and Henry C. Vassar, treasurer.

U. S. DELAYING RIVER WALLS

Charles M. Reppert, city engineer, has announced that he is prepared to submit a report to federal engineers asking for a revision of the downtown harbor line, so river walls may be erected around the Triangle. This announcement was made by Reppert yesterday in an address before the engineers' council of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting was attended by members of the chamber's committee appointed to co-operate with city engineers in working out plans for waterfront improvements and river-rail terminals. The river-rail terminals fit into the general plans for river-front development, including the building of walls that would beautify the downtown harbor outline and protect the downtown from floods, Reppert said.

The city engineer declared nothing can be done on the problem of river walls until the government engineers have replied to the city's proposal to revise the present harbor line. Reppert and Ross M. Reigal, of the Public Works Department, explained features of the two proposed river-rail terminals.

CAB COMPANIES OPPOSE ZONE PROJECT

Low Rates Fought as Ruinous Competition; Protest Bell Co. Permit

Opposition to the Public Service Commission granting the Bell Taxicab Company permission to operate in Pittsburgh is to be fought on the ground that to permit the Bell concern to haul passengers for a fare of 35 cents a zone, would be ruinous competition to existing cab and car lines.

This was indicated by Attorney C. K. Robinson, counsel for the Parmalee Company, operating the Green and Yellow cabs. He says such competition has proved ruinous in other cities. The City of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and its ally, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, also are opposing the Bell plan.

LOW RATES FOR WORKERS

John H. Korman, of Washington, D. C., secretary-treasurer of the Bell company, says his company wants to cater to 97 per cent of the public. He claims that by actual investigation the other lines only carry daily 2.6 per cent of the people or at the rate of 24,000. He says the fares of his company would appeal to the vast majority of salaried people and workers generally, who cannot afford to pay existing rates of fare.

Using Fifth avenue and Smithfield street as a starting point, the end of the first zone fare of 35 cents for four persons would be as follows:

ZONES EXPLAINED

Penn avenue and Butler street, Boulevard of Allies and Schenley Park at Wilmot street bridge, Wabash and Main streets, Steuben and Carson streets as first zone to McKees Rocks, Twenty-second and Carson streets, end of Liberty Tubes, South Hills section; Troy Hill road and East Ohio street and intersection of Perryaville avenue and Federal street.

A second zone going to the East End, for instance, would be Shady and Penn avenues, in the heart of the East Liberty section.

In any event, any point from the downtown section to the city line could be traveled for not more than $1.05 for four persons. There would be special fare rates beyond the three-zone limit to such places as Bellevue and Sewickley, all based on the zone fare idea. Korman says he has $200,000 back of him to put into the Pittsburgh enterprise.

THINGS WORTH SAVING FOR

An enterprising young Pittsburgh woman secretary, opened an account with us in December, 1928. By June, 1930, she had saved the full amount required for a six weeks' trip through England, France and Switzerland. Wouldn't you like to do this too?

"They're Changing Guard at Buckingham Palace"

You are there watching them . . . The red coats. The shining helmets! The trumpet calls! . . . Yes—you. You're seeing England!—the thing you've yearned for, dreamed of, all your life . . . your trip abroad! . . . And it's all been made possible because you looked ahead—planned—saved.

Saving is one of the happiest—yes, and easiest—things you can do, when you're looking forward to the realization of some deep desire. Just a little, put by systematically, regularly. And, as it accumulates—usually faster than you ever expected—you see your dream shape itself detail by detail right up to the moment of its realization.

Let us help you make Your Trip to Europe come true. Open an account now and let it draw interest at 4 per cent compounded semi-annually. Start saving TODAY.

TIGER HEART

By Robert Terry Shannon.

you, Jim?" she said, and her voice almost quavered.

"You know I will, mother," Jim told her, earnestly. "I'd give my life—honestly—to make her happy."

They had talked all this a hundred times before, and Connie felt she could not stand it another instant. Abruptly, she got up from the table.

"All right, Jim—I'm going to take you at your word if you want to make me happy—right now—you can trot along home. I'm simply worn out with all this hullabaloo and my nerves are in a flutter. Be a good boy, Jim, and ramble along—won't you?"

"Right!"

Jim came up to his feet, instantly. The ready smile was on his lips, but his eyes were still perturbed.

"It's an awful strain on the girl," Mrs Calvert murmured.

"Kiss me, then, till tomorrow at high noon." Jim said, with a thrill in his voice "Just think, dear, how glorious it's all going to be. When I come walking down the aisle I'll be treading on air! I can hardly bear to think of it, dear, because the very thought runs through me like a streak of lightning."

Jim Returns

Sits in Machine and Watches House

"Yes, I know," Connie said, but there was something absent in her voice.

When he had gone, she persuaded her mother to go early to bed. Alone in her room, she faced the stark reality of her tragedy.

Jim Tracy drove his roadster away from the Calvert home and followed the road for a mile, turned and drove back to within 300 yards of the place, where he parked beside the low stone wall that inclosed the landscaped acreage. Even to himself he could not explain his actions. Merely there was a growing tension in his mind, an unrest in his instincts. Perhaps there was a strain of the seer in his nature, a faint heritage of those telepathic intuitions that must have belonged to man in the early ages Beyond his power of analysis was a strange sensation that a brooding menace was in the air.

Connie had not deceived him. She had tried to conceal her hidden worry, but, with a lover's acumen, he had been stirred with a suspicion that would not down. Yet there was no possible obstacle between them . . . .

Sitting in the car, he smoked one cigaret after another. He was, he told himself, a fool. Only an insane idiot madly in love on a night before his marriage would waste his time mooning over his hunch. Even the hunch amounted to nothing; it was too vague, too effeminate to have any real substance. Still, a mysterious attraction held him where he could watch the house.

It was a lovely place—the Calvert home. One of the show places of the neighborhood and only an hour's distance by train from his Wall street office. Old Theodore Calvert, Connie's father, had lavished a sizable fortune on the rambling, colonial home and its beautiful grounds.

A Shock

Sees Connie's Roadster Driven Away

After the honeymoon, it would be Jim's home, too He would give up his apartment in the city and move out Connie meant everything on earth to him beauty, love, financial security.

A light went out in an upstairs window—that was Mrs. Calvert going to bed. Connie's window, next, darkened. Still Jim Tracy lingered . . . somehow, he could not tear himself away . . . After a time he decided he was making himself utterly ridiculous. He was about to start his own car when there was a sound of an engine throbbling softly into action within the Calvert garage. His whole body tightened.

Running without lights, he saw Connie's own roadster glide down the drive and steal into the road. Without seeing her he knew for a certainly that Connie was at the wheel. Inexplicably, her car was headed toward New York.

TRIES SUICIDE AFTER QUARREL

A quarrel with his father and his girl was believed today to have prompted Ben Wilson, 20, of 130 Congress street, McKeesport, to shoot himself near the heart at the Fite Station car stop, in North Versailles Township, last night, according to county detectives.

His condition was regarded critical in McKeesport Hospital, from which he twice tried to escape after being taken there.

In the first attempt he was caught and held in the institution, and in the other instance he was placed in the McKeesport Police Station until the arrival of County Detective James Reddington, the sleuth reported.

Weakened by his attempts to flee, Wilson was taken back to the hospital by Reddington.

30-DAY TERM FOR 'RED'

Mike Bodick, 40, admits that he is a Communist, that he doesn't like welfare agencies because they compel him to work, and that he would rather live in "The Jungles," home of derelicts in the Banksville road, than sleep in a warm bed.

That's what Mike told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today when arraigned for selling Communistic literature in front of the Helping Hand, shelter for unemployed, in Water street.

Bodick was sent to the workhouse for 30 days. Immigration officials will check his record to find if he is a subject for deportation.

POTTERY WAGE TALK GOES ON

Officials of the United States Potters' Association and representatives of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters today entered the fourth day of their discussion of a wage scale at their headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. Decision will affect 8,000 pottery workers.

Representatives of the workers are said to have spurned a proposal to reduce wages 10 to 15 per cent. The potteries are operating under a contract which expired September 1, but which was extended to January 1.

Lawyers Anti-Dry In D. C. by 97 to 13

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The Bar Association of the District of Columbia last night voted 97 to 13 for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The vote was taken in closed session at a Washington club after a number of efforts had been made by the minority to have the action postponed.

FIND 2 GUILTY IN FAKE CASH CASE

Santo Leone and John Disposito, alias John Damatta, of Brooklyn, tried on 23 counts of possessing and passing counterfeit $20 Federal Reserve Bank notes on merchants in Cambria and Somerset counties, were found guilty on all counts by a jury in federal court today. They were found guilty also on a conspiracy charge.

A sentence of 347 years each is within the power of the judge to impose.

The trial starte Tuesday before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. The government called 50 witnesses, many of whom testified having received spurious $20 notes in payment of gasoline and other merchandise. Some identified the two defendants as those who passed the fake bills.

Angelo Perrago, of Jennerstown, a co-defendant, who pleaded guilty, testified for the government.

Coal Mine Deaths Show Marked Decline

The vital statistics report of the state bituminous coal industry for the month of November discloses 17 fatalities as compared to 32 during the same month last year. Only 19 fatal accidents occurred in October of this year, making the best record in Pennsylvania history.

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever 10, whooping cough 3, mumps 4, chickenpox 22 and pneumonia 3.

Two Women Break Arms on Way To Keep Date

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Fred W. Bailey and Mrs. Roswell Pickford, neighbors, both started for the residence of Mrs. E. Carey to hear a talk on books. They said over the telephone they would see one another at Mrs. Carey's.

Both slipped on icy sidewalks and both suffered fractures of their right arms. The ambulance took them to the same hospital and they arrived in the X-ray room at the same time. They went home together after their fractures were treated.

AUTOISTS SLOW ASKING PLATES

Less than 20 per cent of the 1,842,492 Pennsylvania automobile owners have applied for 1931 license plates, the Pittsburgh Motor Club was informed yesterday by Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles. This leaves the greater bulk of the plates to be shipped when the mails are crowded with Christmas letters and packages.

Plates now are being delivered from Harrisburg within two days, but when the mails are clogged it will require from five to 10 days, it was said. Commissioner Eynon said there would be no extension granted to motorists who have failed to receive their plates by December 31.

WHITER SCORES NEW RAIL LINE

The proposal to build a new railroad between Pittsburgh and New York was branded as "economically unnecessary" by E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in a talk yesterday before members of the Pittsburgh Bond Club at their noon luncheon in Hotel William Penn. Mr. Whiter said:

"The four railroads already operating between the cities are able to accommodate all transportation needs, and the appearance of a fifth road would only divide the service into five parts instead of four."

Mr. Whiter declared that only great expenditures on the part of the railroads has restored transportation service to the confidence of the public. He said that when the government control of the roads was removed the railroads were demoralized and that it required an improvement policy of $7,000,000,000 over a seven-year period to restore the roads to a high standard.

Mrs. Willebrandt's Plane Downed Here

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, en route by plane from St. Louis to Washington, was forced down at Bettis Field last night by adverse weather conditions. Pilots at the field refused to continue the flight on account of bad weather. She continued her journey by train.

Orchestra Concerts Today; Tomorrow

The Cleveland Orchestra will give a concert from 4 until 5 o'clock in Carnegie Music Hall this afternoon with a program prepared especially for children in the grade schools.

The concert tonight will be augmented with the Carnaval du Parnasse, by De Mondonville, and Schubert's Unfinished Symphony. Tomorrow afternoon Tschaikowsky's Overture to "Romeo and Juliet" will be given as the extra number in the absence of a soloist. Other works tonight include the Overture "Sakuntala," by Goldmark; Entr'acte, from Khovanstchina, by Moussorgsky, and "The Sea, Three Symphonic Sketches," by Debussy.

3 Women Fined In Store Thefts

Jessie Horner, Annie Warren and Mary Sirmonts, all Negroes, of 2136 Center avenue, were fined $25 each, with choice of 10 days in jail, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. They were charged with stealing merchandise in a downtown store.

CAPITAL DEATH SUSPECT HELD

William J. Carnell, alias William Collins, of Washington, was being held in the county jail today pending the arrival of police from the capital, who want him in connection with the murder, during an attempted holdup, of Louis Bush, a bus operator, October 6.

Carnell, arrested by East Pittsburgh police Wednesday night when a merchant charged him with passing worthless checks, broke down after a grilling and admitted, police reported, that he was wanted in connection with the murder.

The day following the slaying Carnell eluded a score of city detectives who surrounded a transcontinental bus as it pulled into a terminal in Liberty avenue. His companion, William Mahoney, was arrested and returned to Washington.

Victim of Explosion Aboard Boat Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Adolf Gobel, Jr., 31, a law student, died in a hospital last night of burns received in a gasoline explosion aboard his launch, the Dorothy D., in Jamaica Bay.

CALENDAR BAD FOR RUM PLEA

A hearing was held yesterday before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson on a petition of Fred Giguente, in which the latter sought to have 130 gallons of moonshine whisky suppressed as evidence against himself and four other defendants. The moonshine was seized in a house in Oakdale, declared a distillery by prohibition agents.

Claiming the place was his private residence, Giguente produced in evidence a photograph of a room in the house, showing a bed and other household furniture. He testified the picture was taken before the raid on June 17.

The judge noted on the photograph a calendar showing the month of October. The court refused to suppress the evidence by dismissal of the petition.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Dance, Lunch To Be Given For Buds

Every day until the season ends with the arrival of the new year, there'll be more and more plans for entertaining the debutantes, for whom remain only a few more gay weeks.

Among the deb entertainments of next week will be a dinner-dance the Alexander Laughlin Robinsons will give for their cousin, Madeline Alexander, debutante daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, of Brooktkley Heights and Ridge avenue, North Side.

On Monday the Allegheny Country Club will be the scene of a luncheon Mrs. Charles Wiley Davis will give in honor of Martha Leggate, debutante daughter of Thomas Leggate.

A party of Pittsburgh folks will attend the Grasslands International Steeplechase, to be run at Grasslands Down, near Nashville, Tenn., tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for a gold cup presented by His Majesty, Alfonso XIII, King of Spain, and for stakes and money totaling $10,000.

At Chase In South

The Alan Magee Scaifes are guests of Julius Fleischman, Jr., at his log house, Pilot Knob House, and will be honor guests at a dinner Mr. Fleischman will give in his home tonight before the Grasslands Assembly, a Bal Poudre, taking place this evening in an ante-bellum home, owned and renovated by the Southern Grasslands Hunt and Racing Foundation. Among the patronesses for the assembly is Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock.

Also attending the events at Grasslands are Edgar F. Kaufman, who has entered two French chasers, Libertin VIII, and Sarcaneza, and the John W. Lawrences, the A. Rex Flinns, Mrs. Howard Heinz and Mrs. Simon T. Patterson.

Jane Sloan, a debutante of the past winter, will head a group of girls who will act as ushers at "The Blue and [illegible]ay," to be [illegible]ited by Cap [illegible] Bells, dra[illegible]atic club of [illegible]illiam College, on Monday night, December 29, in the Twentieth Century Club.

To Aid Players

A dance in the club will follow the play at which members of the case will be honor guests.

Margret Brill, debutante daughter of the Alfred Polland Brills, of St. James street, will arrive home for the holidays on Monday, December 15, from the French School, and will remain until after New Year's. On December 21 Eu[illegible] Greenley, of New York, a debutante of the past winter, will arrive to be Margret's house guest and to attend Margret's debut at a tea dance her mother will give on Monday, December 22, in the University Club.

* * *

I know of another student arriving home for the Yule season, Eloise Dorrance, younger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, of South Negley avenue, is arriving on December 20 from Ashley Hall in Charleston, S. C. Arriving the week following will be a house guest, Phoebe Flowers, of New Orleans, La., and New York, who is also a student at Ashley Hall. Before coming to Pittsburgh Phoebe and her brother, Goodrich Flowers, of Yale, will go to Bermuda with their father for Christmas.

Honoring Students

Mrs. Dorrance plans to entertain for Eloise and Phoebe with a supper-dance during the holidays in the Dorrance residence, although the date has not yet been announced.

The Taylor Allderdices, of Wilkins avenue, will have their granddaughter, Jane Travers, a student at the Masters' School in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., as their guest during the Christmas holiday, and she is to share honors with Helen House at the dinner dance the junior C. L. Peirces are giving the evening of December 20 in their home in Beechwood boulevard.

* * *

Mrs. William Harrison MacAffee, of Beacon street, and her daughter, Jane, who had planned to entertain in their home the Sunday preceding Christmas, have postponed the affair to the following day, Monday, December 22. It is to be a buffet luncheon for the younger school set.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schlentner, of Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mata Schlentner, to Gilbert Kunkel, son of Mrs. Earl Tatten, of Earlmire street, which took place at 7:45 o'clock Saturday evening in St. John's Lutheran Church, with the Rev. J. H. Tarnedde officiating.

Announce Marriage

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore blue chiffon with a matching hat and carried tea roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Melanie Schlentner, was the bridesmaid, and wore a gown of brown chiffon with a brown hat, and carried yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Small Earla Tatten was the flower girl, wearing pink taffeta. She carried pink roses. John Kunkel was his brother's best man.

There was a reception and buffet supper in the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel will make their home in Sarlmire street, Dormont.

Two Find $1,500, Get Dollar Reward

AURORA, Neb., Dec. 5.—(AP.) Jack Carroll, 28, Akron, O., and William Martin, Philadelphia, are honest men.

While "bumming" their way eastward, they found a pocketbook containing $1,500 in a railroad station here.

They turned it over to the station agent who returned it to the owner. The owner said:

"Thanks, here's a dollar."

China Missionaries' Rescuers Returning

PEIPING, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—The rescue party of officers and escorts who procured the release from bandits of Mrs. H. D. Hayward, American missionary, and Miss E. Gomersall, of England, were on the way to Peiping today, reports received from Kansu Province stated. The condition of Mrs. Hayward, who was seriously ill at the time of her capture, was reported satisfactory.

New Bishop to Take Post in February

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The installation of the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart as bishop of the Chicago Episcopal Diocese will take place in February, it was announced today.

Church offices said that the incoming bishop, who succeeds the late Sheldon M. Griswold, will not call for a suffragan or coadjutor to aid him.

Women's Popularity As Jurors Growing

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The popularity of women as jurors appears to be growing. Yesterday attorneys for Mrs. Josephine Kajawa, on trial for slaying Mrs. Mary Slomba, presented a motion to dismiss the 12 men jurors selected and substitute a new panel of six women and six men. The court, however, declined to grant the request.

PITT MAN HITS DISHONEST OFFICIALS

Corruption Among Public Servants Held Treason; Severest Penalty Urged

Severe criticism of dishonest public officials is made by Dr. W. T. Root, trustee of the Western Penitentiary and head of the psychology department of the University of Pittsburgh, in an article appearing in "The Record," a university publication which appears today. Dr. Root believes that legal offenses of public officials, involving public dishonesty should be regarded as treason and the punishment should be the severest meted out for any offense.

Dr. Root states in his article:

"Any private crime, even murder, is relatively far less significant in the harm it does to the ideals of the community."

The article states:

"A public official can corrupt and undermine the social attitude of an entire community. When he permits a law to be broken a thousand times by friends, supporters and pillars of society, he lays a basis for disregard for law that may eventually undermine the attitude of a whole city."

Among other recommendations, Dr. Root suggests less publicity of criminal trials except those that effect the community such as the trial of a public official.

INDIANA GRID TROPHY FOUND

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Intact after being in the hands of kidnapers for 10 days, the "old oaken bucket" was found on a loading platform in downtown Lafayette.

The trophy, over which Purdue and Indiana football teams have battled since 1925, had been missing since November 24, when a group of youths posing as Indiana students obtained it in Indianapolis while it was en route to Bloomington for a "victory dance" celebrating Indiana's 7 to 6 victory over the Boilermakers.

An elderly man was reported to have deposited the crate late yesterday on the loading platform of the Lafayette Journal and Courier. Purdue athletic circles expressed belief it had been stolen in retaliation for the theft after the annual football game, of the Purdue "victory bell," which was found near Wingate, Ind., its clapper missing. Purdue authorities will now return the bucket to Indiana.

The bucket was placed in competition between the two schools in 1925 by George Ade, Hoosier humorist, and H. R. Kurrie, president of the Monon Railroad.

Four Mississippi Colleges Suspended

ATLANTA, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States has suspended the University of Mississippi, Mississippi A. and M., Mississippi State College for Women and Mississippi State Teachers College from membership in the association.

The report of the executive committee which was adopted attributed the suspension to "the wholesale dropping of scores of officers and teachers (from the suspended schools last summer) without warning, without charges and without opportunity of defense."

Water Company Awarded New Rates

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A new schedule of water rates was established by the Public Service Commission for the Mountain State Utilities Company, which supplies consumers at Buckhannon. The new rates, which represent a compromise between the town council and the water company, will bring in an annual revenue of $32,000, an increase of $3,000 over the present revenue.

Woman Found Dead In 2 Inches of Water

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 5.—Believed to have fallen into a creek when she attempted to cross a foot-bridge near her home, Mrs. Frances Latervich, 46, was found dead in about two inches of water. Authorities believe she was frozen to death, as she was not in sufficient water to drown.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

What Rights Have Parents In Their Youngster?

Who owns the youngster—
The mother who goes down into the valley of the shadow of death to bear it—
Or the father who pays the bills?

Same Trouble

Now comes Mary, with a hunk of the same trouble. But this time it's Papa who wants to corner the kid. That's his "right," says he. And why is it his "right?" Because he paid the doctor!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I read your column every day, and believe me, you have helped me many times, even if I didn't ever write before and say so. And now here I am myself, with a problem that's just driving me mad.

"I read the letter today from Allan Foster, and his question about who the children belong to hit me hard. I feel awfully sorry for him. I certainly do think he was treated very unfairly. But now hear me. I have the same kind of trouble.

"I have a little son. A tiny fellow, whom I adore with my whole heart and soul. In him the sun rises and the stars shine for me. If anything happened to him I would be just broken-hearted. But here's the difficulty:

Dad Claims Child

"My husband says he belongs to him more than to me, because he paid the hospital bills and the doctor's bill when he was born. And he says that when Junior is a little older, he is going to take him away from me. He intends to put him with his mother (baby's grandmother), who lives in another state, to raise. And he says that I have no right to object. That it's his sayso, not mine, what shall be done with the child I brought into the world. Because he paid those bills. Do you think there's anything right or fair about that? I went down into the shadow of death to bring my baby into the world . . . and then to have him say such a thing! Just because he paid out a little money for him!

"I worship my baby, and I try to do everything in the world that I can to give him good health and good training. I don't drink or smoke, and I never look at any other man than my husband. I never run around. I am home all the time. You know a woman with a little baby to look after isn't going to have much time to chase around.

"Yet he is always suspicious of me. He continually accuses me of finding time to run around with other men. And that is just a plain lie. All in his imagination. I love no other man but him. But he is using this suspicion of me as an excuse to take Junior away and send him to my mother-in-law.

"I feel so blue and discouraged, and lately, when he says he is going to take my baby away, I get just desperate.

"Do you think he has any right to take him? Don't you think that after I went through all the pain and danger of bringing him into the world, I have just as good a right to him as his father?

"Please help me. I am nearly crazy with worry. Can he take my baby away from me? Oh, what shall I do? What makes him like that? "MARY D."

No, Mary dear, he can't take the baby from you, not if you are a good mother—and I'm betting that you're one of the best. But the court can divide that pitiful little life between you two, if you don't stop your squabbling and use sense.

Jealousy Probable Cause

You've given your side of the story—but there are always two sides, Mary. And it's up to you to do your part, just as much as it is up to him.

My guess is that the Big Boy is jealous — and is using this threat as a club to get some attention. Who's he jealous of? Probably of his own little son. You young mothers are apt to become so absorbed in the New Marvel that you quite forget the old lover who married you because he wanted you all to himself. The chances are that you've pushed Dad aside—that you've paraded your love for Junior and your right to Junior until you've gotten Dad's goat. And he's trying to hurt you as you've hurt him.

Snap out of it! Remember you're a wife as well as a mamma. Remember also, that too much loving is as bad for the youngster as it is for you. You worked mighty hard to win Dad once. Work hard now to hold him. For if you don't, you'll lose more than just Dad. You'll lose that precious baby part of the time.

"But no court ought to take a child from its mother!" you cry. Well, that's the question we started with.

Just what are a mother's rights? Just what are the rights of a Dad? You tell us, partner.

One Trouble with Gossip Is It's About Another's Story, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Not so long ago a friend and myself were gossiping together—about ourselves.

In the course of our conversation there entered the name of one we both know and like.

My friend remarked that she (this other friend) had had an interesting experience.

"Perhaps she will tell you some day. It is very interesting. I cannot tell you—IT IS NOT MY STORY!"

I was greatly struck by this statement—"It is not my story!"

How much heartache and confusion could be avoided in this world, if we all stuck strictly to our own story, and would respect the other person's right to his.

The trouble with gossip is that it is nearly always the other fellow's story, and rarely our own.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation Of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Veritzen Dinner Ends

My panic at Philip Veritzen's question concerning the twelfth guest at Mary's party merged the next instant into anger. He must know that Noel's name would be the answer to his question. It had been idiotic for me to suppose anything else, and I turned to him braced for conflict.

"The twelfth guest?" I repeated. "That shouldn't be hard to deduct, only he ought to be called the first guest. No party for Mary could be given fittingly without Noel Veritzen."

I gave the boy's full name purposely, for the benefit of young Mr. Cameron, watching him furtively the while to see if the utterance of the name was a surprise to him. I decided swiftly that he knew Noel was betrothed to Mary, knew it from the lips of Noel's father. What else had our imperious host told him and how deeply was he involved in whatever fantastic, perhaps sinister, scheme which I was sure the elder Veritzen was concocting?

I had no answers for those questions, but I had gleaned enough from his manner—or lack of it—to put me more on guard than ever. With sudden recollection I glanced at Mary, quick apprehension in my eyes. I had not yet told her that Noel was coming up for the party. When she had asked me "what about Noel?" I had countered with the request that she leave all details to me, and she had agreed. But of my own telephone conversation with her fiance, I had told her nothing, and I was afraid that she might betray a surprise which would give a new direction to Philip Veritzen's fantastic conjectures.

But I need not have feared for Mary. She gave a smiling nod of assent to my little speech and exclaimed with a stereotyped schoolgirl gurgle over the dessert which the waiters were putting before us.

"Oh! how perfectly spiffy these look! And this jelly!" peering at the side dish of translucent compote which the man had set at the left of her dessert plate. "What marvelous color, like rose leaves!"

"They are rose leaves, Miss Mary," Mr. Veritzen explained as if to a child. "This is rose petal jelly, and I am sure you will find it delicious in combination with your pastry."

But her appreciation of the roseleaf jelly and of the pastry which it garnished was shared by all of us, and when demitasses of the black, thick, sweet Turkish coffee completed the dinner, there was no mental reservation in the encomiums of the feast which we all gave our host.

"If you are pleased that is all I wish to know," Mr. Veritzen said to me when we had risen from the table and he was assisting me into my coat. His voice was low but impressive, and he had emphasized the "you" embarrassingly. I shot a furtive glance at Dicky, wondering if he had heard the little speech, but he was apparently absorbed in helping Edith Fairfax—decidedly sulky—into her coat. But unluckily my host had caught that furtive glance, and a mocking glint came into his eyes.

"Still the patient Griselda, I see, fearful of what her lord may say."

The words and tone were crass, a surprising thing in Philip Veritzen. His temper and his self control, I decided, must have been sorely tried by the failure of his scheme to have Colin Cameron take Mary for a drive and breakfast a deux.

I lifted my head and looked at him steadily.

"That speech is unworthy of you," I said coldly. "I do not like it. Please——"

"You needn't finish the sentence," he said, with real contrition in his voice. "I am indeed sorry. Please forgive me."

"On condition——." I left the sentence unfinished with a smile and turned to Mary, who, with the young talkie star at her elbow had come close to my side.

"Mr. Cameron wants to know where this party is going to be staged," she said, "and whether it is to be tomorrow night or the next."

"I haven't the slightest idea," I told the young man, laughing. "I told you it was an impromptu affair. But I shall have perfected all the details by noon tomorrow. Will that be time enough?"

"Yes, indeed. I probably shall be just waking up," young Mr. Cameron rejoined, and then Dicky's voice sounded just behind me.

"How about it, old dear? Feel like driving down with me to take Ede home?"

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Joint Bank Account

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have a joint bank account at the bank. Will you kindly tell me if it is correct for me to sign my name to checks in this way: "Mrs. William Smith?" If not, will you tell me if it is permissable to use Mrs. before one's name at any time?

Thanking you, I am,
Sincerely yours,
MARY M. SMITH.
(Mrs. William Smith).

The best way for you to sign your checks, whether the account is in your name only, or is a joint account with your husband, is for you to use the customary combination of the first and last names of your maiden name and the last name of your husband's name. That is, you may sign, "Mary Morris Smith," and this is the best signature. (I am using Morris for the last name of your maiden name).

Of course, it is perfectly correct for you to sign your checks "Mary M. Smith," if that is the signature that you prefer, but this is not so customary as the one that I have indicated above; Mrs. William Smith is not a correct signature for you to use for your check signature.

The signature of your letter is correct, although here again it is better to use the last name of your maiden name instead of an initial, in your case, M. But it is correct for you not to use "Mrs." in the direct signature and then to enclose your formal name in parentheses below the name. And I cannot tell you what a relief it is to have a married woman sign her letter correctly, for most of them sign the "Mrs." in the direct signature, which shows at once that they don't know what's what.

Friends of the Bereaved Family

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of ours, living in our town, passed away. My husband and I sent a floral offering and attended the funeral. A few days after the funeral I called at their home to offer my sympathy. Should we have called at their home before the funeral and offered our sympathy? READER.

If you knew these people very well you might have called before the funeral to offer your sympathy and to see if there were any way in which you could be of service. But, unless you do not know them exceptionally well, this is not done. You probably did just the right and the appropriate thing.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Permanent wave specialists know through careful observation that the hard-boiled undulation usually makes the glory thatch thicker. It is believed that this is due to the sterilization of the hair. All manner of undiscovered germs and germesses may be lurking on hair shafts, and if so, steaming puts them out of business. When many waves have been given, the topcrest should have reconditioning treatments with hot oil.

Low spirits lower the vitality of the body. Little dourmug who goes ghosting about the family circle, whining and complaining, should keep that stern fact under her hat. Depression of the mind slows up heart action, has a deplorable effect upon the glands, raises the dickens with the digestion, puts a stop to necessary body repairs. Glooming pays no dividends. Bawling doesn't bring any new dresses. What it does bring is a crew of beauty ills—dull eyes, facial gullies, and a complexion that is without tone or coloring.

Let the lady with the too-prominent tum hoist up her chest and take a deep breath. If the deep breath pulls in the abdomen, the bulge is not produced by accumulations of adipose tissue, but by muscles that lack tone and elasticity. In either case, vigorous exercises will bring her back to form again. Bending and twisting movements are beneficial. Sagging muscles are injurious to the health; they interfere with the inner-sides, slowing up the work of the intestinal tract, pulling the stomach downward.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, December 6

The sidereal operations for this day accept fairly lively and progressive conditions, with a heightened spirit of enterprise and a decisive reaching for advanced goals. In purely independent plans and projects there is more planetary encouragement than in endeavors in connection with employers, as these have a menace of misunderstanding or frustration.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly lively and ambitious year, but one in which the private adventures and aims may flourish rather than those in connection with employers.

A child born on this day should be endowed with initiative and ambition, but may succeed best on its own responsibility.

Longer Wear

Chiffon stockings will last longer if hung up wet and allowed to drip dry. Wringing this fine fabric is apt to break the delicate threads and cause runs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Young Folks Have Their Problems

DR COPELAND

Boys and girls 12 to 16 years of age have their own problems. They are at a time of life when rapid growth and development produce conditions that demand special attention.

This may be called the "awkward period" of life. The young folks don't know what to do with their long legs. Their growing hands and feet are in the way. There are strange emotions stirring in their hearts.

Sometimes there is a feeling of loneliness, a sense af aloofness, a suspicion that their elders do not understand them. This is the time they need advice, but the young things don't know where to get it. They don't want to be laughed at or scolded. They don't know where to turn.

I get many letters from men and women who write to me because, they say, I am a sort of impersonal individual. They would not face the family doctor with the questions they put to me. It is easier to write an outsider, although he is a stranger, but made at least half a friend, perhaps, by reason of his familiar writings.

Well, boys and girls, I am at your disposal. If you have problems, so have a million of other young people. If you will tell me what troubles you, it may help me to assist a multitude of others who are having thoughts and anxieties exactly like yours.

I do wish to say this right now: Because you wonder about life, don't be distressed about it. Many of your strange feelings, probably all of them, are just the same feelings your parents and all the rest of their generation had. Every one of your ancestors went through the same stage. The fact that they became ancestors proves that nothing ill in their effects can happen as a result of the symptoms you observe in yourself.

Nothing is more terrible than the fear that you are abnormal. You may wonder sometimes if what you go through is not a sign that you are not normal. It isn't. As a matter of fact, you wouldn't be normal if you didn't have these symptoms. They are really the same signs of your normal stage.

If you write to me, in care of the paper where you read this, the kindly editor will forward the letter to me. But being assured that what you experience just now is what every older person has experienced, may give you the comfort I want you to have.

Answers to Health Queries

RITA D. Q.—What do you advise for enlarged pores?

A.—Try using hot and cold compresses alternately for 15 minutes night and morning.

MRS. O. W. F. Is there such a condition as a ruptured naval?

2—What can I do to overcome constipation? I always have a coated tongue.

A.—Yes. An operation is the only cure.

2—Your diet must be corrected. Eat simple, well cooked food.

SARTORIAL ARTISTS DIRECT THE BAND TO MUCH SUCCESS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The band is being played for all it is worth by sartorial artists. One sees frocks made almost entirely of horizontal and vertical bands and now we have coats also made entirely of bands of the material inset and cleverly handled. Some like their bands diagonal, others prefer them to curve in a most intriguing fashion. The popularity of bands must be accounted for by the very expensive dressmaker look that they bestow upon a garment. Nothing seems to dislodge the band, and it is good provided that it is well handled. But no doubt that last reservation applies to everything sartorial or otherwise.

THE EVENING FINDS many of us ready for red, for frocks of red are to be observed in nearly every assemblage. Most of the shades worn are most becoming and women are generally careful to harmonize their rouge and lipstick so that neither the color of the gown nor the make-up suffer. Otherwise a red frock is fatal to the appearance of the wearer. Then, too, a red frock looks best with an absence of much glittery jewelry, unless one be fond of a Christmas tree appearance, and few women are. With these few pointers, go ahead, select a becoming shade of red and you will find that your evenings will be cheerful and you much admired in your lovely red frock.

PATOU MAKES the dinner dress here shown of Indian red chiffon. The upper arms are covered by a deep cape with a circular ripple and a point in back; circular flounces ripple down the side of the front, and, in back, in one piece with the side of the cape, is another ripple of drapery. The skirt just clears the instep.

* * *

THE LOVELY AFTERNOON coat is by Jenny. It is in powder blue broadcloth and is most gracefully cut. This coat features bands in an original manner. Curving inset bands, starting at the back, swing down and around to the front just below the arms, and passing vertically down in front turn again in a graceful curve to meet in back. The important collar and cuffs are of gray fox.

DRY VIOLATORS FINED $3,600, 4 JAILED

Federal Judge Imposes Many Penalties Here Under Prohibition Law

Many jail sentences and fines were imposed by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson on violators of the prohibition law. James Rice, a prior offender, was fined $200 and sentenced two months to jail when he pleaded guilty and possessing liquor and maintaining a saloon as a common nuisance on Wood way, Braddock.

Antonio Salustri was fined $200 and sentenced one month to jail, and Raymond Biagi, co-defendant, was fined $50, when they pleaded guilty of liquor law violations at 61 Washington place. Henry C. Nolle, Pittsburgh, was fined $100 and sentenced one month to jail and Thomas Brennen, Ambridge, received a two-month jail sentence.

Felix J. Borchirchio proprietor of the Port Liberty Pharmacy, 6500 Frankstown avenue, was acquitted by a jury on a charge of unlawful possession of one gallon of alcohol. Rosario Cirincione, Pittsburgh, was acquitted on a liquor charge. George Conners, Pittsburgh, was convicted by a jury.

WOMAN PAROLED

Amoone those who entered pleas of guilty to liquor charges was Mrs. Irene R. Pallo, who was proprietress of the Roxanna Tea Room, 135 North Craig street, when raided by prohibition agents on August 6. She was placed on parole for one year and fined $100.

Others who admitted violations of the dry law were fined as follows: Edward Ward, $150; Tony Petrone, $100; Herman Zimmerman, $100; Edward Buettner, $100; William Smith, $100; Paul Collins, $100; James Donovan, $100; Jim Cappolella, $25; Frank Viscardo, $200; Ralph Pasquale, $100; Harry A. Baehr, $100; Joe Maggio, $100; Tony Conyer, $100; Dorothy Gusky, $25; Chiva Easton, $150, and Albert Miller, $50, all of Pittsburgh. The others, Mike Siebert, Glassport, $200; Frank Fusco, Braddock, $100; Nick Cardone, Braddock, $50; Henry Bittner, Garrett, Somerset County, $300; Martin Aubele, Ambridge, $100; Harry Weisenberg, McKeesport, $150; David Gray, McKeesport, $250; James Welsh, McKeesport, $25; Joseph Peiskowitz, Mollenauer, $200, and John C. Tucker, Garrett, $100.

TOUR WINNERS SPEED PLANS

Miss Anna Nydes, the new "Miss Pittsburgh," who goes to Paris next week as the guest of Gloria Swanson and the Sun-Telegraph, was the recipient yesterday of many congratulations by phone, by wire, and in person from hundreds of admirers. Miss Nydes was a very much thrilled and excited girl.

Miss Swanson.

In the meantime, she has plenty to do to complete preparation for departure from Pittsburgh next Wednesday night. She sails on the Ile de France Friday, December 12. The passport was the first problem, but, with the assistance of the French Line's Pittsburgh office, this was expedited.

Manager H. M. Addison, of Loew's Penn Theater is making arrangements to give Miss Nydes and her friends a farewell box party for Monday night for the new picture "Morocco." Ted Claire, the new master of ceremonies, will probably introduce the new "Miss Pittsburgh" to the audience.

In the meantime, the five girls who were in the same Sun-Telegraph contest and won free trips to Bermuda have also been deluged with congratulations. These girls are Agnes Rita Carroll, Jean DeBlasio, Sarah Jane Shaprio, Marian Evans and Jean Eisenberg. They will have more time for preparation for their trip as they will not sail from New York until December 19.

Club Arranges Hike for Sunday

The Pittsburgh Hiking Club will walk from Wilkinsburg to Sandy Creek on Sunday. All will meet at the Wilkinsburg station at 2:30 p. m. F. C. Hess will lead the hikers.

THE BEST WE EVER HAD

That is the honest compliment we received from thousands of housewives who enjoyed Kroger Poultry this Thanksgiving. This quality and popularity is not due to chance, but to the scrupulous care we exercise in selection and preparation. Only one grade is right—choice, young stock, properly fed.

Kroger will not disappoint customers on quality for the sake of price. But Kroger prices ARE the lowest that are consistent with our quality standards. Christmas will be here sooner than you realize. Plan now what you will serve and see the Kroger Meat Manager. He will be glad to take your order.

Oranges Are Wholesome, Nutritive Food

The orange is rather an unusual fruit in that it contains three vitamins, A, B, and C. Vitamin A, essential for growth, is found in small quantities. A small amount of vitamin B is also present. This vitamin is helpful in preventing malnutrition. Vitamin C insures the proper growth of bones and the proper development of teeth. It also prevents scurvy. This is a disease often found in infants and children, interfering with their normal development.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

Very often we overlook valuable foods, apparently because they are so easy to get. We scurry around looking for something unusual.

If we lived in France we would eat raw fruits every day, providing we could afford them. But here in America where raw fruits are comparatively inexpensive, we neglect eating them.

This neglect is quite true of the orange, one of the citrus fruits. This fruit should be part of our daily diet.

VALUABLE QUALITIES

The orange has a mild laxative effect and is very easily digested. It also possesses a delightful flavor and is a great thirst quencher.

The orange is best eaten raw, because then we lose none of its vitimins. When cooked, this particular fruit loses a large percentage of its nutritive value.

Fresh orange juice is just as healthful as eating the whole orange. Taking it at the beginning of a meal is good practice.

STAPLE FOOD

Contrary to the common belief the orange is not acid forming, but is base forming. So that no fear of increasing the acid content of the body should be felt when we are told to eat oranges.

Considering the orange as a wholesome fruit, high in nutritive values, and as a source of vitamins A, B, C, we should make an effort to include it in our regular menus. Let it be considered as a staple food and not one to be eaten on occasions only.

Coal Companies Get W. Va. Charters

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Two coal companies with headquarters in Uniontown, Pa., were granted West Virginia charters by Secretary of State George W. Sharp.

The companies were the Fayette Fuel Company, capitalized at $4,000 and the Blackstone Fuel Company, capitalized at $3,631. Both will operate in the Sardis district of Harrison County and were incorporated by William L. Browning, Jr., W. Brown Higbee, M. B. McDonald, A. Wulinsky and A. D. Williams, all of Uniontown, Pa.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

PEANUT BUTTER PIE—Beat the yolks of 3 eggs. Add ¾ cup of sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt and 3 tablespoons of peanut butter and mix thoroughly; add 2½ cups of warm water. Add 3 teaspoons cornstarch which has been mixed with ½ cup of cold water; cook till clear. Fill baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue made from egg whites. Brown slightly.

COCOANUT ORANGE SLICES—Combine 3 cups sugar, 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, 3 tablespoons butter and 1 cup of cocoanut, and cook until a small amount of syrup forms a small ball in cold water (236 degrees F.), stirring occasionally. Cool to lukewarm (110 degrees), add 1½ teaspoons grated orange rinds, and beat until thick and creamy. Turn out on greased surface, knead until smooth, and shape into narrow loaves. Roll in additional orange rind and cocoanut. Serve in slices. Makes two loaves.

CHEESE RELISH—Dissolve 4 package of lime gelatine in a pint of boiling water. Add ½ teaspoon of salt and 4 teaspoons of vinegar. Chill. When slightly thickened fold in a cup of cheese cut in small cubes and ½ cup of sweet pickles, finely chopped. Turn into molds and chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with cold cuts and you'll find it every bit as good the second time as you did the first.

CRANBERRY SAUCE — Four cups of cranberries—a pound or a quart in the grocer's measure—2 cups of water, 1½ to 2 cups sugar. Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add the cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open; 5 minutes is usually sufficient. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

PRUNE PUFF—Soak 1 level tablespoon gelatin in ¼ cup of cold water for about 5 minutes. Heat 1 cup prune pulp with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. When hot remove from the fire and add softened gelatin. Stir mixture until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Add ½ cup rice cooked until very tender. Stir, then allow the mixture to cool and when it begins to thicken fold in the white of 1 egg stiffly beaten. Mold in individual mold in the refrigerator until firm and well chilled. Garnish with nuts and serve with custard sauce.

VEAL CASSEROLE—Use large pieces of veal; saute quickly in a frying pan. Slightly thicken the gravy and pour it over the veal. Cook, covered, until tender. Place in the casserole, add sliced green or ripe olives, also a few small carrots and onions previously cooked. Set casserole in the oven to simmer for half an hour.

* * *

LIME SALAD SUPREME—Dissolve a package of lime gelatine in a pint of boiling water. Add 5 teaspoons of vinegar and ½ teaspoon salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in a cup of diced apples, a cup of crisp chopped cabbage, and 4 chopped olives. Turn into molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise.

John Mack Brown Learns News Game for Film From Veteran

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1929, by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5.

Screen reporters have been greeted with so many hoots that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is enlisting the aid of a veteran Los Angeles newspaperman to teach Johnny Mack Brown some of the fine points of the game.

The apprenticeship is occasioned by the actor's new role as a reporter in "The Secret Six," which will be a Cosmopolitan production.

Johnny Mack Brown

For several days Brown will accompany Jim Mitchell around the Hollywood studio beat. Mitchell is one of the best known local news-gatherers and has been mentioned in several fiction stories of the film colony.

"The Secret Six" will be a gangster film in which Wallace Beery, Marjorie Rambeau and Lewis Stone appear. It is from the pen of Frances Marion, who did "The Big House." George Hill will direct.

JOLSON UNDER KNIFE

Following conference with several doctors, Al Jolson has decided to be rid of his appendix. He expects to enter the hospital in a few days.

In the meanwhile, Ruby Keeler will, in all probability, leave the New York show in which she is appearing, and fly west to be with the star when he goes under the knife.

Incidentally, reports that Jolson is slipping in popularity seem to have been exaggerated. The singing star went on at a Hollywood benefit performance this week and stopped the show.

IT'S AN ILL WIND

While Radio Pictures' first Los Angeles stage production proved something of a disappointment, it was a piece of good fortune for Kitty Kelly.

Appearing in a minor role in "Women Who Take," the blonde comedienne attracted such favorable attention that R-K-O has signed her to a term contract.

She draws a good part in "Private Secretary."

I NOTE THAT the Marquis Henry De La Falaise spent a weekend at Yosemite, where "The Eastest Way" company is on location . . . Yes, Constance Bennett is in the cast. . . Wallace Beery's swimming pool is used only for his two bird dogs to take exercise in. . . . Buster Keaton has been bribing cooks in Chinese restaurants to teach him how to make chop suey . . . Bill Desmond, the serial star, has returned to Hollywood after 17 months in vaudeville, and intends to crash the talkies . . . Los Angeles is soon to have a second-run Spanish talkie house . . . The California Theater here is operating profitably as a first-run theater for foreign versions—principally Spanish.

NOTES ABOUT SHOWS COMING NEXT WEEK

Arthur Hammerstein has booked his "Sweet Adeline," a musical romance of the gay nineties, into the Nixon next week. Helen Morgan, Irene Franklin, Charles Butterworth, James Thornton and 30 other principals will be seen in the same roles they were so highly acclaimed in during the Broadway engagement at Hammerstein's for 10 months last season.

"Berkeley Square" opens in the Alvin Monday night. Leslie Howard and Margalo Gillmore head the cast. Other players include Louis Prussing, Alice John, Dorothy Blackburn, Lucy Beaumont, Willa Grey, Beryl Wyly, Irene Howard, Charles Romano, Henry Mowbray, Henry Warwick, Tarver Penna, Frank Andrews and Robert Williamson.

The story of "Jerry," the comedy announced by the George Sharp Players for the Pitt next week, is said to be an argument against long engagements. Jerry's aunt has been engaged to a man so long that their love has grown cold and during one week's visit, Jerry marries the man herself and provides another suitor for her aunt.

Good-Night Daddy!

TWINKLING, STARRY EYES . . . even as mother comes to carry her little sleepy-head away at tuck-in time. Such fun it's been, laughing, romping, playing all the day through. But tiny eyelids just will droop, even over the starriest of eyes, and little ladies of tomorrow simply must have their beauty sleep.

Her days are such a round of gay times . . . from early morning breakfast. First, orange juice . . . milk . . . and then for Ralston Whole Wheat Cereal. My, how she loves its sweet, wheaty flavor!

And Ralston Whole Wheat Cereal is so good for her too. You know it by the feel of her . . . that solid little body . . . rose petal cheeks . . . soft, glistening hair . . . chubby arms and hands . . . straight, sturdy little legs. And teeth . . . pearly white ones all through without any trouble at all. You just know Ralston Whole Wheat Cereal gives her what she needs! It's just pure sun-kissed wheat, granulated to give it a velvety creaminess. Costs less than a penny a dish.

At Your Grocer's

Truism

Now there is time for sweet and quiet things,
Dear books I love—an old discarded pipe;
I sit and muse, and through the hazy rings
A vanished Spring drifts back—when love was ripe.

I recall the rain's incessant hiss
Against your pane as we sat in alone,
And mocked its anger with a laughing kiss—
Two children on a flimsy, golden throne.

All that is done—and I am strangely old,
We meet and nod—a pair of casual friends;
Are you the laughing girl whom I once told
That love lives on—that rapture never ends?

Oh, well—the years bring wisdom in their wake,
And hearts, my dear, were only meant to ache.

—Don Wahn.

How Can He Miss?

The weather man for the Waterbury Republican is no chump. Take his prediction of the weather in that rag of Nov. 26th, viz.:

"Increasing cloudiness, probably snow, rain and colder."

What! No sleet?

Pun My Soul!

Lee T. can make up sentences containing the words "conjugate" and "halcyon" like this:

"Conjugate along with your wife, anymore?" and "Halcyon around some time."

But Ben Rosen is just as good at this sort of thing. Ben makes up a sentence with the word "Romance" in this manner:

"Friends, Romance and Countrymen . . ."

The Pun Terrible

And Mickey McGuire of the Chicago News has to butt in with his offering. He writes:

"With James Converse marrying Ruth Morgan of Smiles, and having once been married to Thelma Morgan, would you say that this is getting to be a habit, or Morgan a habit?"

And they hang pictures!

Of Course!

Charles Otto, the manager of the Erlander Theater in Buffalo, and George M. Cohan were driving from the station to that playhouse the other day at a furious pace, so that Cohan, who was late, could be on time for the performance. Two motorcycle cops cleared the way and the sirens shrieked in the deafening manner.

"Now I know," sighed Mr. Cohan, "why Jimmie Walker likes being Mayor of New York."

Warning

Some of the American tourists visiting Canada have wised up considerably by avoiding detection of the liquor they bring back by the customs officials. The best system, up to the middle of the past summer, was to carry a load of bottles in the middle of a packsack or big canvas bag, with clothes all around it. The customs men, going through the bag in the baggage car, runs his hands around the outside, but rarely down the center, and the stuff gets through.

But the wise lads who work in baggage cars now carry stethascopes, and when all is quiet, they shake all the sacks or give the trunks a shove, spot the presence of liquor instantly with the stethoscope, and your chances of getting through with your liquor are not so hot. The fine is plenty.

Add Sillies

They were telling the one about the show-off who was plenty saturated with laughing soup, again last night. He was boring a group with his exaggerated patter about an alleged hunting trip in the African jungles.

"Well sir," he was saying, "I only go after big game, see? Tigers, leopards and lions!"

"Did you have any luck?" he was asked.

"Great luck!" he ejaculated, "didn't come across one!"

Imagine!

Take it from George N. Burns, of the Friars Club, a gunman held up an apple peddler at Forty-sixth street and Broadway yesterday, and after finding nothing on the peddler the bandit groaned:

"You think things are tough for you? Well, look at this!"

And so saying, he showed him an empty gun.

And—

A similar tale concerns the sitchee-ay-shun out in Chicago, where a gangster stuck-up an actor.

The actor told the bad man how bad things were breaking for him.

"I haven't had a booking in six months, and my rent is due tomorrow."

The gangster felt so sorry for the guy he gave the actor his old set of scenery!

Sounds Like Her

The other night Dorothy Parker was introduced to Lord Cavendish, one of the British nobility, if you please. Fred and Adele Astaire introduced Dorothy to Cavvy.

In acknowledging the introduction, Dot cracked:

"So what shall I do. Back out?"

Then, as she was leaving, Dorothy invited the party to her shack.

"You must come over to my place, sometime, Adele, and BRING THE KING!"

Observation

Among other things that make you pause and titter is the art shop on the East Side which features a statue of Venus near the entrance. The statue bears a tiny sign reading: "Hands Off!"

And the Fight Was On!

And Danny Disman brightens up today's pillar with the one about the two dialecticians who met for the first time at a party.

"Say," said the first Joosh feller, "do you know Hal Skelley, de ector?"

"Sure," was the reply, "so what about it?"

"Nothing," chirped the other, "I merely tutt you looked like Hal!"

DICK POWELL SHOW: GANGSTER FILM IN ENRIGHT

A new Dick Powell stage show, titled "Treasures," and Lewis Ayres' underworld picture, "The Doorway to Hell," opened a week's engagement in the Enright yesterday.

"The Doorway to Hell," packed with melodramatics and suspense, proved popular entertainment during its Pittsburgh premiere in the Stanley recently. It is all about gangsters and gangster rackets. Young Ayres portrays an underworld leader. In appearance he is as innocent as a schoolboy. But he's a killer at heart.

Dancing, singing and comedy are ingredients in the stage show. Featured entertainers include Jones and Hull, Eddie Allen, Bobby Gordon and Audrey Dixon. The Enright Rockets dance, the band offers a specialty and Mr. Powell sings.

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH

Extra quality in every essential. No extra cost

IF YOU are one of those drivers who think that one kind of motor fuel is "just about as good" as another, try this test: Fill up with ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. Not just two gallons or five gallons mixed in with the old-style gas you have been using, but a whole new tankful. Then go out and put your car through its paces!

Pick out a steep hill where your motor used to knock before . . . and zip up it in high. Line up with the others at a traffic-semaphore . . . and leave 'em way behind when the light flashes green. Step on the starter after your car has been standing in the open for a while . . . and see how quickly the engine snaps into action.

Different from other fuels? We'll say it is—and so will you! Because ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is definitely intended to be different. It has been scientifically developed in one of industry's great laboratories to give you super-performance at regular-gas price. New refining processes enter into its manufacture. New crudes, carefully selected from the world's oil supply, contribute to its sensational characteristics. New testing methods insure its unvarying quality.

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is a pure product, crystal-clear in color. It has no objectionable odor—a very important point, if you drive a closed car. It lets your gasoline-dollars go farther, because it gives you maximum economy under all driving conditions.

Prove to your own satisfaction that there is a difference in gasolines! Try just one tankful of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH and you'll speedily join the swelling ranks of WHITE FLASH enthusiasts.

Carlson's New Theory. Develops Sixth Sense. Army Gridders Weep. | Heydler Blames Bats. Few Survive Baker. Columbia's Odd Record.

BLINDFOLD FLOOR PRACTICE FOR PITT

IN SCHOOL YOU learned that there are five senses—vision, taste, smell, hearing and feeling. Dr. H. C. Carlson, basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh, and one of the most successful floor mentors in the country, whose team will open the collegiate season with Western Reserve at the Stadium tomorrow night following his first annual basketball clinic, teaches a sixth sense—muscle projection. According to Coach Carlson, Dr. Coleman Griffith, of the University of Illinois, has found that errors in basket shooting are of two types, direction and distance. It is in connection with the latter that the Panther court has introduced his latest novelty — blindfold practice.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

"A player improves his direction by daily practice," says Dr. Carlson, "and in that respect is better at the end of a season. But his errors in distance are not diminished with practice unless he is blindfolded. If you should happen to run across a Pitt basketball player blindfolded you will know he is not in practice for a bit of night work as a highwayman, but rather is teaching his muscles to project the ball the correct distance."

IT IS BECAUSE he is such a deep student of the game and the possibilities existing in all of its brunches, applying many theories of his own as he builds and develops new teams from season to season, that Dr. Carlson has become a leader in the basketball world. Though trying blindfold practice to develop muscle projection in shooting, at the same time goes further than the average coach in stressing the importance of the part that the eyes play in the court sport.

For instance, he points out that the shooting ability of a player is governed largely by peculiarities of vision. "Everyone," he says, "is familiar with the use of the terms 'left-handed' and 'right-handed,' but all basketball players must go further than that. Each player must know whether he is left-eyed or right-eyed. A noted athletic psychologist has discovered that a left-eyed and right-handed basketball player shoots best from the right side of the basket, and vice versa."

CRITICS OF MODERN intercollegiate football, who protest there is too much sophistication and not enough of the old "I'd die for dear old Rutgers" in the game would have been entirely out of place in the West Point dressing room after last Saturday's battle between the Cadets and Notre Dame in Chicago, according to Jess Carver, who covered the game for the Sun-Telegraph.

The disappointed Cadets, beaten out of what would have been a glorious tie by a single point, came tumbling into their quarters with tears streaming down their half-frozen mud-caked faces. Johnny Armstrong and several of them slammed their helmets savagely to the floor. Maj. Ralph Sasse, genial head coach, went about, patting this one on the back, throwing an arm about the drenched, sodden shoulder of another, and shaking the trembling, chilled hand of a third.

Johnny Armstrong

WENDEL BOWMAN, the quarterback, and Armstrong and Ed Suarez, the big tackles, threw themselves upon the floor and cried like children. It was past Suarez that Marchy Schwartz ran for his 54-yard touchdown, and Bowman, as safety man at the time, was taken out from the path of the galloping Schwartz by Carideo. It was some time before either Suarez or Bowman would permit his cold and muddy uniform to be removed. "It was my fault," sobbed Suarez. "I let him get by me." Suarez felt doubly chagrined at his failure to break up the play that caused the Army's defeat, as he had stopped Schwartz half a dozen times before during the afternoon.

THAT SEVERAL SUGGESTIONS for the cutting down of joke home runs will be considered at the annual meeting of the National League next week is admitted by President John A. Heydler, but there appears to be considerable doubt as to the one that will be favored by the majority of the club owners.

"In my opinion, home-run hitting has been increased partly because new-fangled bats are swung by the hitters," Heydler says. "Instead of the old ash sticks, hickory bludgeons with thin handles have become popular with players who want to knock out home runs. Then again, the increased seating capacity in various parks has made home-run hitting, in many instances, a comparatively easy stunt, but you cannot tear down the stands.

AT THE JUNE meeting of the National League most of the club owners appeared to think that the ball was a trifle too fast. When they get together for the annual meeting next week, batting and pitching will come in for careful deliberation.

"I favor keeping a baseball in play as long as it is not ripped or torn. I told my umpires last spring to use their own judgment as to throwing out baseballs that had been bruised, and I found, by the way, that the balls during the last four or five years were not knocked out of shape so easily as those used in earlier seasons."

John A. Heydler

THE DEATH OF William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia National League club, ended a regime which had its beginning in a deal started in Pittsburgh nearly 18 years ago. It was a Pittsburgher, the late William H. Locke, then secretary of the Pirates, who engineered the transaction, heading a syndicate which purchased the Phillies on January 15, 1913, from the Horace Fogel-Alfred Wiler combination. The latter had acquired controlling interest in 1909 for $350,000. Baker, a native of this city though then residing in the East, and a cousin of Locke, was one of the 1913 buyers. Locke was made president, but died on July 14, 1913, and Baker succeeded him at the head of the club, serving until his death.

PRESIDENT BARNEY DREYFUSS, of the Pirates, is the only club head surviving in the National League who was holding office when Baker came in. The other club presidents in the senior major circuit were Harry N. Hempstead, of the Giants; Charles H. Ebbets, of the Dodgers; Charles W. Murphy, of the Cubs; Garry Herrmann, of the Reds; James E. Gaffney, of the Braves, and Schuyler P. Britton, of the Cardinals.

In the American League Charles A. Comiskey, of the White Sox, and Frank J. Navin, of the Tigers, are the only remaining presidents who were heading clubs at that time. Baker was the eighth president of the Phillies. A. J. Reach was chief executive of the club from 1883 to 1902, inclusive; James Potter in 1903 and 1904; William J. Shettsline from 1905 to 1908, inclusive; Israel W. Durham during the first part of 1909; Horace S. Fogel from the latter part of 1909 until

YARN GOES ABROAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A. C. Bostwick's Yarn, winner of two important 2-year-old stakes in Canada and runner-up to Gallant Fox in the Jockey Club Gold Cup race, will be shipped to England tomorrow. Although no plans have been announced for the colt, it is probable Bostwick will train the son of Friar Rock for steeplechase racing.

GANNON TO START

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Coach Bill Ingram ended preparations for the Pennsylvania clash yesterday with a short offensive scrimmage of his Navy varsity against the Plebe team, and made the announcement that Gannon would start at halfback instead of Joe Techirgi, who has returned to the squad after an absence due to an injury.

KNUTE'S TEAM OUTCLASSES EAST'S BEST

By KNUTE ROCKNE,
Member All-America Board of Football.
(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

Picking an all-Western team this year is extremely difficult for several reasons. First of all, there are a number of star players on non-Conference teams whose work was so outstanding that it would be absolutely unfair not to include them. Secondly, the schedules were not well arranged so that direct tangible comparisons could be made between teams in varying sections of the Middle West. There also was great variance in the strength of the schedules that these teams played. Every dog has his day and there were quite a few players who sparkled on some particularly bright afternoon. The following Saturday or the week-end following that, the plane of their play would drop back to dull mediocrity. So, in picking this team, the entire season is taken into consideration, the schedule, the team played, the class of competition encountered, value to the team, both defensively and offensively, dependability in the pinches and particularly the ability to fire up and rise to heights when the occasions demanded.

Knute Rockne

FESLER, BAKER AT ENDS

At end there can be no question but that Baker, of Northwestern, and Fesler, of Ohio State, who are the two best ends in the Western Conference, also were the two best ends in the entire Middle West. Hackett, of Detroit; Conley, of Notre Dame, and Briley, of Drake, also were outstanding end men, but not quite up to the superb form examplified by Baker and Fesler. All of the star ends this year played a fine, all-round game, their defensive work was marked by shiftiness, fine foot and hand work, ability to fade out against wide end runs, mixed with a smash now and then against close plays. All of the star ends were great forward pass receivers and all had ability to box a tackle to an extraordinary degree.

Von Bibber, of Purdue, and Rhea, of Nebraska, are given the tackle posts. Von Bibber was the backbone of a crack Purdue line, while Rhea, of Nebraska, star shot putter on the track team, was the inspiration of a fine Nebraska line. A weak Nebraska backfield was not able to hold up the splendid play of the forwards. Michigan State, which had a fine season, tying Michigan and beating Colgate, had a great tackle in Ridler, whose use of hands was so sturdy that running plays aimed at him were valueless. Most of the State running plays offensively were made over his position. The tackles this year all were unusually large, but fast, aggressive, courageous and shifty. The sluggish type of tackles has become more or less obsolete.

METZGER LIGHT GUARD

The guard posts go to Kabat, of Wisconsin, and Metzger, of Notre Dame. About on a par with them are Vanyo, of Michigan State Normal; Woodworth, of Northwestern, and King, of Marquette. To those who may lift an eyebrow at the mention of Michigan State Normal, may I mention that these embyronic teachers had a great season and lost only to Michigan, 6 to 0, after a stern struggle. The outstanding player on the team was Vanyo at guard. It is understood that the young man is headed next fall for the Military Academy at West Point. Although Metzger weighed only 153 pounds, he stopped everything aimed at him, and his work was so finished and decisive that to leave him off would be a grievous injustice. He is not the showman that Woodworth, of Northwestern is, but I believe he is more effective in running interference, and that is the deciding factor in guard play these days.

I pick Don Carlos, of Drake, as the All-Western center. Our boys told me he was the best center they had played against this year by all odds. Although the Drake team as a whole was not of championship caliber, the work of Don Carlos at center stood out. He was a very smart center, with a keen, analytical mind and the rare intuition of always being at the right place at the right time. His passing of the ball on offense also had a rare touch of artistic consistency that left his backfield in perfect ease of mind as to just where the ball was coming, a tremendous asset to any offense.

CARIDEO GREAT QUARTER

I believe Carideo is the outstanding quarterback; at least, I have seen no other quarterback with his dynamic, inspiring qualities of leadership and his faultless field strategy. Although burning up inwardly, outwardly he showed the cool poise of a master technician. Carideo is a crashing blocker, a sure tackler and deadly on defense against passes. When he punts, his placing recalls to mind the expert work of Harry Kipke when that young man was laying the ball dead in the corner of the field to the mortification of Michigan's rivals.

Of the halfbacks, I pick Brill, of Notre Dame, and Weller, of the Haskell Indians. Brill at 180 pounds, was as fine a blocker and as impregnable a defensive back as I have seen. It was because of this more than for any other reason that he was not used as often as a ball carrier as the other backs. But he always could be depended upon to turn in the yardage when his number was called. Weller, although weighing only 155 pounds, was the sensation of the Missouri Valley. If there is anything he couldn't do with a football, it hasn't been discovered. Bausch, of Kansas, turned in some wonderful games, but he also had some off days, which were said to be due to injuries.

RUSSELL FULLBACK ACE

Russell, of Northwestern, is the outstanding fullback of the year and his plunging had an awesome power that was appreciated more by the line that he drove against than by the spectators. Deig, of Marquette, who contributed very largely to Marquette's wonderful season, was just a step behind.

This All-Western team will compare favorably with any All-Western teams that have been picked in the past. With Don Carlos as a roving center, Kabat could stand all of the defensive bruising attack that could be shot in his direction, while at running guard, Metzger would head the interference on all plays that were aimed in or outside of tackle. Rhea and Von Bibber would form the spearhead of most line threats and be the shock absorbers on defense. Baker and Fesler would make a pair of ends that could cover kicks, catch passes, box a tackle on offense and on defense smear all attempts aimed to run the ball their way. What a line!

The backfield is strong in every weapon of attack. With Carideo to act as field general and do the punting, Weller could do the passing and the running, Brill the blocking and Russell the plunging. This team would compare very favorably with the best that the Pacific coast could muster and looks a shade stronger than the best the East has to offer.

Believe It Or Not By RIPLEY

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: BION—THE FIRST WISE-CRACKER—Bion, whose name spells the initials of "Believe It or Not," was born in the town of Oczacoviak on the Dnieper, in ancient Scythia, about 230 B. C. In the course of his life he held every religious conviction prevailing at the time and just as frequently changed his political allegiance. Academic, stoic, peripatetic, cynic, skeptic, agnostic and atheist were only a few of his titles. The historian Laertius describes him as a man of great intellectual attainments, but utterly profligate. MUSHROOMS AND TOADSTOOLS ARE THE SAME —These two terms are applied indiscriminately by the botanist to any "fleshy" fungus. Mushroom is the technical name of the plant, while toadstool is the common name. (Reference: "Fundamentals of Botany," by Gager, Ch. 20.)

BOURBONNAIS, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Roy (Bucky) Dahman, former Notre Dame star, today was named head football coach at St. Viator College, succeeding Sam McAllister, resigned.

IRISH, TROJAN TILT ON AIR

LOS ANGELES, Dec 5.—The ears of the nation will be turned to this great city tomorrow when Notre Dame and the University of Southern California meet in the greatest football game in years before more than 90,000 spectators in the huge Coliseum.

And likewise dials of millions of radio sets will be set on the Columbia Broadcasting System's affiliated stations in all sections of the United States.

The Columbia Broadcast System will bring every audible feature of the game to its listeners over its huge transcontinental system.

To adequately serve its audiences throughout the land, Columbia sought the ace sports announcer of the Pacific Coast. Cooperating with Columbia, the Hearst Radio Service has placed Ernie Smith, its feature announcer, at the disposal of Columbia. Smith has the reputation of being the best on the West Coast and ranks as one of the three best football broadcasters in the country.

Smith will portray the play-by-play report. His quick eye and ready vocabulary have won a vast army of followers in the West.

In addition to Smith, the Hearst Radio Service has arranged a number of features for half time. Among these will be the appearance at the Columbia microphone of Pop Warner, the famous Stanford coach, and Tad Jones, of Yale football fame and brother of Howard Jones, coach of the University of Southern California. They will tell the listeners their impression of the game. In addition, Smith will introduce Braven Dyer, noted sports writer of Los Angeles, and Tom Leib, who coached Notre Dame during Knute Rockne's illness last year. They will furnish color and points on the players before the play starts and again at half time.

Columbia station WJAS will carry this great broadcast in the Pittsburgh area.

LOCAL COLLEGE SEASON ENDS TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

The curtain will fall on Pittsburgh's intercollegiate football season for 1930 tomorrow with the bang of the gun (or maybe the toot of the horn) that brings to a close the seventeenth battle of the series between Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff. The contest, postponed from last week, will be played in the Pitt Stadium, with the proceeds to go to charity.

The contest was a regularly scheduled affair, and was not arranged as a special charity match. Rather, the Carnegie and Wash-Jeff authorities very generously decided to turn it into a benefit affair for the relief of the unemployed. Pitt is donating the use of the Stadium.

GAME PROMISING

The contest promises to develop into a duel between Carnegie's flashy attack and Wash-Jeff's tough defense and well planned aerial attack. Neither eleven boasts an overly impressive record, although the Red and Black has met with but a single defeat and holds victories over West Virginia, Bucknell and Lafayette. Tech has won from Georgia Tech and Temple among its major opponents and lost to Pitt, New York University and Notre Dame.

The Presidents enjoy a huge edge in the matter of games won in the 16-game series. The Little Washingtonians have taken the measure of the Skibos 11 times, been tied thrice and lost a pair.

ZELT TO PRESIDE

Following the game, the Varsity Clan of Pittsburgh will tender the Carnegie varsity and freshman squads a banquet at the P. A. A. The well known A. R. (Dutch) Zelt, president of the Clan, will preside as toastmaster. Honor guests will include W. A. Theurer, Bill Amos and Pete Henry, of Wash-Jeff; W. Don Harrison and Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, and John Holohan and Elmer Layden, of Duquesne.

A radio report of the Notre Dame-Southern California game in Los Angeles will be the feature of the evening. Varsity letters will be awarded and if Judge Wally Steffen so desides, a captain for 1931 will be named.

Following is a series of thumbnail sketches of W. and J.-Carnegie games of the past:

1906—First game, too much power, Wash-Jeff 34; Tech 0.

1907—Tech still just starting. Wash-Jeff 26; Tech 0.

1910—A close one, but still [illegible]re. Wash-Jeff 8; Tech 0.

1912—Back in the depths [illegible]n. Biggest score of series. Wash-[illegible] 2; Tech 0.

1919—Tech still seeking to score after hiatus. Prexies again. Wash-Jeff 20; Tech 0.

1920—At last. First score, first victory. Harold McClean blocked a kick and the Skibos copped. Tech 6; Wash-Jeff 0.

1921—Back to their old tricks. Robertson lost two punts in the sun and Wash-Jeff turned the errors into touchdowns. Wash-Jeff 14; Tech 0.

1922—A deadlock that should have been a Tech win. Cad Reese threw a long pass from behind goal line in last minute of play, which Robertson deflected into Charley West's hands in trying to break it up and West ran over for tying score. Wash-Jeff 7; Tech 7.

1924—Haddon scored a touchdown and Reese kicked a field goal. All Wash-Jeff. Wash-Jeff 10; Tech 0.

1925—The boys played only one half as the W. and J. stands collapsed. Even Stephen. Wash-Jeff 0; Tech 0.

1926—Bill Amos was hot in this one. He scored twice, once after a 95-yard run back of a punt. Wash-Jeff 17; Tech 6.

1927—Even Harpster couldn't stop 'em this year, though the Skibos scored again. Wash-Jeff 19; Tech 6.

1928—This was Harpster's big year. He scored two touchdowns and paved the way for the third. Great game. Tech 19; Wash-Jeff 0.

1930—Write your own ticket.

PITT CLINIC TOMORROW

High school and college players and coaches from all parts of the tri-state district will be on hand at the University of Pittsburgh's first basketball clinic, an all-day affair, at the Stadium tomorrow.

The climaxing feature of the day will be the opening of the local intercollegiate season, with Pitt meeting Western Reserve in the evening. Prior to the game, a basketball dinner will be held in the Faculty Club.

Various systems of offense and defense will be explained during the day. Visiting coaches and players will take part in the program, which will include lectures, demonstrations and games.

The idea was conceived by Dr. H. C. Carlson, head coach at Pitt, who intends to make it an annual affair. Dr. Carlson expects a turnout of more than 300.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The "old fight" ever much in evidence when Pittsburgh and Cleveland ice teams met, first saved the Yellow Jackets from defeat and then deprived them of victory as the local puckmen played the Champion Indians to a 2-2 tie in a bitter International Hockey League battle at Duquesne Garden last night.

Doraty, Cleveland's great right wing, took a pass from Brophy at the goal mouth to tally for the visitors less than two minutes after the opening face-off, and then the Jackets' fighting spirit flamed and flared for 40 minutes before they were able to climb out of the shadow of defeat and up on even terms with the visitors. Cam Proudlock, sturdy left wing, who leads the locals in scoring, converted a pass from Capt. Tony Gregg into the deadlocking goal after one minute and 40 seconds of play in the third period.

While the Garden still echoed the mighty cheer voiced by the thousands of enthusiastic fans who packed the arena, Art Berlett, the big Iron Man of the local defense, gathered in a well-timed pass from Lloyd McIntyre, and slammed the puck into the Cleveland cage to put the Jackets out in front, 2 to 1.

PROUDLOCK IN COOLER

It was shortly after the Berlett goal that the "old fight," which had saved the Pittsburgh cause, turned traitor and swayed the tide of battle to the visitors. In a wild scrimmage near the Jacket net, Proudlock gave vent to his feelings to the extent of slamming Doraty to the ice and then squaring off for more battle, Referee Mike Rodden inflicted a major penalty of five minutes on Proudlock, and the Indians, awaiting such a break, were quick to capitalize their advantage in man power. From a wild scrimmage at one side of the Jacket cage, "Thorn In the Side" Doraty passed out to Brophy, in front of the net, and the latter slammed in the equalizing marker.

After Proudlock had been released from the cooler, the Jackets experienced little trouble in holding the foe at bay. The Indians were on the defensive from that time until the finish.

The list of penalties reflects the quality of the milling. Violent body checking was in order right from the start, and Rodden had to hand out 10 penalties in the first period to reduce the battle heat. Five more warriors were sent to the cooler in the second stanza, and it was only in the third and overtime sessions that "softening up" tactics were abandoned in the interest of better hockey.

Albie Cox and Sonny Boy Baxter, rival goalies, each contributed many brilliant saves, and Berlett, Gordy Fraser and Duke McCurry, of the Jackets, and Frew, McFarlane and Young, of the Indians, took painful body beatings in breaking up thrust after thrust at their defense points.

Eddie Bouchard, recently obtained from the New York Americans, made his debut as a left wing spare. Center Whitey Fields worked tirelessly, but the local forwards shared about equally in the glory. Dunning, Williams, Brophy and Doraty, especially the latter, stood out as Indian attackers.

TYPICAL BATTLE

The game was typical of Pittsburgh-Cleveland jousts in that it was packed with thrills and violent spills from gong to gong. The Jackets and Indians are to renew their warfare in Cleveland tomorrow. The lineup:

Pittsburgh.		Cleveland.
Cox	G	Baxter
Berlett	R. D.	Frew

DETROIT BEATEN

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—With less than a minute of the final session to play, Freddie Brown flicked in the goal that gave Syracuse a 4-to-3 victory over the Detroit Olympics in a ragged International League hockey match here last night.

HAWKS, SENATORS WIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The Chicago Blackhawks scored their sixth victory in eight starts by downing the New York Americans, 4-2, here last night. Les Canadians nosed out the New York Rangers, 5-4, at Montreal, and the Philadelphia Quakers lost to the Senators, 5-2, at Ottawa.

It is reported that Buffalo is to be dropped from the American Hockey League because of lack of players.

SEEK NEW FIELD

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—Members of the Jeannette school board are considering a site for a new athletic field for its high school. A committee has been appointed to seek a site and report later. The school board rejected a proposal to spend $25,000 remodeling the old field which is also utilized as the home of the Jeannette Jays of the Mid-Atlantic Baseball League.

BENEFIT GAME BOOKED

Two picked teams of Duquesne independent football stars will meet tomorrow at Duquesne in a benefit game for charity. The teams will be composed of players from the 1914 Cornell club and the Duquesne apprentices.

South County Park Links Closed For Season

Director of County Parks Paul B. Ritis has announced through John Jay Burke, city office manager for the parks, that the golf season has ended for this year at the new South Park links. Continued cold weather is responsible for the discontinuation of inspection playing privileges for Saturday and Sunday.

The closing of the South Park links also means the end of "free play" over the county courses. When that layout and the one in North Park are opened in 1931, taxpayers will have to provide themselves with permits, which are likely to cost around $10 a season, more or less, before they may tee off.

TUNNELITES ARE DINED

The crack South Hills High football team was feted last night at the school, the annual banquet and entertainment in honor of the gridders being a fine success.

Coach Eddie Maneski and his stars were eulogized by many of the speakers and the meal served by the domestic science department was another feature.

Frederick L. Wilson, of the South Hills faculty, was toastmaster. James W. Mates, director of extra curricular activities, had a prominent part in the festive doings.

Speeches were given by Max Hanum, publicity director of Carnegie Tech; Charles J. Doyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Fred Landucci, Coach Maneski, Capt. Frank Blum, Capt.-elect Americo Maccelaro, Coach Sam Smith, of Dormont High, and Morris Silverstein, center of the Duquesne University team.

Dr. H. E. Winner, principal of the school, presented the awards.

Sport Vignettes

Although they call it the County Basketball League, the circuit really embraces three counties, for it includes teams from Ellwood City, in Butler County, and Charleroi, in Washington County, as well as those in Allegheny County. . . . . If I'm wrong, shoot two! . . . Purdue, having lost money on football this year, cuts out minor sports for next year so it may catch up with itself before playing our Carnegie Tech on the gridiron in the fall. . . . . Duquesne University, by the way, went into the red in football this year, due to a slump in receipts for the late games, if reports are to be credited. . . . . In Barcelona, the fans boo the three-way decision on the Carnera-Paulino fight and in Boston they claim the judges put them in the bag. . . . Meanwhile, Pittsburgh achieves the same effect in its own inimitable way.

The Lou Williams who won an Austin car for selling subscriptions to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is the center of the Trinity Royals basketball team. . . . . It is said that Young Stribling's bout with Tuffy Griffiths at Chicago one week from tonight will be his two hundred and ninety-fourth start in the ring.

Dutch Eyth, Carnegie Tech halfback, was named by Lou Little, Columbia coach, for his all-Eastern team, with Murphy, of Fordham, as his running mate; Hewitt, of Columbia, at quarterback, and Macaluso, of Colgate, at fullback. . . . . A right nifty quartet, Lou. . . . . Samuel Colacurcio, the new owner of the Jersey City club, of the International League, which he purchased for $200,000, was the mascot for the same club less than 20 years ago and now is a successful contractor. . . . . The moral is, "Don't talk back to your mascot; he may sell you down the river some day." . . . . The University of Pennsylvania begins the new basketball season with an equally new coach, Lon Jourdet having succeeded Eddie McNichol, son of the late State Senator J. P. McNichol, to the post. . . . Both Jourdet and McNichol are former Penn floor stars.

The most-missed gent around here during the impending so-called floor season will be Charley Hyatt, the erstwhile Pitt ace, who is out in California, just far enough away from the scene of action to be well missed. . . . Bryan Downey, former Columbus and Cleveland middleweight boxer, now is making his home in Chicago, where he is managing a stable of boxers.—HARRY KECK.

SCHOOLS PLAY CHARITY GAMES TOMORROW

Scholastic football teams in various section of Western Pennsylvania will contribute their share to charity tomorrow afternoon when a fine array of benefit games will grace an unusually heavy schedule for this stage of the year. Three benefit games are scheduled, Clairton and Redstone clashing at Clairton, New Castle opposing an Alumni team at New Castle, while Rochester and Aliquippa battle at Rochester.

Besides the three benefit games, three other important scholastic games are carded. Sharon meets Grove City at Sharon, Williamsport engages Johnstown to decide the championship of the state scholastic conference, and Martins Ferry plays at Wheeling.

At Clarksburg today, Broaddus College meets Salem College in a charity football game, the proceeds going to the unemployed in that district.

Kiski Prep School of Saltsburg, Pa., closes its season with a game against the North Carolina University freshmen at Chapel Hill, N. C., today.

DRAFT PEACE IN PROSPECT

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A definite move towards peace between the major leagues and the big minors appeared imminent today as the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues entered upon its closing stages.

Close observers of the bitter fight over the draft question between the two groups expected the next chapter in the controversy would be written at New York next week at the joint major league meeting.

The first indication that the situation had completely changed and left the rival factions in a position to get together with a view towards a permanent settlement of the dispute came when the three Class A A leagues, the International and Pacific Coast and American Association, announced the appointment of a standing committee of nine, three from each league, empowered to act at any time the National and American leagues should wish to discuss the draft.

Johnny O'Connell, former catcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was traded to Fort Worth by the Baltimore club. Outfielder Jimmy Dalrymple was obtained in exchange.

LOYOLA DROPS FOOTBALL

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Loyola University of Chicago will drop intercollegiate football from its athletic program, beginning next fall. This announcement was made by President Robert M. Kelley, S. J., and was a distinct shock to Loyola's 7,000 students.

The decision to abolish football marks a complete reversal in Loyola's attitude toward the sport. The school recently completed a new concrete football stadium, seating 12,000 spectators, and was one of the first schools of importance in the Middle West to play night football.

Duquesne University was to play Chicago Loyola in a night game at Forbes Field on October 9, next year.

Grasslands, 'Chase Carded Tomorrow

GRASSLANDS DOWNS, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Grassland Downs prepared today for the Grasslands International Steeplechase, in which American and foreign-bred horses will compete tomorrow.

The steeplechase, the first of its kind ever held in this country, will be over a four-and-a-half-mile course that, except for four fewer jumps, virtually duplicates the famous Aintree course near Liverpool, England, over which the Grand National is run.

Tad Jones, Warner Talk on Air Tonight

Tad Jones, Pop Warner and Christy Walsh will be on the air at 10:30 o'clock tonight from Los Angeles, giving a football talk during the Wrigley-Columbia hour. Coming on the eve of the Notre Dame-Southern California game in Los Angeles, the talk is likely to be unusually interesting for the fans.

Suspended for using Sammy Klateman in the game with Penn Five at Sharpsburg Wednesday, the Y. M. H. A. last night withdrew as a member of the West Penn League. This action was taken at a special meeting when the managers refused to allow Klateman to compete in the circuit despite the fact that Klateman had been granted an amateur card by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U.

Following the withdrawal of the Y. M. H. A. team, the league managers selected the W. U. Hoyles, of the North Side, to fill the vacancy in the loop.

The Y. M. H. A. will finish the season by playing an independent schedule.

Two high-class independent games grace tonight's program, the W. U. Hoyles, of the North Side, entertaining East Liberty Y at Perry High School, while Irene Kaufmann Settlement House is the host to an old antagonist on the Settlement floor in Manchester Community House. The preliminary battle at the Settlement will find the I. K. S. clashing with North Boroughs in a Wagner Institutional League fray.

In the County Amateur League, Hill Top Y plays at Downtown Y, while Soho Community plays at the Penn Cadets in the Metropolitan loop. The last-named contest will precede the Penn-Knickerbocker clash.

The J. J. Mieles won their first Allegheny County League game by tripping Fintex, 27 to 23, in Columbus Temple last night. Artie Hoffman registering 12 of the victors' points.

The Schneiders knocked off Community, 32 to 21, in the West Penn, circuit, while Homewood Presbyterian bumped Coraopolis Y, 37-17, in the Wagner Institutional loop.

Faith Chapel kept its lead in the Pittsburgh Senior Church League by walloping First Presbyterian, 45 to 10, while the Faith Chapel Juniors won over Central Pittsburgh, 21 to 17, in the Pittsburgh Junior Church League.

Floor Notes

The Fintex team improved its chances for the Allegheny County League championship by signing Carl (Moon) Kinsine. The big train should prove a tower of strength to the downtowners.

The Duke Club is open for games abroad with light first-class teams. Call Grant 1898 and ask for the manager.

Ellwood City will make its first appearance of the season in the Pittsburgh district next Tuesday night when it clashes with Fintex in a County League contest at Columbus Temple.

The Paul sts. of Butler, lived up to the early season predictions by the manner in which they defeated I. K. S. This team is one of the best operating in Western Pennsylvania.

John J. Freund, Jr., originator of the Allegheny County League, again is handing the booking arrangements for all American Pro League clubs, including the Cleveland Rosenblums, league champions. Teams interested in booking any of the big leaguers call Lafayette 4297.

California Teachers Open Court Practice

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 5.—A large squad of basketball candidates have turned out for practice at the California Teachers' College. Coach Steers has four veterans from last year's crack team, Capt. BOXES AT MOOSE

LARRY (KID) KAUFMAN

Welterweight, of Louisville, who boxes Hans Roberts at the Moose Temple tonight and Joe Canal, of Youngstown, at Washington, Pa., next Monday. He is of Irish-German extraction, 22 years old, and was amateur champion of Louisville before turning pro two years ago. He has boxed Harry (Kid) Brown, Pee Wee Jerrell and Howard McClain, among others.

KELLY, BEATTY IN MOOSE GO

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Bobby Powell, of Cincinnati, well recommended, has been signed by Aprils Meyers, Moose Temple promoter, to take the place of Al Becker, of Sheraden, against Jack Tracey, Negro middleweight, of the North Side, and formerly of Louisville, in the first 10-round bout of the double windup card at the Moose Temple tonight.

Allen Beatty, Eddie Anderson of McKeesport, boxing in his best form again, meets Jimmy Kelly, hard-hitting welterweight, of the North Side, in the top 10-rounder. Kelly is one of the toughest punchers of his weight to show around here in a long time and has scored many knockouts. Beatty will have to rely on his speed and boxing skill to offset the former Akronite's sock, which was good enough to floor Joe Trippe in Kelly's most recent battle, in the same ring.

Larry (Kid) Kaufman, of Louisville, who recently scored a quick knockout in his local debut at the Moose, is back against Hans Roberts, local German welterweight, in the second bout, and Irving Rodgers, brother of Jackie, makes his first start in the ring against Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, in the opener, scheduled for 8:30.

Between Rounds

Simultaneous with the arrival in town yesterday of Cowboy Eddie Anderson, of Wyoming, for his 10-round windup with Tony Herrera, of Chicago, Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, completed the card for the show by signing Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, to box Homer Ronan, of Newark, O., in the eight-round semi-final. They will meet at 130 pounds. Joey Spiegel boxes Eddie Nelson in the second bout, and Sunny Jim McVey will tangle with Walter Ketchel in the opener. Anderson will work out today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Homewood gym at 2 p. m. The show is scheduled Monday night.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, will swing back into staging professional shows next Thursday night, now that the Western Pennsylvania amateur championship belt tournament has been concluded in his arena. He plans a double windup show for his first offering, with Frank Nawojski, of the South Side, boxing Nick Perlick, Clairton heavyweight, in the main event and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, against a suitable foe in the other 10-rounder. Perlick is doing a comeback after a layoff of several years.

Jack Gagnon and Larry Johnson have been matched to box the semi-final to the Young Stribling-Tuffy Griffiths bout at Chicago next Friday night. Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, meets Jackie Horner, of St. Louis, at Toronto, next Wednesday.

The card has been completed for Monday night's show at Little Washington. Young Rudy meets Jimmy McGraw, Larry (Kid) Kaufman battles Joe Canal and Ross Fields opposes Jackie Powers in three eight-rounders, while Jimmy Riley Meets Young Chapman in the first bout of six rounds.

Tommy Phillips and Patsy Brannigan will stage their second amateur boxing show in Washington Hall, North Side, next Tuesday night. So far they have matched Art Arnold with Jim Busish and Billy Wilson with Johnny Shepler for bouts. The first is a welterweight and the second a featherweight affair.

Frankie Chatterton, of Cleveland, will be Benny McArthur's opponent in the main bout at Franklin, Pa., tonight. Jimmy Thomas, Negro, of the Hill, boxes Andy Tonosky, of Turtle Creek, in the semi-final. Sammy Mandell meets Maxie Strub and Ray Collins takes on Wesley Ramey at Erie; Johnny Risko engages Jimmy Maloney and Gene Stanton clashes with Marty Gallagher at Boston; Joey LaGrey tackles Matty Mario in New York; Jimmy Smith is in with Joe Raymond at Philadelphia; Pete Herman boxes Stanley Winneryk at Lewiston, Me., and Jack Rappaport mingles with Vernon Cormier at Worcester, Mass.

John Ochs, heavyweight; George Julius, lightweight, and Jack McGahan, flyweight, will represent Pittsburgh in an inter-city amateur boxing show at Grand Rapids tonight.

TWO BANQUETS CARDED

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Two important gridiron banquets will be held Monday evening, it has been announced. The Weston Lions Club will give its annual party for the Weston High football team at the First Methodist Church there; and the Morgantown Country Club will be the scene of the annual Mountaineer banquet for West Virginia University's football squad. A. Earle (Greasy) Neale, new varsity coach, will be on hand at the latter event.

EIGHT AMATEUR MITTMEN COP CROWNS

Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing champions in eight classes were crowned last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, as the Amateur Athletic Union-pure mitt tourney, which extended over a period of four weeks, came to an end.

Fourteen bouts, involving semi-finalists and finalists made up the program, and practically every one of the fights came up to expectations, with three knockouts occurring during the evening.

The new champions are as follows:

112-pound class—Paul Nemar, Monessen Library.
118-pound class—Patsy Zelo, Willow Club.
126-pound class—Gerald Clements, North Braddock A. C.
135-pound class—George Julius, Willow Club.
147-pound class—James Davis, Superior A. C.
160-pound class—Ted Murphy, Duke O'Mara Club.
175-pound class—Mike Chomyak, Willow Club.
Heavyweight class—Joe Clements, North Braddock A. C.

The summary:

112-pound class—Paul Nemar, Monessen Library, knocked out Joe Fox. Marty Devaney A. C. round.
118-pound class—Tommy Lowenstiner, McKeesport A. C., defeated Dan Azzill, North Braddock A. C. Patsy Zelo, Willow Club, defeated Tommy Lowenstiner, McKeesport A. C.

ROCKNE DRIVES NOTRE DAME

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Coach Knute Rockne's hope that Fullback Larry Mullins might play for Notre Dame Saturday against the University of Southern California at Los Angeles appeared to have been dashed by a physician's report last night.

Coach Rockne drove his players through two long-winded practice sessions yesterday, and they were secret practices. He spent much time trying to work Fullback Hanley into gear with the high-speed first-string backfield, and also demonstrating Trojan offensive and defensive formations.

IRISH ON SHORT END

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Notre Dame gridiron grenadiers dropped into the usual role of short enders in the 10-to-8 betting odds here with their football frolic with the University of Southern California only two days away.

It was apparent that Coach Howard Jones' chief absentee, Ralph Wilcox, left end, would be able to start the game.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 5.

A peculiar situation arises in a game between Georgia Tech and Michigan following a field goal made by Chapman, of Michigan. The scorers discover that Chapman should have been removed from the game on his last personal foul, which was his fourth. Then after the field goal has been made they notify the referee.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that Michigan is entitled to the two points made by Chapman, as well as all other points made during the time this player was ineligible. The time also shall count, but he orders the immediate substitution of a player for Chapman. The rules provide that the scorers should sound their horn as soon as they discover that a player has four personal fouls, but if play has been resumed they should wait until the ball is dead or in the possession of the team whose player is disqualified.

PACKERS GET WILSON

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Mule Wilson, former Texas Aggies halfback, has been signed by the Green Bay Packers to play in the game against the Chicago Bears at Wrigley Field Sunday. Wilson was released by the New York Giants to make room for Red Cagle, the Army star. He signed with Green Bay as a free agent.

SCRIBES TO MEET

The Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America will hold its annual meeting at 4:30 this afternoon. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other business transacted.

Fight Results

At Cincinnati—Joe Anderson defeated Cowboy Jack Willis, 10 rounds.
At Philadelphia—George Giacchano defeated George LaRocco, 8 rounds.
At Miami, Fla.—Jack Roper knocked out Jack McDonald, 1 round.
At London—Dave Shade and Jack Hood drew, 12 rounds.
At New York—Nick Palmer knocked out Isadore Dambois, 4 rounds; Sammy Tisch and Al Mathews drew, 4 rounds.
At Hartford, Conn.—Frankie O'Brien knocked out Izzy Grove, 1 round.

Harry Cooper Wins 'Frisco Golf Medal

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Shooting two brilliant 69s, Harry Cooper of Chicago, led the field with a 138 yesterday in the 36-hole qualifying trials of the $7,500 San Francisco open match play golf tournament. He finished three strokes ahead of Frank Walsh, another Chicago pro, who posted rounds of 70-71—141.

Horton Smith, of the Cragston Country Club, New York, qualified with 69-74—143, while Gene Sarazan, Long Island, turned in 72-72—144.

1912; Alfred D. Wiler during the latter part of 1912, and William H. Locke until his death in 1913.

THERE IS NO denying that Lou Little did a lot to improve football conditions at Columbia this fall in his first season as coach there, but he was not quite equal to one contract with which Columbia coaches have been grappling unsuccessfully for many years.

That is the winning of two major games in one season. Never since the gridiron sport was revived at that university in 1915 has the team been able to capture two major contests in a single campaign.

Lou Little

COLUMBIA LOST THEM all until 1919, when it got a tie with Brown, and except for annual victories over New York U. before the Violets attained their present high rating, it did not get even another draw in a big game until 1924, when it held the Army even. In 1925 Columbia appeared to be about to make the grade when it conquered the Army, but Coach Percy Haughton died a few days later and the elven went to pieces. One major victory a year has been the limit ever since—over Cornell in 1926, over Syracuse in 1927, and over Cornell in 1930. Scoreless ties with Cornell were the closest approaches in 1928 and 1929. Perhaps Little will have better success next season. At least he appears to be headed in the right direction.

SEEK 'POMPEII' IN ARIZONA

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The ruins of an "American Pompeii" will be sought in Arizona next year by an expedition of the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

This was disclosed by Dr. Harold S. Colton, professor of anthropology at the university and a member of the expedition the museum has had for several years in the field near Flagstaff, Ariz.

The ruins, Dr. Colton said, are believed to lie beneath a layer of black basaltic sand 18 to 20 feet thick, which in turn is overlaid by centuries of drift sand deposits. Should the buried city be located, it is expected that many relics revealing the habits and customs of the real American pioneers will be found.

Possibility of such a discovery was revealed to university field workers when a number of ancient Pueblo ruins were discovered showing that volcanic action had been heavy in the vicinity after the dwellings of the Indians had been in ruins for several hundred years. Sunset Crater, near the Coconino forests of Arizona, was held responsible for the eruptions, which are estimated by scientists to have occurred centuries ago.

SHOT, NOT DEER, KILLED HUNTER

MILFORD, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Wellington De Groat, of Matamoras, N. Y., a member of a deer hunting party whose body was found in the wilds of Pike County near here Tuesday, was shot to death and not killed by a wounded deer as at first believed, it was revealed at an inquest.

The inquest was ordered by District Attorney George R. Bull, after a postmortem examination showed a bullet wound in De Groat's body.

At the inquest Allen Brown, a member of the hunting party, testified he and De Groat had fired at a deer and that both shots had taken effect, but failed to bring the animal down. He said De Groat decided to follow the deer. De Groat's body was found the next day beside the deer, on the land of Mrs. Bertha Armbruster.

Other witnesses included Everitt Kleinhaus, a nephew of Mrs. Armbruster, and Otto Kreuling, both of whom testified the woman had threatened to shoot the first deer hunter she found on her land. Seeking Mr. Armbruster for questioning, authorities learned she had gone to a Scranton hospital for an operation.

Calles Weeps At Death Order

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—How Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, man of iron, shed tears after telegraphic authorization for the execution of Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, leader of the revolution of March, 1929, is in the records of the trial of seven naval officers under way here.

The defendants said that Gen. Calles, visiting Vera Cruz prior to the revolt, referred to Gen. Aguirre as "hijo chico" or his "little son," and refused to hear intimations that he was untrustworthy.

Gen. Aguirre was captured in Vera Cruz while Gen. Calles himself was in the north before Torreon.

FREED IN DEATH OF SISTER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ruth B. Weimer was acquitted of the slaying of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Steele.

Attorneys for Mrs. Weimer had pleaded she was driven to temporary insanity by her sister's constant remorse over a court order awarding custody of her two children to her estranged husband.

Mrs. Weimer testified that on the day of the slaying her sister entered a room of their home and exclaimed she had been crucified. Mrs. Weimer said she remembered nothing after that until friends told her she had shot her sister and attempted to take her own life.

MURDERS WIFE, WOUNDS SELF

CATSKILL, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Herbert Downey, 50, shot and killed his estranged wife, Loretta, in a chiropractor's office here last night and then, cornered as he was about to board a train to flee town, sent a bullet into his own abdomen, inflicting probably a fatal wound. He shot himself after his gun twice mised fire at a policeman who sought to arrest him.

The chiropractor said Downey entered the office, fired three shots at his wife, seated in a chair, and fled as a crowd began to gather.

Woman Renounces Title to Regain U. S. Citizenship

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Lady Amy Harrington, daughter of the late United States Senator James McMillan, of Michigan, and widow of the late Sir John Harrington, a colonel in the British army, has renounced her title to resume her American citizenship.

Although born in Detroit, she lost her United States citizenship upon her marriage in 1906. Her husband has since died and she has been living in Grosse Point Park.

She renounced her British allegiance yesterday and was granted citizenship by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle.

SON MURDERED, KILLS SELF

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Col. Charles E. Bleyer, who returned from retirement to direct his son's advertising firm after the son was shot to death, took his own life yesterday. He was found dead of a bullet wound in his room at the Union League Club.

Col. Bleyer, 56, had been a member of the staff of two Illinois governors and formerly was active in National Guard work.

Ten years ago he returned from a trip to Cuba to find his son, Capt. Clifford Bleyer, had been slain by a woman, who then killed herself. Five years ago Col. Bleyer again retired. No motive for suicide was known.

TWO OFFICERS SLAIN IN FIGHT

PINEVILLE, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Deputy Sheriff William Smith and Patrolman Tip Cook were fatally wounded last night in a gun battle. Sheriff Henry Broughton said Smith killed Cook, but he could not say who fired the shots that killed Smith.

The sheriff, Police Chief Charles Stewart and Patrolman Cook and Eugene Felton attempted to calm Smith when he became intoxicated and threatened to "shoot up the town," the sheriff said, and Smith, fired, slaying Cook.

Sheriff Broughton and Patrolman Felton, both denied firing.

BAKER TO SPEAK AT ELK SERVICE

Dr. Rorald Sollman, professor of pharmacology and dean of the Western Reserve Medical School, will lecture in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association annex tonight at 8:30 o'clock on "The Clinical Excretion of Mercury." The lecture is being given under auspices of the Society for Biological Research of the University of Pittsburgh.

6-HOUR SHIFT AS JOB AID

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 5.—Officials of the Republic Steel Corporation may adopt four six-hour shifts a day in local Republic plants, to bring as great a distribution of work as possible among the employes.

The plan was introduced by Republic in its Trumbull plant at Warren several weeks ago. The company advises:

"The plan is working out very nicely at Warren. We are highly pleased with its success. We are considering adopting it in other plants and mills of the corporation wherever possible."

Since introduced by Republic the plan has been adopted in other steel mills in the United States, among them the Allegheny Steel Company of Brackenridge, Pa. The change made by that company will affect 1,800 men.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Decline — Local Market Narrow

STOCK MARKET AGAIN SLIPS LOWER

Pace Quickens for Time, But Dwindles Almost to Vanishing Point Later

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The undermining influences of impatience and uncertainty caused another gentle settling of share prices in today's market.

Trading quickened a little, and the creeping sag of the past two days gained momentum for a time, but around midday the market seemed to strike hardpan, and after a momentary upturn, trading dwindled off close to the vanishing point.

Rails were again the conspicuously heavy group.

Bears, growing restive, put out a few feelers here and there, and are apparently anxious to test the bottom levels reached November 18. Wall street is inclined to look for some constructive development in the international banking situation, but seems to be very much in the dark about it all.

The weekly Federal Reserve statement, showing a further small decline—of $11,000,000—in brokers' loans, and further extension of credit to meet seasonal and month-end demands, failed to provide much of interest. Call money was possibly a little firmer at 2 per cent. Outside offerings at 1½ per cent were small.

Statements by Royal Dutch officials urging the oil industry to follow the copper and steel producers in bolstering prices were regarded as encouraging.

Sears-Roebuck's sales report for the period from November 6 to December 3, showing a drop of 20 4-5 per cent from the like period of last year, was not very cheering, as it showed little improvement over Montgomery Ward's november report, which was off 25 per cent. Merchandising executives, however, expect December to make a substantially better showing.

British Egg Imports Gain in Volume

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—British imports of eggs rose in quantity during the first nine months of 1930 by 19,640,000 dozen compared with the corresponding period of last year, but with respect to values the greater number this year was accompanied by a fall in value of over $3,000,000 below the aggregate a year ago.

The decrease in value, the Commerce Department says, is partly accountable through the British grading system for home produced eggs, and the marking of imported, coupled with greater domestic output.

Oil Companies Plan Proration Appeal

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 5.—The Century Petroleum Corporation, Oils Incorporated, and C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty Company today prepared to appeal from the corporation commission's denial of their petition to set aside the state oil proration order.

In a brief hearing yesterday R. S. Randerson, president of the Century company, testified he had been forced to reject contracts for the sale of 25,000,000 barrels of oil because of curtailment of production through proration.

Injunction Granted Amn. Safety Razor

TOLEDO, Dec. 5. — American Safety Razor Corporation has obtained a permanent injunction against Mac Blade Works and Crescent Manufacturing Company, both of Fremont, O., forbidding them in their use of certain blade cartons, circulars and advertising matter. American Safety Razor also was awarded damages.

Herr Optimistic On Trade Outlook

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 5.—There are many reasons for feeling certain that good progress will be made in business of all kinds before many months have passed, according to E. M. Herr, vice chairman of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, in an address before the Mid-Day Club here.

Supply of Coffee Drops in November

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange announced a decrease of 34,684 bags in the world visible supply of coffee during the month of November. World total visible supply December 1 was 5,014,312 bags, compared with 5,050,996 bags November 1.

Corporate Financing Low in November

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Total corporate financing in November was $153,600,000, the lowest figure reported for any month since 1923, Standard Statistics Company says. Bond offerings of $139,700,000 made up 90 per cent of the entire amount. Total financing in November last year was $413,000,000.

Paramount-Publix Using New Process

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Paramount Publix Corporation is using the new sound process developed by laboratories of the Electrical Research Products Corporation, subsidiary of Western Electric Company, in all of its new film productions.

LOANS AT NEW LOW MARK

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(INS.)—Brokers' loans decreased $11,000,000 during the week ended December 3 to a total of $2,111,000,000, according to the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Board. This establishes a new low record total for the present series of figures started in 1926, and marks the tenth consecutive weekly decline during which the loan total has dropped $1,111,000,000.

The present total compares with $2,122,000,000 on November 26, and with $3,392,000,000 on December 4, 1929.

The high record was $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

SEARS SALES DECLINE 20%

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Sears, Roebuck & Co. sales during the period, November 6 to December 3, amounted to $32,243,424, against $40,717,004 in the like 1929 period, a decrease of 20.8 per cent.

Sales from January 2 to December 3 totaled $351,306,974, compared with $390,331,450 a year ago, a decrease of 10 per cent.

Price Cutting Held Dangerous by Ford

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—In announcing the personnel of the New York Board of Trade's committee to study indiscriminate price cutting, Edward Pflaut, chairman of the committee, made public a statement from Edsel Ford, in which Mr. Ford held that promiscuous price-cutting on well established products is dangerous, but he expressed the view that retail prices as a whole must adjust themselves before there is any great change in the present business situation.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Considerably enlarged arrivals helped pull corn values downward early today and wheat sympathized. Reports which pointed to a wet harvest for wheat in Argentina failed to act as an offset. Starting at ¼-¾ drop, corn later continued to fall. Wheat opened at ¼ decline to ¼ advance and subsequently eased all around.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A further decline in Curb prices was accompanied by a larger volume of trading today. Losses were generally nominal, but the market got few respites from pressure.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Our Bankers Doing More Than Revealed

By B. C. FORBES

I AM INCLINED to take back some of the criticism voiced by myself — and others — of New York bankers for their apparent utter lack of leadership. Delving into things,

Mr. Forbes

I find that they have been doing a great deal of extremely helpful work. Had New York's banking leaders been as selfish and callous as often represented, certain grave troubles would have come to the surface, which, thanks to co-operation by banking leaders, have been averted. Even this week our responsible banks were called upon to act promptly, not to say heroically, to prevent threatened trouble.

J. P. Morgan & Co. are seldom given public credit for doing unselfish things. If the whole truth could be uncovered, it would be found that this banking firm has rendered incalculably valuable service without putting a price thereon. The real inside story of what has happened since the panic would not only make thrilling reading, but would put some of our leading bankers in a different light in the eyes of the public.

Happily, confidence is steadily making headway that a definite turn for the better in the security markets will follow backing-and-filling. Current stock quotations have made allowances for a lot of things that are most unlikely to happen. As usual, Wall Street has rushed to extremes. That a rebound will come in the not distant future cannot be doubted.

OWEN D. YOUNG'S speech at the Lotus Club, read in cold type, conveys little of the charm it contained for the listeners. Mr. Young has three enviable possessions: A wonderful brain, a modest personality, a most winsome smile. He takes his work very seriously, but not himself.

The story is told that someone, desirous of flattering Young, asked him how it felt to attain a position so far above and ahead of the level of ordinary mortals, and that Young immediately retorted, in salty language, that it would not be a particularly comfortable feeling were one to kid one's self that people were looking at one's nether extremities!

Owen Young is among the most human men I have ever known—he is not eclipsed even by Charlie Schwab. His patience is inexhaustible. He has a vastly understanding heart. Born poor and familiar with the struggles of humble mortals, he has infinite sympathy with the underdog. Not least important, he has an unfailing sense of humor. Like Lincoln, he has caused many a hard problem to melt into thin air by relating some apt, humorous anecdote. He is America's supreme conciliator. His sincerity is so transparent, his sense of fairness so manifest, that when he sums up a problem after all disputants have had their say, they can rarely resist agreeing to his outlines of a way out. Never is he suspected of having a personal ax to grind. Never is he suspected of prejudice.

So it is that he has won the esteem of the nations of the world. If he retains his health and the same size of hat, he should go even further, nationally and internationally.

QUIET AGITATION is going on for the reopening of the whole subject of international debt readjustments. In the highest financial circles it is emphasized that the chief stumbling block to world recovery is the burden of international war settlements. The claim is made that, if some substantial modification could be agreed upon all round, prosperity's return would be hastened.

The truth is, however, that apparently the United States would be asked to hold the bag. Financiers contend that we would be more than compensated by expansion in foreign trade and in the betterment which would ensue in all important countries. But unless something more definite than that can be offered as an inducement for this country to do any more debt cancelling, is it remotely likely that the great mass of American taxpayers would consent to have their own burdens increased at a time like this? Most Americans feel that they have worries enough of their own these days.

Readjustment of war debts unquestionably will come some day. But that day isn't today or tomorrow or any day next week or next month—unless, let it be repeated, a quid pro quo attractive to American taxpayers can be tendered.

Praise be, each day is bringing us nearer Recovery Year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—High grade domestic bonds moved in a narrow range today, but some wide recessions cropped out among junior obligations. Pressure was confined to a comparatively small list and domestic bonds generally showed a tendency to recover.

Stock Exchange Topics

Electric Power & Light Reports Increase in Net Profits.

Electric Power and Light earned $2.94 a share for the 12 months ended September 30, compared with $2.79 in the corresponding period of last year. Net profits available for dividends were $10,001,000 in 1930, compared with $9,291,000 in 1929, $8,076,000 in 1928 and $7,611,000 in 1927. Electric Power common recently made a new low of 37½ in the face of increasing earnings, against a high of 103½ for the year. In other words, the stock declined almost 65 per cent in the face of a gain of more than 7½ per cent in profits available for dividends. Incidentally, total assets increased to $192,364,000 from $120,848,000 in the 12 months ended September 30.

Many who doubted the advisability of the copper price advance last month are learning that the situation in the red metal is better than bears have been willing to admit. New business has not been large since the spurt of buying which accompanied the advance. The outstanding feature is the firmness of sellers regarding the market. That has been demonstrated on several occasions when consumers put out inquiries.

Little evidence has been seen of any bullish demonstration in American Tobacco, although the company has continued to establish cigaret sales records. Meanwhile, the stock has been meeting quiet but good buying on reaction, and during periods of firmness the offerings have been limited. Buyers report that it has been necessary at times to advance bids fractionally to obtain the stock.

Inspection of transfer books of some corporations next year, not the very big ones, may reveal very notable changes in the ownership of stocks. Certain large interests have been buying heavily of the shares of some companies. That is true of one or more important copper companies. Some of this buying has been done with a merger as the objective. In cases, it would be possible to obtain dominating interests in companies at from one-third to one-fifth the cost at peak prices of last year.

Though Wall street and the country, weighed down by prevailing conditions, apparently does not feel disposed to endeavor to peer very deeply into the future, the Treasury Department evidently finds no reason for such timidity. On the contrary, the request, contained in Secretary Mellon's annual report, for authority to issue $8,000,000 additional bonds under the second Liberty Bond act, the bonds to be exempt from surtax, indicates the head of the Treasury Department is sizing up situations which will arise two to three years hence. Secretary Mellon, in making this request, is undoubtedly looking ahead to the task of refunding the first and fourth Liberty 4¼s. The first-mentioned issue, of which there remains outstanding about $1,933,000,000, is subject to call after June, 1932, and the last-mentioned loan outstanding in the amount of about $6,268,000,000 beginning in October, 1933.

Selling in American Telephone and in Drug, Inc., among others yesterday was reputedly liquidation of an unusual character. Offerings were reported to have come primarily from houses having Boston connections, and selling while not assuming exceptional proportions at any time, was nevertheless rather persistent. The effect of this liquidation was emphasized during the day by the appearance of sporadic bear pressure. Selling for short account naturally tended to accentuate the weakness which developed in such stocks, but offerings appeared to be well taken on the concessions. There was nothing in the way of news bearing on the position or prospects of the companies whose stocks were under pressure to which the selling could have been ascribed.

Tommy Prepares to Have Annie Freed on Bail

CHAPTER XXV.

Polack Annie sat before a bare table in the squad room of the women inmates of Detention Home, playing solitaire. The brawny matron, a copper in her heart, watched her to see that she didn't cheat.

"Jack o' Hearts!" cried the ebullient Annie, "my love card!"

"How d'you know? This 'Mr. X' may not be blond at all."

"Lissen, Colleen Moore one o' the rackets I'm way up in is complexions. I can tell from his telegram he's blond. He writes a mighty blond telegram."

Annie laid a nine of spades on a ten of diamonds and moved the pile over on the jack of clubs.

Alice 'Phones Tommy

"That gives me a space," she triumphed. "If the four o' di'monds ain't buried as deep as Silk Freeman, I might make this hand come out."

"Silk Freeman? Say, good-looking, I got a fair idee you could spill who knocked off Silk, at that."

"I'll tell you somethin'," Annie confided. "Somethin' I never coughed up to the D. A., or to the Chief o'Dicks. I know plenty about Freeman. I could give them newspaper boys some front-page stuff they'd have to print on asbestos. But I swear to you as much as I swear I love one man, an' I want him t' love me, that if I know who clipped Silk Freeman, I hope I join him in hell—wit'out asbestos! Is that good enough?"

Tommy had his hat and coat on. He was on his way. He heard the 'phone. It might be Annie. He stopped, turned back, answered. It wasn't Annie. It was Alice Schuyder.

"Tommy, dear," she gurgled, and "Tommy had never heard this cold, passionless creature talk that way before." I think I know who the mysterious red-head is in the Freeman scandal—remember?"

"I'll never forget," brutally.

"So you see who and what... and, of course, so do I...now, Tommy, dad just talked to me in a brotherly way, and I see that dad's right and I'm wrong. ...I'm sorry I was so drastic with you that night—I was upset unstrung. After all — well, Tommy boy— —"

"Don't YOU call me Tommy boy!" shouted Tommy.

"I—I never did before. All rightie—I neve. will again."

"Thanks," curtly.

"Then that's settled—now, to continue what we were discussing——"

"WE—are you Lindbergh?"

Young Gillespie's hands trembled as he held the instrument. "Get this jane!" he barked, "you said I was a hoodlum. Well, you don't know what the hell this is all about. An' there ain't no reason why you ever should know. You're yellow inside and outside. I helped spring you an' I risked my life to do it. That's okay with me. Now, don't get in my hair. You've washed up—out—back in circulation. Scram, sister—blow—breeze—can you inhale that, or do I have to send it to you on a baby-blue engraved card with no R. S. V. P.? Or will I just hang up on you?..

He didn't have to—she hung up on him.

Young Gillespie strolled out to the garage and got out his roadster. He made Detention Home in ten flat. He found the outside door open to anybody and the inside door closed to everybody. A woman dressed somewhat like a nurse opened a crack in the door.

Tries to See Annie

"Who an' what do ye want?" she demanded.

"I want to see—h'm—Mrs. Livermoor."

"You an' the rest of the world. Are you her brother, mouthpiece, husband, cousin—or whosis?"

"Say—er, Mr. X."

The matron stepped back half a stance. "Oh—h," she snorted.

"Well, I can't let ye in," said the matron in a stagey undertone. "But I'll take any message to the girl friend. She's been up-an'-up wit' me."

"With you and everybody . . . tell her this: Mr. X is out here, ready to put up bail, ready to get her out, ready to—just say ready to—say he didn't finish it—there's no end to it."

"Go on wit' ye, young feller—I could finish it meself—what the—what do ye t'ink I am?"

"I hadn't given that any profound degree of speculation."

"Oh-h, hadn't ye? Isn't that just too burn-me-up bad?"

"Here," he said—and handed her a $20 bill.

"There's no Mrs. X booked here," she retorted, looking at the double saw-buck. Tommy handed her another twenty.

"M-m—she just come in — what's the message?"

"Tell her I adore her—I'm waiting—I can't live without her—I'll go her bail for her and I'll go to hell with her—I'll—I'll—Tell her Tommy boy is down stairs with his arms wide open — waiting — longing—tell her——"

"I'll tell her, mister—what is it you want me to tell her?"

"Oh, tell her it's me—I mean it's I—damn a college education—I. No, tell her it's Tommy waiting, ready to spring her when she wants to be sprung."

"Sorry," said the matron, with official dignity, "but it is against rigulations to carry them kind of messages to prisoners... sorry."

"Oh — all right — here's another twenty—tell her—"

"You're very careless wit dough. But bein' the only son o'—whoa!—pardon me. Bein' young an' rich, I suppose ye can afford to buy yer toys."

Tommy caught the "act." He drew out a pencil and a sheet of paper.

Annie Answers Note

"What's the use trying to kid you?" he laughed, as he paused in his writing. "Take this up to Mrs. X, you won't be sorry."

He had the human decency to attach two five-spots to it and the matron had the human decency not to read the note—until she had closed the door.

Lady—Ready to bail you. Waiting and longing. Come to me X.

And the matron carried it in to Polack Annie who was taking a bath.

The matron held out the note. "Can't be annoyed," snapped Annie.

"It's from Tommy boy."

Annie dropped the soap and her petulance. She dried a hand on the matron's skirt and grabbed the paper. She read it, and then: "Gimme a pencil." She scribbled on the back:

X—Gee, thanx, beaudiful. But can't meet you till my dispusition turns back to its nachrel color. I know what hooked you, kid and what hooked you kid'll hold you, kid. After all even love, grand as it is, can hang on a hair. Get me, kid? Shoot a shark around with the bail, tomorrow. That'll be Thursdy I'll evaperate till Sundy. Then stand by for a call. And when the call comes, you'll come. And when you come you'll see red. Till then, to my big X—XXX-×XX——.

Mrs. Livermoor.
(Your X-Lover.)

Tommy Gillespie's brow was puckered as he read. Then it began to relax. Then he smiled, chuckled, laughed aloud.

He made a hop-skip across the walk and into his car. He started off. His heart beat high and his pulses pounded.

At the corner a mounted copper waved him back. "Who the deuce you think you are?" he barked. A crowd blocked the crossing. Cars were passing. They kept moving, steadily, slowly, solidly. Signals changed, but no one could get by.

"The traffic in this village is getting more unspeakable every day," grouched Tommy Gillespie to a taxi driver who had pulled up beside him. "What's THIS jam all about?"

"That? Oh—that's Silk Freeman's funeral."

DAILY TRUE STORY — Poor Gertie

"Poor Gertie," May Evans said to her chum, Allie North.

"Yeah, she's awful dumb."

"I'm going to give her a talkin' to. She ought to use her bean."

"You said it," Allie agreed.

Gertie Harris, who had been talking with them in front of the corner drug store, hurried back to her job in what her acquaintances call the "Five and Dime."

Gertie knew her friends rather scorned her for taking the "job" (they couldn't call it a position) in the Five and Ten, and of all places, they said, in the basement. However, Gertie wasn't shedding any tears over the situation. She was eating regularly and saving a bit each week.

Jobs were scarce. Gertie would have liked to work at the drug store candy counter, where May Evans worked; or, still better, at the men's glove and tie counter in the big store where Allie North was employed.

Ever since she was a little kid she had known May and Allie, had lived right in the same neighborhood with them. They had left school a little before she did, and of course when she got ready to go to work they gave her all sorts of advice.

Times were hard and finances low in Gertie's home and so, instead of waiting until she could get just the work she preferred, she took the first job that came along.

A few nights after May and Allie had discussed Gertie and agreed she had been "awful dumb" to work in a five-and-dime basement, May dropped in to see Gertie. They went down to the local picture house and after that took some delicatessen viands up to May's room.

"I meet the nicest boys where I work," May said.

"Sure, buying candy at your counter for other girls."

"That's all right. I get acquainted with them. Listen, Gertie, I'm going to give you a talking to."

Criticized by Friends

"Shoot," said Gertie, curling up in the tattered Morris chair with a sandwich in one hand and a dill pickle in the other.

"You shouldn't have bothered with that job in the five-and-dime."

Gertie grinned at her friend and took a generous segment off the end of the pickle.

"You know what I mean—you don't get to meet any nice boys where you work. The sort who come down where you work are mostly old married men buying stuff for the home in the suburbs, or else nutty guys getting parts to build radios with."

"I'm eating and sleeping warm, helping ma with the rent and tucking away a little change each week."

"But that isn't the big idea—you'll drudge along down there in that basement of the five and dime until you get to be an old maid, just like Lucy Holt, who has worked bookkeeping at the laundry for 20 years."

"I know lots of married women who haven't got a thin dime and owe the instalment man. Lucy Holt has got over $10,000 saved up, think of that! She's got it invested in things and right now if she never did another stitch of work she'd have about $12 a week coming in for life. I don't see where Lucy has got any reason to bust out crying."

"Good grief, Gertie—don't you want to get married?"

"I expect I do—if I happen to meet the sort of a man I want."

The girls had a number of talks like this, but Gertie kept right on with her job and May and Allie continued to call her "Poor Gertie."

One day a young man picked up two paint brushes. He got Gertie's eye and said, "Miss, will these grow?"

"What?" Gertie asked, staring at the brushes.

The young man laughed and shook his head. His other hand was pointing at some hyacinth bulbs.

Gertie Explains

"Excuse me," Gertie murmured, and blushed. "Yes, they'll grow. I've got some at home and they're blooming lovely."

He bought some, thanked her and departed.

A few days later he came back.

"Is it too late to plant tulip bulbs?" he asked.

"You don't put them in gravel and water like hyacinths; they have to be planted in a garden—any time before frost. They come up in the spring. Of course, these aren't the fancy named varieties, but they make pretty blossoms."

"I have quite a garden. I'll take some."

The young man dropped in at Gertie's counter every week or so. He bought some ivy, half a dozen of the little plants.

"It will cling to bricks," he explained, "and grow right up my fireplace chimney."

"Oh, a fireplace? You must live in the suburbs," Gertie exclaimed.

"Oh, yes. I've got a little place out beyond Grayton Center. I can see all over the bay from my front porch."

"It must be lovely."

"I'm crazy about it," he confessed.

Just before Christmas he bought a file and some cup hooks.

Then he hesitated and finally handed her a card. It read:

Jerome Swain, Designer

"Would you—that is, I wish to know your name, Miss—I have a reason," he stammered.

Just before Christmas—the day before—Jerome Swain came to Gertie's counter and handed over quite a sizable package.

"Merry Christmas, Miss Harris," he said, and almost before the startled Gertie could stammer her thanks he was gone. The package contained candy and handkerchiefs.

By spring they were rather friendly. They were calling each other Jerry and Gertie.

Jerry bought quantities of plants for setting out in the spring.

One day he said, "What do you know, Gertie—every blamed one of those tulip bulbs has come up and budded. I wish you could see them."

"Gee," said Gertie, "I wish I could."

"Say, why can't I call for you Sunday—I've got a sort of a car."

"Go out to your house? Be yourself, Jerry."

"Oh, bring a friend along or your mother."

She promised to let him know.

By this time May and Allie saw little of Gertie. They had so many jolly boy friends to go about with that they couldn't spare the time. Now and then they'd meet her and laugh at her.

Mrs. Harris agreed to go out to this young man's place with Gertie on Sunday.

Jerry's place was a white stucco bungalow and an amazingly pretty one. The artistic furnishings amazed Gertie. The gardens gave promise of a riot of blossoms. The tulips were in bloom.

To their surprise, Jerry insisted on getting dinner for them. He showed them the work he did—designing patterns for wall paper and also for fabrics. He did his work at home and evidently it paid him, for he had five acres about his bungalow and furnishing that were costly.

His dinner amazed them.

Mother Consents

Gertie insisted on helping wash the dishes. Wise Mrs. Harris sat in the sun parlor and rocked contentedly. She'd been a girl herself and she'd trust this Jerry.

When the dishes were finished Jerry suddenly kissed Gertie. Then he kissed her again and she clung to him. He put his arm about her and led her out to Mrs. Harris.

"I want to marry her," Jerry said.

Mrs. Harris looked at her daughter's pink cheeks and shining eyes. "I don't think you'll have much trouble doing that, me boy," she said.

"Gee, didjer hear," May Evans said to Allie North. "Gertie's married some hick out in th' sticks and she and her Ma have gone out there to live."

"Poor Gertie," said Allie.

DAILY PEP TALK

Today's guest pepologist is Fletus Pollop, president of the International Chamber of Business Optimism. Says Mr. Pollop—

"We all know that prosperity is a state of mind. Then why don't those unemployed people, who complain because they haven't got jobs, stop reading pessimism and go around and tell each other that they have good jobs and are well satisfied? If everybody will say, 'I gotta job! I gotta job!' everything will be all right."

"We make pictures for the love of the doing. It is not work. It is pleasure, it is joy. We do not say to ourselves: 'Now we will spend just so much on a motion picture.' We say: 'We will make the best picture that is in us. We will dream over it, we will toil over it, and if we put our hearts into it, we will make something that will inspire the American public.'"

Well, whenever you think he can't get the job done, you're badly fooled. He'll look you straight in the eye and spring a fast one and about the time you begin to swallow hard, get red above your ears and shift from one foot to the other, a little twinkle comes in his eyes, a slow smile spreads over his face, and boy you realize you've been sold."

The European Mess

GENERAL LUDENDORFF prophesies that another great European war will begin in 1932.

He declares France will precipitate it for the purpose of crushing Germany; that Germany will probably have the help of Italy and England; but that France, nevertheless, will be victorious and will dominate Europe.

Ludendorff may be mistaken in the date. If, however, there is any logic in history and any meaning in facts, Ludendorff is not mistaken in the rest of his prediction.

France not only plans to crush Germany, but is crushing her now, and has been crushing her ever since the German delegates were forced by the French in 1919 to sign the Treaty of Versailles.

At Versailles, France imposed an impossible scale of reparations on the German people. She did not believe then that they could find the money to pay, and she does not believe it now.

Referring in round numbers to the average annual payment that Germany is called upon to make, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, said:

"Germany cannot pay the five hundred million dollars (per year) demanded of her over the next sixty years on top of the $35,000,000,000 already taken from her."

(As estimated by our Treasury Department, Germany is expected to make an average annual payment of more than four hundred and seventy-five million dollars for fifty-eight and one-half years.)

None can doubt that this staggering burden, besides dragging Germany down into the depth of financial depression, HAS BEEN A TREMENDOUS FACTOR IN THE WORLD-WIDE DEPRESSION WHICH NO NATION, EXCEPT FRANCE, HAS ESCAPED.

France firmly believed in 1919 that Germany would be broken down and ruined in the attempt to pay, and what France believed then is now perilously near fulfillment.

For the last eleven years Germany has been held in a state of involuntary servitude, while France has been taking everything that this servitude has produced.

The squeezing process cannot continue indefinitely.

In the event, however, that Germany does not break down soon enough under the burden of debt that France has forced upon her, France apparently intends to break her down by war.

France profited richly in land, wealth and power from the last war.

She hopes to profit as much from the next.

That is why she is ready for war today.

That is why she is eager to create the conditions that will seem, no matter how speciously, to justify war.

If anyone considers that an extreme or sensational statement, let him read the solemn warning of former premier Lloyd George of England, published in the Hearst newspapers November 23, this year.

Speaking of French strength and German weariness, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"There is only one way to reduce armaments, and that is by limiting the numbers and the equipment of the forces that can be put into the field by each country in the event of war.

"If war were declared by or against France, she could put into the field, fully equipped, a force of several millions of men."

Mr. Lloyd George further said specifically that this force, together with those of France's military allies, IS ESTIMATED AT TEN MILLION MEN, AGAINST WHICH GERMANY HAS AN ARMY OF 100,000.

"A more startling phase of the position of Europe," Mr. Lloyd George adds, "is that the equipment of these millions would be INCOMPARABLY MORE POWERFUL AND DESTRUCTIVE THAN THAT OF THE GERMAN ARMIES OF 1914."

France is now the military tyrant of Europe. She has the men, the guns and the money.

She has Germany's money and OUR MONEY.

She sits triumphant on a mound of gold extorted from nations that we defeated in response to her frantic pleas for aid.

Meanwhile, she arrogantly withholds payment of the sums we lent her in her hour of direst necessity.

The aid was effective, the necessity has passed, and the OBLIGATION IS FORGOTTEN.

France knows her own strength and intends to make the most of it. She will aim the death blow at Germany when the time is ripe. She is determined not to "rule or ruin," but to RULE AND RUIN.

As for the other nations, and particularly the creditor nations, her attitude is "what are you going to do about it?"

It is a sad and sinister spectacle—this whole European mess. But fundamentally it is not a new spectacle.

George Washington was looking toward the European spectacle when he asked:

"Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice?"

The European spectacle of his day taught Washington that our true policy for all time was "to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world."

If the American people have the wisdom to follow the counsel and heed the warning of the father of his country, THE EUROPEAN SPECTACLE OF THEIR OWN DAY WILL TEACH THEM THE SAME LESSON.

Changes Are Needed

Some Good Recommendations Are Made by the Pennsylvania Election Law Reforms Conference.

Snap judgment is not to be taken on the new voting code proposed by the Pennsylvania Election Law Reforms Conference. Matters on which committees of highly intelligent men and women have spent months of study, matters which call for half a dozen amendments to the constitution and numerous acts of assembly, cannot be digested offhand.

There can be no doubt, however, that some sort of election reform is demanded, and the character of the citizens and the organizations that make up the conference suggests that the changes proposed are probably desirable. Some of the many recommendations are good on their face.

An ideal election code would be one making it easy to cast an honest vote and impossible to cast a dishonest one. The proposed system, it is believed, offers improvement in both respects. The plan for permanent registration and for keeping the polls open two hours longer removes some of the excuses for failure to vote.

A gratifying effort is made to promote simplicity, as, for example, through the creation of county election boards that would perform duties now distributed among the courts, the County Commissioners and the registration commissioners, and through the plan to omit the name of presidential electors from the ballot.

Objections can, of course, be raised to some of the proposals. The conference has doubtless considered them.

Look Out for the Air Pocket -:- By Nelson Harding

Bird of Freedom, have a care!
That's a pocket of hot air
That drops you unexpectedly
Where you no longer will be free.

Exert your strength without delay
And from that danger soar away,
Now is the time for you to flap
Your wings and fly far from the trap.

Marry-Go-Round

The saddest looking married couples are those who married for a joke.

Most love affairs don't last long enough to wear out, these days; they just die of infantile paralysis.

After 40, the greatest problem of a woman's life is whether to go on a lettuce-and-pineapple diet and look youthful or to eat three square meals a day and look cheerful.

The average man succeeds in wrecking the lives of at least two women; the one he ought to have married and didn't—and the one he ought NOT to have married and did.

Nature is still preserving the balance of beauty in the human race, judging from the way in which the "It-girls" of the movies are failing to click with their more decorative titled husbands, and turning to something plain and substantial for relief.

Modern invention brings its complications. Once, a wife had to keep absolutely quiet only when her husband was shaving or saying grace. Now, she has to go into silence every time he puts on a new tire, tries out a new "putt" or wants to listen to a prizefight or a football game, coming over the radio.

This new modernistic furniture—all glass and steel—is designed to keep the home as clean as an operating room—and just as cozy and cheerful!

Contracting and Expanding Stars

By Archibald Henderson

Among the strangest of all the phenomena of the stellar universe, are the stars called Cepheid Variables. They take their name from a star, barely visible to the naked eye in the constellation. This was the first star discovered to have a strange pulsation. Such stars expand and contract at a given rate, with entire regularity. It is as if the star were a beating heart of the universe; but giving the appearance of swelling in size and then expiring or failing to a much smaller size.

Some of these stars have very short periods—of only a few hours. Others have much longer periods, say a number of days. Some even have a very long period, but never as much as a month. Curious as this phenomenon is, these cepheid variables are scattered about in many parts of the heavens. In proportion to the total number of stars in the heavens, which runs into the billions, these stars are comparatively infrequent.

More than a century ago, when the first tiny point of light in the constellation Cepheus was observed to pulsate, astronomers have studied these pulsing variables with exceptional interest and curiosity. What can be the cause of these strange, periodic pulsations, as regular as the beating of a mighty heart?

Can it be that these mighty bodies, which because of their excessive remoteness seem so tiny, actually expand and contract? And, if so, why do not they fluctuate irregularly, like the flame of a guttering candle, instead of like the regular coming on and off, at a given rate, of the light in an incandescent bulb?

Surely this is one of the most difficult of problems to settle. Shapley, the great authority on Cepheid Variables, has supported the theory of actual periodic expansion and contraction, at a given rate of pulsation, of the bodies which make up the stars. In this theory, he is supported by Eddington and others.

At the peak of luminosity, the star appears to be blue; and on subsidence, the color changes from blue to red—not suddenly, like an electric sign, but through almost imperceptible gradations and shades of color. This state of affairs would seem to support the view that, through these pulsing periods, the actual constitution of the star underwent transformation.

Could it be that these stars are, as it were, huge gas bags—gaseous bodies which expand and contract according to some inner law of structure?

Why on earth, or rather why in interstellar space, should a star expand to some fixed maximum, millions of cubic miles larger; and then contract to some fixed minimum, losing again the volume formerly gained. The astrophysicists have not been able to devise a satisfactory explanation, according to the known laws for the expansion of gases, to fit the case of these pulsing variables.

There is an alternative theory, upheld by another group of astronomers, conspicuous among whom is Sir James Jeans. According to this theory, the bodies are of a peculiar shape, not spherical like a globe, but oblong, something like an egg. These ovoid bodies rotate about some axis. When the short axis is at right angles to the line of vision, the star appears to have reached its minimum pulsation; but when the long axis is perpendicular to the line of sight, the star appears to have expanded to its maximum size.

This theory is plausible on some grounds. All celestial bodies are believed to rotate. These cepheid variables, if this theory be accepted, are something like dumbbells; and are gradually evolving toward fission or breakage in the center, giving rise ultimately to a binary pair, which are not connected, but revolve, each about other. However, this theory does not explain the phenomenon indicated by the spectroscopic evidence, namely periodic changes in the actual constitution of the star.

This unsolved problem is one of the most fascinating problems of astrophysics.

-:- LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

They're building a gorgeous new prison for New York's women criminals. People, passing it, think it's a swagger apartment house and try to engage rooms in advance!

Private rooms—rooms, not cells!—for each convict. Hot and cold running water in each room. Recreation halls, gymnasiums, radios, soft mattresses, pipe organ, chapel, splendid hospital, electric sewing machines, writing desks, all the conveniences and comforts of a fine organized modern home.

That's going to make a lot of people mighty mad!

They'll say: "What's the use of being good when bad people are treated like that? Bad people should be punished, not coddled. Coddling like that encourages crime."

Maybe you'll be saying that too. But suppose you were a thief.

"But I couldn't be a thief!" you exclaim indignantly.

All right. Maybe you couldn't. But just let's pretend you were. Suppose you'd been born as Maggie Jones was born and been up against what Maggie Jones was up against—and the cops had you. Then what? What would be best for you? What would be best for society?

You believe in "punishment." Well, we have been punishing women criminals. Would it be best for you to treat you as we have been treating them?

Would it be best to rob you of all privacy and herd you like an animal with other animals?

Would it be best to surround you with other animals?

Would it be best to surround you with filth and squalor . . . force you to experience nothing but ugliness and hate, day after day?

Would it be best to constantly remind you that you were a thief, to trample your self-respect in the mud, to break all your pride and wreck your dreams and turn you out—branded?

That's the conventional treatment of prisoners. You believe in punishment. You say coddling encourages crime. Then such treatment should certainly discourage crime. But does it? It does not. Nine out of ten women, who come out branded, stay that way. Drift deeper into crime and degeneracy. Is that good for society? Would that be the best way to handle you if you were a thief?

Or would it be better to show you a new way of living—

A cleaner, more beautiful and orderly way of living—

Would it be better to build a new pride in you, finer ideals—

And give you a chance to make yourself over, from a thief, an outcast and a convict, into a woman?

Which would be better for you and the state?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Fairy Tale Days

Will we ever recapture
The glamor, the rapture
That brightened our lost childhood ways?
Will we win back the gladness,
The bright April madness
And joy of our fairy-tale days?

It is good to be doing,
Attaining, pursuing
New goals that are higher each year;
To be splendidly living
And striving, while giving
Our part to Earth's gladness and cheer.

Yet sometimes there come stealing
Vague longings, revealing
The path where our fancy still strays;
Then we live old days over
Anew, to discover
The wonders of fairy tale days!

They Live in India

Can They Really Govern Themselves?

THESE NATIVES OF INDIA DEMAND SELF GOVERNMENT

The people of India, 300,000,000 of them, 60,000,000 of them Mohammedans, the rest Hindus, demand the right to govern themselves.

In London the king from a gilded throne addresses the Indian delegates gathered at a round-table conference, and British statesmen hold out as much hope of self-government and "dominion status" as they dare.

This picture, showing a "religious" festival in India, indicates that at least SOME of the inhabitants of that big country are not adapted to self-government YET.

ONE OF 43,000,000 UNTOUCHABLES

These strangely painted, largely undressed subjects of the British Empire are celebrating what is called the "Muhurrim Festival." They are supposed to be disguised as tigers.

The little girl with the sad face and the ring in her nose is one of the "untouchables." The upper classes in India, the Brahmins, and other high-caste Hindus, would not walk on the same side of the street with this child or her parents. There are in India 43,000,000 like her, despised, down-trodden. Not much material for self-government THERE.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing makes one feel so superior as early rising. What happened to beauty spots? Someone should write a play that has Ernest Glendenning in it for more than one act. The Ritz-Carlton seems to remain "the" hotel. O. B. Winter, Pauline Lord's husband.

Albert Payson Terhune, a Newark (N. J.) boy, who made good in the city. What became of those jimmy-pipe ads? Thank goodness. The old studio where Mabel Normand as Muriel Fortescue was a Biograph star. Dr. Hugo Riesenfield, who isn't a doctor of anything—but an orchestra leader.

Overheard: "She was as close to me as the inside of my pocket, but turned out a rat." The blind man who sells pocket dictionaries and will define any word in it—or you get one free. What became of vaudeville's La Belle Titcomb and her beautiful white horse? W. C. Lengel.

Strutting old roues full of mental ravishings. Frank G. Shattuck, who directs the Schrafft places. A silent movie theater for the deaf would pay. It was this column that predicted the success of a news reel theater eight years ago. And a stock boom last July.

Joe Leblang's jutting smile. Nearly always an upside down N. in Times electric news flashes. The Winthrop, where Floyd Gibbons stops. Beggars do not plead for a dime any more—they demand it. Who remembers when the youngest child had to wave a shoo-fly over the dinner table?

The grinning, garrulous colored starter in front of Reuben's and his greeting: "Reuben's—That's All." The row of flossy art galleries on East Fifty-seventh. Monta Bell's overcoat suggests an explosion in a dye factory. Frederick J. Smith, of the New Movie magazine.

That coat of armor in the Vanderbilt hall entrance. Will Hayes breezing along. The fellow who sends me a daily anonymous postcard has missed for 10 days. And it has been going on for two years. Wonder if everybody else is fed up on those "It's the tomboy in me!" stories?

In the adjoining booth in a cafe a disillusioned Romeo was speaking his troubled mind. "It is no use to go on," he said. "When I go home I get hell from her and when with you, you are always crying for something I cannot buy."

I dawdled over my java for a good look when they departed. She was a frumpy woman, past 40, with hennaed hair and thick eyeglasses. He had a sorry, freckless face, weak, watery eyes, and a wispy mustache. I was disillusioned, too.

Somehow I got a chuckle out of what was not intended as an amusing sentence in a British novel. It read: "He was a conservative who despised new-fangled nonsense and was killed in a one-way street."
